U.S. 'GESTAPO' DOES ITS STUFF IN RAIL CRISIS

Somervell's Private Army Called Out.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Federal seizure of the railroads, ordered by President Roosevelt, provided a dress rehearsal for the largest police force in the world with the exception of Heinrich Himmler's Gestapo.

Lt. Gen. Somervell.

When the President surprised the nation by ordering the army to take over the railroads as the threatened nation-wide strike, called for today, was collapsing, Lt. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army service forces, moved into action.

Scores of powerfully armed and highly mobile battalions of police were dispatched to key points. The battalions number thousands upon thousands of men trained in house to house fighting, street warfare, and judo.

Known as Somervell Army.

In the army the battalions are known variously as Somervell's private army and Somervell's Gestapo. Their number is considered a military secret. In May, 1942, there were 57 battalions with a total of 37,050 men. Since that time the training of units has been stepped up with the result the force has been considerably stepped up.

There were reports that the force numbers 750,000 men. These reports were said to be exaggerated by the army, but no figures were released on the strength of the service, altho the office of Gen. Somervell claims a major purpose of the police service is to stand ready to aid civilians.

The President's order for army seizure of the railroads was hit as unnecessary by members of congress and union officials. During the White House negotiations on the strike, union leaders privately reported there would be no strike, because they could not take responsibility for paralyzing the war program.

Sought to Help Byrnes.

When the President called on the army to seize the roads, it was felt in congressional and union circles that he was doing so not because he feared a strike, but because he was seeking to enhance the prestige of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes.

The former senator and Supreme court justice, whom New Dealers expect will be the President's 1944 running mate, came out of the coal strike covered with soot instead of glory. It was felt that Mr. Roosevelt had fixed it up so that he could hope to get some luster from helping end the threatened railroad strike by putting the roads under the army.

When Byrnes failed to win any heavy acclaim from the unnecessary move, capital observers were confronted with evidence that the Presidential order had enabled Somervell

18 POUND 10 OUNCE BABY BOY BORN TO TENNESSEE WOMAN

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 30 (AP).—A boy weighing 18 pounds 10½ ounces was born today to Mrs. George Esslinger, 26 year old wife of a war plant worker.

Physicians said it was the largest birth recorded here and they believe it is the fifth largest recorded birth in medical history.

The Esslinger baby was 21 inches in height and its head measurement was 15½ inches. It is the Esslingers' third boy. The child was born nine hours after arrival of the mother at a hospital.

The attending physician, Dr. W. D. Richards, said except for its unusual size the child appeared normal. He said both mother and child were "doing nicely."

Walker Bars Esquire from Low Mail Rate

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker yesterday revoked the second class mailing privilege of Esquire magazine on the ground that it makes no contribution to the public good or the public welfare. In so doing, he overruled a 2 to 1 decision by a postoffice department hearing board which approved the magazine.

David A. Smart, publisher of Esquire, immediately branded Walker's order as "another typical and brazen attempt by the Roosevelt administration to invade freedom of the press" and said the ruling will be appealed to the courts.

Warns Newspapers Are Next.

"I intend to fight it with everything at my command," said Smart, "because postoffice department officials and lawyers at our three weeks' hearing told me it was 'just a beginning.' They said newspapers with comic sections will be the next to feel the 'weight of Walker's sword' and that it will be soon. They bragged that the New Deal, which Roosevelt now says is outmoded, will 'get them one by one.'"

Walker's ruling does not bar the magazine from the mails, but forces the publishers to pay either first, third, or fourth class postal rates, adding approximately half a million dollars annually to its distribution costs.

Walker Quotes Law.

Walker said congress had authorized the postoffice department to grant second class mailing privileges, virtually a federal subsidy, to publications which have as their purpose the "dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry." He held the magazine fails to meet these requirements.

Walker made the revocation order effective Feb. 28, he said, to provide the publication "ample opportunity to appeal."

Calls Decision "Arbitrary."

The magazine's court battle, he said, will be based on the ground that Walker's decision is "completely arbitrary and capricious, and against the weight of the evidence introduced before his own hearing board as well as against the recommendation of his own duly constituted board."

From the beginning of the case, it was said, it was principally the girl drawings of Alberto Varga in the magazine which offended the postoffice department's sense of modesty. Thomas Cargill, deputy first assistant postmaster general, characterized these and the magazine generally as "not obscene in themselves but keeping sex before the reader."

3D FIRE BREAKS OUT IN 2 WEEKS ON ICE IN RIVER

Albert Vay, River Forest fire chief, is getting a little tired of being called on to extinguish the burning ice in the Des Plaines river. He wishes some one would do something about it.

Yesterday the departments from Maywood and River Forest and the forest preserve volunteer department were summoned for the third time in the last two weeks to battle such a blaze—this time half a block north of Chicago avenue.

The blaze spread to several trees on the Maywood shore, and billows of dense black smoke attracted scores of motorists.

It seems that oil is seeping into the Des Plaines river from somewhere, and when the river freezes, the oil gathers in pools on top of the ice.

Chief Vay expressed the belief that the oil may be flowing into the river from a creek which runs past the dump used by the Buick plant in Melrose Park, near 25th street and the Indiana Harbor tracks in the suburb.

Buick plant officials last night, however, denied that any waste oil is dumped there. They said the plant has no waste oil.

Another Unexpected Guest Solves Dinner Problem!

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 30 (AP).—The S. P. Grange family was trying to figure out how to spread their pheasant and quail among more dinner guests than expected, when suddenly a quail crashed thru the front door pane. It was added to the menu.

BAN ON IRONS AND BATHTUBS EASED BY WPB

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Electric irons—perhaps 2 million of them—will be back on store shelves by mid-1944, and cast iron bathtubs are coming back, the war production board announced today. It warned against premature optimism that the bans on other civilian goods production would be eased soon.

You won't need a ration stamp or a priority certificate to buy a new iron, but the 50,000 new bathtubs will be available only for war housing projects, WPB said. The agency emphasized that it is pursuing its policy to relax restrictions on the manufacture of civilian goods, but is handicapped by labor shortages, now that the supplies of metals are more satisfactory.

The quota of 2 million electric irons for 1944 represents 40 per cent of the 5 million household flatirons made in 1941, the peak year for the industry.

Will Ease Hardships.

WPB said the supply of electric irons "will serve to mitigate the hardships caused by two years of almost no production, population shifts caused by the war, and the entry of thousands of women into the war plants."

Man power requirements were the major consideration in the deliberations of the WPB requirements committee. It found electric irons are made largely by assembling parts, which can be done by semi-skilled and female labor in areas where labor shortages are not serious.

Man Power Critical.

"While some raw materials are in greater supply," WPB said, "the man power situation is still highly critical. Shifts in the war production program will release manufacturing facilities in some areas, man power which has been working these facilities will have to be transferred, wherever possible, to war work in other plants.

"It is possible that war production demands by the middle of 1944 will have diminished in certain fields of production so that a number of civilian items can be put into production."

Quota 43% of 1940 Output.

Pre-war electric iron makers will be given the option of accepting a production quota for 1944 equivalent to 43 per cent of the 1940 output, WPB said.

Permission to resume production of bathtubs was granted by WPB after urging by the national housing agency.

Five manufacturers will share equally in the 50,000 quota. They are the Kohler company, Kohler, Wis.; Crane company, Chattanooga, Tenn.; American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation, Louisville, Ky.; Eljer company, Salem, O., and the Richmond Radiator company, Uniontown, Pa.

THE SCRAMBLED HOLIDAYS

TROLLEY CONDUCTOR DEMANDS FARES AND THE REPLY IS: 'BAA'

George Hartung was collecting fares on an eastbound Cermak road trolley car at Wentworth avenue yesterday evening when some one went "baa" at him.

"Fares, please," repeated Hartung, and when the "baa" was repeated he looked around.

"I've been working long hours and I thought maybe I was seeing things, but sure enough there was a goat standing on the platform and trying to get inside where it was warm," Hartung said. "He had only one eye and he was pretty sorry looking. And he smelled like a whole herd of goats, he was that dirty."

Presently the goat moved inside. He seemed pleased with the warmth and made no effort to butt the other passengers. Hartung led him to the front platform, where he made himself at home in a corner after Motorman Chester Kulis tied him to a rod. He's now in the Lawndale district city pound, where his owner can claim him.

REPORT F.D.R. WILL 'PROMOTE' MARSHALL, KING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—The Army and Navy Journal expressed belief today President Roosevelt intends some new and special rank for Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the navy.

The unofficial service publication said there had been sentiment in the past for making Marshall a "field marshal" and designating King "admiral of the fleet."

It recalled President Roosevelt's praise of the two men in his recent radio address and said "there is likelihood the President may reinstate the movement to give them higher rank."

Aloof Martha Lives in Luxury, Enjoys Parties and Stays Late

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Nine miles out in Maryland, at Pook's Hill, a 105 acre $252,000 estate guarded by the zone of the interior military police of the United States army, live four of the six members of the royal house of Norway.

Princess Martha.

Here, in a triple winged mansion of colonial and old English architecture, as remote from a curious, intruding world as they would be on a crag in Norway, live Crown Princess Martha and her three children, Ragnhild, 13, Astrid, 11, and Harald, 6.

The house, purchased by the Norwegian government in 1941 for the use of its refugee princess, sits on a high knoll in the heart of the wooded estate, and visitors must pass an inquisitorial examination at the gate. As far as is known, few go in.

Princess Can't See Press.

Martha of Norway does not receive the press. The press is told this is a royal prerogative. The press counselor at the Norwegian embassy protested: "But a princess cannot see the press. A princess does not." This princess did not. When reminded that Martha and her husband, Crown Prince Olav, gave many interviews when they made a goodwill tour of the United States in 1939, that tour indulged in by every quaking European throne as the Nazi menace loomed, the press counselor laughed mildly and said that was different.

This interview consequently might stop at this paragraph were it not that Martha's life in exile here is in striking contrast to that of another crown princess, Juliana of the Netherlands, in Canada. It is all the more striking in the light of the press counselor's 50 minute dissertation on the democratic royal house of Norway.

This gentleman, a Mr. Olav [pronounced Woo-laaf], received this caller in one of the four large homes on Massachusetts avenue now owned by the Norwegian government. At the outbreak of the war Norway owned only its embassy here, a large white marble structure at 3401 Massachusetts avenue with a staff of 10 persons, including secretarial help. It now owns four neighboring houses and has an administrative staff of between 50 and 60.

Norway Is Democratic.

"Norway," he began, "is the most democratic monarchy in Europe. It has no nobility, no privileged class. It did away with its nobility by law in 1821. It is the only country except Switzerland to have no nobility.

"Only six persons in Norway belong to the royal house. Those are the king, Haakon VII.; his son, Olav, and Martha and the three children.

"King Haakon has no more power than George of England. Norway's government is a constitutional government. And Haakon is the only elected king in Europe.

"Norway and Sweden were united in kingdom with a common king and separate parliaments until 1905. Theodore Roosevelt called what happened then the most gentlemanly revolution in history. The Norwegians held a plebiscite then to determine whether they wanted a constitutional monarchy or a republic, and they voted overwhelmingly for a republic.

Carl Accepts Throne.

"The government then asked Prince Carl of Denmark, who was married to Princess Maude of England, whether he was interested in becoming king. Carl said, 'Yes,' but he would not accept until his name had been placed before the people. So a second plebescite was held and the people accepted Carl. He changed his name to Haakon, and his son, Alexander, changed his name to Olav."

This was the beginning of Mr. Olav's oration. He concluded, sadly, with: "This is the first time in the history of Norway the royal family has been outside of the country." [Haakon and Prince Olav are in London.]

Mr. Olav said that Martha has with her at Pook's Hill a "companion," Mme. Ragni Ostgaard. He said she was not a lady-in-waiting, altho this was the title she was given on the royal tour in 1939.

Necessary for Security.

Mr. Olav said Martha does not live in a mansion, as the wicked press so often misinterprets it, but in "just a comfortable home, not even big." He said its 102 acres of ground were necessary for "security," as are the M. P.'s.

Mr. Olav said the two young princesses and Prince Harald are being brought up "in plain, democratic fashion." He says they attend "an American school where lots of chil-

Marines Win Air Fields on New Britain

Short of Planes

[By Wireless to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune.]

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Dec. 30.—Despite his growing air strength, Gen. MacArthur does not have sufficient planes to maintain a two front air force—one to support ground action, the other to whittle down the enemy's air strength. This was indicated today by aerial reconnaissance over Rabaul, New Britain, which showed 200 Japanese planes on four air strips, enough to replace their losses in New Guinea during the last 10 days. In this time, Gen. MacArthur has not had enough planes to maintain an aerial offensive in the Cape Gloucester, New Britain, and Huon, New Guinea, areas and to protect Arawe, New Britain, and at the same time strike regularly at important Jap bases farther away.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Dec. 31 [Friday]—(AP).—Hard hitting United States marines have cracked stubborn Japanese defenses to capture the vital airdrome at Cape Gloucester, New Britain.

The Leathernecks' final assault put them in full possession of the two air strips at noon yesterday, just four days and a few hours after their invasion landing at Borgen bay on Sunday.

Details of the final hours of the battle were meager, but Gen. MacArthur's war bulletin announcing the success said that "following an intense air preparation our ground forces took the positions by assault."

A headquarters spokesman said an air assault on two successive days had softened up the line of Japanese pillboxes for the marines, who used flame throwers to clear out strong points which survived aerial bombing.

"Many hundreds of Japanese dead are in the area," the spokesman said, adding that American losses were "slight."

The victory gives the allies an airdrome from which to operate against the enemy's lines connecting Kavieng, New Ireland, the Admiralty Islands, and Rabaul, on the northeastern tip of New Britain, all of them important Japanese bases.

Hit Japs with Everything.

SOUTH PACIFIC ALLIED HDQ., Dec. 31 [Friday]—(AP).—The Americans have begun to throw the military book at the hapless Japanese on Bougainville—including airplane belly tanks and paratroopers. The belly tanks were dropped by Warhawk fighter planes along the eastern coast of the last big Solomons island, starting gasoline fires.

The paratroopers went into action to clean out Japanese from a strong point at the upper end of the beachhead held by the Americans at Empress Augusta bay.

Down Five Jap Zeros.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Dec. 30 (AP).—Pushing an unbroken chain of raids on the mid-Pacific Marshall Islands thru the 21st day, army and navy bombers tangled with swarms of defending Japanese planes Tuesday, running their total bag of enemy aircraft since mid-November to a certain 106 and probably 48 others against a loss of 12 of their own.

In the three latest actions reported today, at least five and possibly 15 Japanese Zeros were downed and three United States heavy bombers were lost.

Seventh army air force Liberators attacked Maleolap, Nipponese air and seaplane base in the central Marshalls, destroying two Zeros, probably destroying 10 others, and losing two big bombers.

Light bombers, screened by Airacobras, went in at low level over Mili, southern Marshall air base of the enemy 300 miles north of the American held Gilberts.

Navy Liberators of fleet air wing 2 encountered 10 Zeros near Kwajalein, another Marshall Island enemy air base, destroying three against the loss of one bomber.

RUSSIANS RACE THRU 185 MILE HOLE IN FRONT

LONDON, Dec. 31 [Friday]—(AP).—A routed German army of 22 divisions—perhaps 300,000 men—reeled back in disorder toward the Polish and Rumanian frontiers early today as the Russian 1st Ukrainian army raced after it thru a 185 mile breach in the heart of the German east wall.

More than 300 communities were captured yesterday—making 1,300 in seven days—by the Russians, who now were 43 miles from the pre-1939 Polish border and 90 miles from Rumania as they plunged forward in the Korosten-Berdichev area west of Kiev, Moscow announced.

One of the most important towns taken was Kazatin, a rail junction 15 miles southeast of Berdichev. Its capture dealt a major blow to German communications in the southern Ukraine.

Stalin Tells of Big Gains.

Premier-Marshal Stalin, in a special order of the day yesterday triumphantly summarizing the first six days of the soviet assault, said the Germans were "routed." He announced the Red army had advanced from 30 to 60 miles to capture more than 1,000 towns and hamlets thru Wednesday.

Later the Moscow war report, recorded here by the soviet radio Monitor, gave this picture of the long Russian front:

CENTRAL UKRAINE—Zhitomir's defenses were broken as the Russians advanced well past the Zhitomir-Korosten rail line, their former highwater mark. Stockholm reports said the Germans were abandoning Zhitomir. Soviet columns were in Lugini, 14 miles northwest of Korosten and 43 miles from the old Polish border, and in Samgorod, 28 miles southeast of Berdichev and 90 miles from Rumania.

Tighten Grip on Vitebsk.

SOUTHERN UKRAINE.—A Russian offensive from Zaporozhe captured 30 populated places, including one 22 miles from the manganese ore center of Nikopol. More than 800 Germans were killed as the Nazi forces "retreated hastily," abandoning many prisoners and much material.

WHITE RUSSIA.—More than 1,000 Germans were killed and several populated places were captured as the Russians gripped Vitebsk from the west, north, and east. Moscow reports said they were only a few miles from this German stronghold.

In the Korosten-Berdichev area the Russians were in the eighth day of a swift advance thru the greatest breach ever smashed in a German defense line.

Official Russian announcements and Moscow dispatches indicated the German command had fallen victim to a great strategic blunder—its recent unsuccessful counter-offensive toward Kiev—and was paying with a growing defeat rivaling that at Stalingrad.

"Hitler" Division Routed.

The Red army, which now has driven halfway from Stalingrad to Berlin since the turning point of the war a year ago, has virtually engulfed Zhitomir and Berdichev and is advancing beyond them toward Poland and Rumania.

Stalin ordered the unusually large victory salute of 20 salvoes from 224 Moscow guns in his order addressed to Gen. Nikolai Vatutin, commander of the 1st Ukrainian army.

Among the eight German tank divisions routed were the crack Elite Guard divisions, "Adolf Hitler" and "Reich."

Gen. Vatutin's battering ram assault was unchecked west of the Korosten-Zhitomir rail line, with nothing in sight that appeared likely to stop it short of Poland. Nazi Field Marshal Gen. Fritz von Manstein was in hasty retreat along the front of 185 miles, exhausted by his five week counter-attack and knocked off balance by the terrific Russian come-back.

Zhitomir's Fall Foreseen.

After soviet forces broke the defenses of Zhitomir, the city was expected to fall momentarily. It was the only important locality taken by the German counter-offensive which had not been regained by the Russians.

Gen. Vatutin's forces threatened to drive a corridor thru Von Mannstein's Ukrainian army and separate the group around Kirovograd and the Dnieper bend from those deployed at Berdichev and Zhitomir to the north.

The scope of the German disaster mounted as Russia's Baltic front onslaught 400 miles north of the Kiev front was coupled with the new offensive thru the Dnieper bend from Zaporozhe, 400 miles to the south.

The soviet Baltic forces were within nine miles of the German fortress of Vitebsk and a Berlin broadcast said the Russians were gaining on this front by the sheer weight of men and metal storming against the German lines.

There was stubborn German resistance, particularly southeast of the city, where the Nazis piled in reserves to protect the Vitebsk-Orsha railway, their only escape route.

The new offensive in the southern Ukraine moved steadily toward the important city of Nikopol. It looked like the beginning of an offensive to clear Dnieper bend positions held so long and strongly by the Germans.

Nazis "Guess Wrong."

Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent in Moscow, said that Wednesday, when the Russians took 250 communities west of Kiev and exceeded their previous penetration, was "the blackest day" for the Nazis in Russia.

The German high command, he said, had guessed wrong and been outwitted by the Red army staff. "Von Mannstein's whole Ukrainian front is caving in," Gilmore wrote. "His proud panzer units are piling up in snows. Garrisons out of communications with the command are being surrounded."

The German blunder came in its counter-offensive west of Kiev, Gilmore said. The Germans drew great forces of tanks and men from other sectors of the Russian front and from Europe and threw them into the Kiev sector in hope of obtaining a break-thru, capturing Kiev and regaining the middle Dnieper.

This tremendous effort resulted in the capture of Zhitomir and Korosten and many villages. It resulted, too, in the loss of several thousand German tanks and mobile guns and thousands of soldiers.

How Germans Were Beaten.

After the Russians started their offensive in the Kiev area with supplies and men brought up from the rear, the Germans tried counter-blows in widely scattered parts of the front, south of Zhlobin in White Russia and north of Kirovograd in the Ukraine.

The Russians, however, opened up with their Vitebsk offensive, catching the Germans off guard. Then the counter-attack across the Dnieper from Zaporozhe was begun and the Germans were caught committed to two indecisive counter-attacks in two relatively minor areas.

In the Vitebsk area the Germans admitted "local dents" but said they were sealed off or ironed out.

Reds Surge Ahead on Wide Front

BRITAIN SENDING MORE WARSHIPS TO PACIFIC SEAS

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP).—The British navy, which brought its most successful war year to a climax with the sinking of the German battleship Scharnhorst and three Nazi destroyers, is being employed in increasing force in the Pacific because of the heartening turn in the battle of the Atlantic, the admiralty said tonight in a 1943 review.

The review reiterated that "Britain's world-wide commitments extend to the Pacific" and said: "The strength of the royal navy is being brought increasingly to bear on this theater as a result of the improving situation in European waters."

Despite the widening scope of its tasks, including participation in the record 3,266 ship armada which carried the invasion forces to Sicily, the British navy completed its fourth year of war without the loss of a single capital ship or aircraft carrier.

The admiralty said its losses consisted of one cruiser and an unspecified number of destroyers, corvettes, submarines, minesweepers, and trawlers.

Successes Scored in 1943.

Among significant 1943 developments the review listed:

The mid-Atlantic air cover gap in the convoy routes was bridged by small aircraft carrier escorts and acquisition of Azores bases.

New methods were devised for escort ships, making U-boat packs "the attacked rather than the attackers."

Penetration of Alten fjord in Norway by British midget submarines which severely damaged the German battleship Tirpitz.

More than 100 enemy ships, exclusive of the Scharnhorst and three destroyers sunk this week, were sunk or damaged during the year.

Nazi cargoes sunk "probably included no less than 30,000 tons of rubber, 5,000 tons of tin, and 25,000 tons of edible oil."

Dispute Over Naval Battle.

Both Britain and Germany claimed an important naval victory from the Bay of Biscay battle in which British warships engaged 11 Nazi destroyers early this week.

The British admiralty yesterday announced three German destroyers were sunk and others damaged during a running battle, while the British light cruisers Glasgow and Enterprise were damaged and two British planes were lost.

The German high command today claimed the sinking of six British destroyers and damage to the Glasgow and Enterprise, against the loss of one German destroyer and two motor torpedo boats sunk and other German craft damaged.

There was no official comment in London on the German claims, as British warships sought more units of Hitler's thinning surface forces.

BRITAIN'S ARMY, R. A. F. HAIL 1943 AS BANNER YEAR

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Tremendous improvement in the striking power of the British and American forces on land and in the air was reported tonight in the 1943 reviews of the British army and air force.

Nine of Germany's 21 major industrial cities with populations of more than 250,000 have been "so seriously devastated" by bombing raids that "in all probability they have been forced for some time to consume more than they produce," the R. A. F. review said, while many other industrial cities also have been devastated. Hamburg, Germany's largest port and second industrial city, "suffered the most serious damage of any industrial city in the world between July 23 and Aug. 3" at a cost of 87 bombers, the R. A. F. said.

Air raids were said to have created a shortage of German guns, tanks, and aircraft in Russia and forced the withdrawal from that front of aircraft to an extent that the German forces fighting there have inadequate air cover.

Air Superiority Won.

Other highlights of the air force review were:

The allies have achieved air superiority in every war theater and sent planes on the offensive all around the world.

Many more U-boats have been destroyed by the coastal command in 1943 than in the three previous years together. All the North Atlantic is covered by shore based aircraft.

Carrying heavier bomb loads and using the new pathfinder technique the R. A. F. has been able to bomb Europe harder and oftener thruout with reduced losses.

During the entire year the R. A. F. lost only four planes while defending its own country and shot down 315 planes over Britain.

The battles of the Ruhr and Hamburg marked the campaign, causing immense destruction in Cologne, Essen, Dortmund, Duesseldorf, Wuppertal, Bochum, and Rheydt.

Axis Losses in Sicily.

The army review told how the battle of El Alamein, Egypt, heralded a glorious sequence of victories in North Africa, with practically every axis soldier in Tunisia killed or captured.

It said the campaign on Sicily cost the axis 24,000 Germans and 8,000 Italians killed and wounded, and 7,000 Germans and 128,000 Italians taken prisoner. In addition, 500 guns, 260 tanks, and 1,000 aircraft were captured and more than 700 enemy aircraft were shot down.

Of the Burma front, the army said that, while the forces there are too small to undertake the reconquest of Burma, a small advance has been made to teach the troops jungle warfare and to test new methods of operating in highly mobile groups.

The past year was marked by increasingly arduous offensive training by British troops and American and Canadian forces in Britain, the review said, in which new tactics and improved weapons were devised.

2 MARINE SONS OF POLICEMAN MEET IN PACIFIC

James M. [Bill] Tobin, son of Police Patrolman William H. Tobin of the Warren avenue station, has caught up with his young brother, Thomas Patrick, in the South Pacific war theater at last, Patrolman Tobin has just learned. A letter from somewhere in the war area was signed by both.

James is 28 years old. Tom is 22. Bill joined the marines six months after Tom and vowed to catch up with the youngster.

The meeting was delayed, however, because Bill was sent to Puerto Rico and then to California on construction jobs, while Tom blazed a trail with the marines as a member of Carlson's raiders—in an early assault on Makin Island, a Midway Island raid, as a member of the first group to land on Guadalcanal, and in the Tulagi action.

The letter said both were well and hinted that Tom might be given a furlough soon, after nearly two years of duty. Tom won the Purple Heart for wounds received in action, and his regiment was cited by the President.

Unit of Puerto Rican Troops Now in Europe

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Dec. 30 (AP).—Maj. Gen. William E. Shedd, United States army commander in the Antilles department, disclosed today that one unit of Puerto Rican troops was in the European theater, and said others might follow soon. Puerto Ricans have been called to the colors "by the thousands," Shedd said.

Mrs. F. D. R. Angered Troops, Says Returned Pacific Yank

New Bedford, Mass., Dec. 30 [Special]. — Comments made by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt when she visited South Pacific war fronts last fall aroused such resentment among American soldiers that military police were placed on guard to quiet them, a returned veteran was quoted today as relating in an interview.

Sgt. William Baron Jr., invalided home because of a tropical skin disease, said American soldiers in the South Pacific are "tired of pretty speeches, and that goes for Mrs. Roosevelt."

He was a patient at a hospital in New Caledonia when the President's wife visited there last September. In an article published in the New Bedford Standard-Times he told details of her call and also of a visit he said she made a few days afterward with numerous Yanks in a beer garden in the town of Noumea, New Caledonia.

"Lot of Resentment."

"There was a lot of talk and resentment among the soldiers regarding a statement which they said she made there," Baron was quoted as saying.

"It was: 'We all know that you would like to be walking the streets of the United States, but the President has decided to give you the privilege of walking the streets of Tokio.'"

Because of the feeling that resulted from Mrs. Roosevelt's remark, the soldier related, according to the story, "MP's were kept around there for a few days quieting them down." He explained that "it was another case of telling the boys they didn't want to go home when they did."

Weary of Home Strife.

Baron also declared, the Standard-Times said, that American jungle fighters not only are tired of pretty speeches but are weary and bitter from hearing of so much strife back home between labor unions and the government. He said they also are annoyed in reading interviews with returned service men which lead the public to believe life in the South Pacific is a paradise.

"War is hell anywhere," he was quoted as saying, "and as for the home front, I have no use for the unions and the leaders who are making all this trouble while soldiers are fighting and dying over there. The folks at home ought to know just how the men out there feel about things back here."

CHICAGO'S SPELL BINDS EXILES ON ITALIAN FRONT

3 Meet and Share Food and Memories.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE 5TH ARMY BEFORE SAN VITTORE, Dec. 29 [Delayed].—Chicagoans have a way of taking care of each other, especially when they meet far from home.

It was cold in the noisy, tho beautiful Liri river valley today as American artillery pounded the little town of San Vittore which is on the way to Cassino and not far from the main Rome to Naples highway. Newspaper men touring the front in a jeep stopped near the town of San Pietro where doughboys crouched behind a stone wall.

"Where's the front?" the correspondents asked.

A Place to Eat.

The jeep passengers had been several hours on the road. They were hungry and asked for food at a mess tent.

"Too late," said the tall young man in charge, "but I might find something for any one from Chicago. I might."

"Well, I'm from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE," said one.

The tall fellow looked him over carefully and said, "Brother, if that's true, anything here is yours. Think of it. A guy from Chicago."

The hungry newspaper men soon had plates loaded with roast beef, spaghetti, and beets, and cups filled with grapefruit juice. Their benefactor identified himself as Pvt. David Abromowitz, 4823 Sawyer avenue, Chicago, and led the way to his tent which was pitched over a pleasantly deep slit trench.

From beneath his blankets he resurrected an ancient, tattered copy of a Chicago newspaper which obviously had been read and reread many times, and there, with the guns booming in the valley below, the two Chicagoans talked about little, commonplace things.

Talk of Home.

There were the subway neither had seen and recollections of State and Madison streets on New Year's eve where neither will be this year. There were Randolph street when the shows let out and the Christmas carols from Tribune Tower.

Abromowitz said he had a brother, Samuel, fighting in the South Pacific from whom he had not heard in six weeks.

Pvt. James Goodwin, a professional dancer before he joined the army, came in to talk a while. He had lived in Chicago three years. His wife is Vera Martin, former New York City professional model. After talking an hour, the exiles took snapshots of one another, almost as tho it were an ordinary peace time outing, then shook hands and said good-by.

"See you some day at Randolph and Clark streets," said Abromowitz.

EXPECT BOLIVIAN RECOGNITION BY ARGENTINA SOON

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 30 (AP).—A diplomatic report has been received that Argentina will recognize the new revolutionary government of Bolivia.

The report indicated Argentine recognition might have been received by the La Paz regime of President Maj. Gualberto Villarroel, swept into office this month in a coup d'etat. Argentina alone did not receive the proposal by the inter-American committee not to recognize any de facto government before study.

Would Recognize Soviet.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—To clear itself of suspicion of axis leanings, the new Bolivian government instructed its representative, Enrique de Lozada, today to initiate Bolivian recognition of the soviet union thru the intermediary of the United States.

De Lozada has declared he will resign if he discovers Argentina had a hand in the coup which established Maj. Gualberto Villarroel's government. De Lozada is in an awkward position since the United States does not recognize his government.

1944—YEAR OF DELIVERANCE, SAYS DEVERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—The year 1944 promises to be "the year of deliverance," Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, United States army commander in the European theater who will become deputy commander in the Mediterranean theater, told 62 British graduates of the royal military college officer cadet training unit at Aldershot today.

He said the new officers would take part in "what well may be the most stirring and far-reaching events in the annals of the world."

"We approach the coming year with confidence springing from the knowledge of our ever increasing power in men and materials and from our favorable strategic position," he said.

"Today allied forces are again closing in upon the enemy, this time from the south, east, and west. In this theater allied air forces have long gained control and it may be prophesied that for each bomber used during the battle of Tunis, a squadron of bombers, if necessary, will be used against the enemy in the future."

ILLINOIS AIRMEN ON INDIAN FRONT GIVEN MEDALS

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 20 [Delayed]—(AP).—Five members of an American medium bombardment group have been awarded distinguished flying crosses for "extraordinary achievement" while participating in combat missions totaling more than 200 hours. They include Sgt. Willard E. McDermott of 2040 Glenview road, Wilmette, Ill., radio operator. The flights were made from bases in India and China over Burma, Thailand, and the Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal.

Several others in the same group received air medals for "meritorious achievement" in missions totaling more than 100 hours. They include Lt. Gordon J. Schmeisser, Valders, Wis., and 2d Lt. Peter B. Conner, Sherrard, Ill.

New Advances on Italian Front

YANKS BLASTING PATH TOWARD ROME HIGHWAY

Hammer Way Into San Vittore.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 30 (AP).—American troops fought thru the streets of the demolished village of San Vittore today, blasting out a path to the strategic city of Cassino on the main inland highway to Rome, while Canadian forces pressed on beyond Ortona on the Adriatic coast to within nine miles of Pescara.

San Vittore, on the southern base of Mount Samuero six miles from Cassino, was reduced to rubble by a terrific American artillery bombardment yesterday before Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's infantry left its foxholes and charged into the village. An American patrol previously had penetrated into its streets, only to be driven out by fiercely resisting Nazis.

[A Berlin broadcast recorded in London yesterday said the allies had made a leapfrog landing on the Italian west coast near the mouth of the Garigliano river. The broadcast said the forces were intercepted on the beaches before reaching the Appian way leading to Rome and that as a result the action was localized.]

Every Building Destroyed.

A dispatch from Don Whitehead, Associated Press correspondent at the front, said that the Germans had made the center of San Vittore a fortress—as they have every Italian village thru which they retreated—and that it was necessary to destroy every building before getting at them with guns and bayonets.

The Nazis also are strongly entrenched in caves and dugouts on slopes north of San Vittore, as well as on a ridge east of the town, and it was a slow, costly process to dig them out. This is believed to be the enemy's last powerful outpost before Cassino, which is 70 miles from Rome on the Via Casilina.

Canadian troops in the two days since Ortona's fall had swept across a wide area west of the town and were reported approaching the valley of the little Tesore river. Infantry was pushing along the coastal road to Pescara, while tanks cut across country. The Nazis' rearguard made one brisk stand a mile outside Ortona, and enemy long range artillery shelled the Canadians thruout the cold day.

British Win Town.

Near the center of the Italian line, British troops occupied and pushed on thru Castel di Sangro, headquarters announced. The town is six miles northeast of Alfedena, on the western bank of the upper Sangro river. A hard fight was in progress at Villa Santa Maria, in the mountains 22 miles inland from the Adriatic.

Fifth army troops in the central sector stormed 3,000 foot Mount Cersauola, five miles east of Biagio, after a half mile advance. The hill, which previously was reported to be under assault by French Moroccan units, overlooks the Colle-Atina highway.

American Flying Fortresses, Marauders, and other allied bombers again concentrated on blocking seaports and railroads.

Bulgar Brigade Joins Tito.

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP).—Reports of Bulgarian troops switching over to join the Jugo-Slav army of liberation were followed today by a Partisan announcement that Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz had organized a brigade of Bulgarians.

Despite reconciliation efforts there has been no cessation of hostilities between Tito's red starred followers and the Chetnik forces of Gen. Draja Mihailovitch, it was said.

At Preboj in Bosnia the Partisans said they had destroyed a railroad line and killed 76 "Mihailovitch soldiers."

Jugo-Slav Partisans, advancing into northern Italy, have destroyed a German transport column near Gorizia, on the railway extending southward to the Adriatic port of Trieste, Tito announced. The victories added new territory to Hinterland areas estimated at 41,000 square miles—roughly a third of all Jugo-Slavia — already liberated by Tito's armies.

BRITISH HOMES HELD TO 400-500 POUNDS OF COAL IN JANUARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 30.—Supplies of house and kitchen coal to domestic and other controled premises will be limited during January to 400 pounds in the south of England and 500 pounds in northern areas, the ministry of fuel announced today. The restrictions, it was explained, are due to the coal shortage and the need to provide against future coal requirements for military operations. Consumers were warned also that the restricted deliveries do not represent rations, and that in some areas even these quantities may not be available because of transportation difficulties.

FATHER OF 9 INDUCTED.

Madison, Ill., Dec. 30 (AP).—Sgt. Otto Hamilton, of the Illinois state highway patrol, 37 years old, father of nine children, has been inducted into the navy.

GEN. 'IKE' HOLDS MILITARY TALK WITH DE GAULLE

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

ALGIERS, Algeria, Dec. 30.—Gen. Eisenhower today called on Gen. Charles de Gaulle, president of the French committee of national liberation, and talked with him for half an hour. He was accompanied by Col. Lawrence Higgins, American liaison officer with the French army.

Eisenhower had not had a prolonged visit with De Gaulle in several months, and today's meeting to discuss military subjects was regarded as opening what one official called a new era in relations between De Gaulle and the United States.

Political relations presumably were discussed when Edwin C. Wilson, American diplomatic representative, called on De Gaulle this afternoon.

Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, it was rumored, will command French expeditionary units training in North Africa under Gen. Henri Giraud.

Invasion Headquarters Ready.

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP).—Invasion headquarters of Gen. Eisenhower were being made ready tonight for his early arrival, and conferences of the high command were expected to begin within a short time.

The one big gap in the invasion command not yet filled is the field commander of the American armies, the counterpart of Gen. Montgomery, who already has been named to lead the British ground forces.

This selection is expected to be announced shortly and speculation in London was that the choice is between Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, at present commander of the 5th army in Italy, and Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the 2d army corps, with Clark considered the more likely.

Naval Chief in Britain.

Eisenhower's arrival soon probably will be the signal for the return here of his deputy, Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder, and Gen. Montgomery, both of whom have been his associates in the Mediterranean campaign.

The naval commander in chief, Adm. Bertram Ramsay, and the air commander in chief, Air Chief Marshal Trafford L. Leigh-Mallory, already are in Britain.

It was considered probable that the American and British military leaders might be joined in some of their conferences by Russian representatives.

40 Nazi Divisions in West.

Final disposition of the allied forces depends to a considerable extent on German moves between now and the day of the invasion. Both sides are already engaged in trying to outguess each other in the greatest military chess game in the world.

Germany is believed to have 300 field divisions, at something less than their original strength of 15,000 each, deployed on all fronts. Forty are believed to be in France and the low countries.

U. S. 'TASK FORCE' OF 1,500 PLANES RAIDS GERMANY

Biggest Yankee Assault Costs 22 Bombers.

LONDON, Dec. 31 [Friday]—(AP).—A record force of approximately 1,500 American planes blasted southwest Germany yesterday in a vast air assault which sent at least 3,000 British and United States warplanes over Germany and occupied territory in the last 24 hours.

The American daylight attack, which also set a record for the deepest penetration by escorting fighter planes, some of which flew the entire 1,100 mile round trip, came a few hours after R. A. F. night raiders had dealt Berlin a shattering 2,240 ton blow.

A joint United States 8th air force-air ministry report early today said 23 German fighters were destroyed while the American force lost 22 bombers and 12 fighters in fights raging across France into Germany.

Chicagoan on Raid.

R. A. F., dominion, and allied fighters flew supporting sweeps for the giant American operation, the objectives of which were not announced.

The German fighters used rockets in attacking at least one bomber formation. Sgt. Frank J. Hazzard of 2541 Belden avenue, Chicago, a gunner, said: "They missed our tail and knocked down the ship behind us. I saw another ship split in two."

In the official announcement the armada of Fortresses and Liberators with their hundreds of supporting fighters was described as a "task force," apparently to underline the magnitude of the operation.

Returning American crewmen said one southwest German objective was heavily bombed by a "sky full" of heavy bombers which made the 8½ hour round trip to cascade explosives thru thick clouds, presumably with the aid of new navigational devices which permit attacks thru an overcast.

The greatest previous force of United States planes thrown against the Nazi dominated continent numbered more than 1,300 heavy bombers and fighters which smashed the French invasion and "rocket gun coast" Dec. 24.

Raid Rocket Coast.

The operation was the eighth of the month for the British based United States 8th air force and its first major operation since Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle became its commander.

Besides these latest mighty bombings of Berlin and southwest Germany, large formations of medium bombers and fighters ranged over the so-called "rocket gun coast" of France yesterday.

R. A. F. bombers apparently had taken up the cross channel offensive after dark. Reports from the English southeast coast said planes were heard going toward France at nightfall and that a number of them returned within two hours. Several continental radio stations also left the air, ususally an indication of night air raids.

London had a brief alert last night but there was no report of bombing.

HEAVIER BLOWS FACE JAPS IN '44, SAYS ADM. KING

'Nazi Defeat' to Bring Shift of Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Adm. Ernest J. King, the nation's No. 1 naval officer, today predicted Germany will be defeated in 1944 and that "unremitting pressure on Japan will be continued and increased during the year."

Adm. King.

Commander in chief of the United States fleet, chief of naval operations, and a member of the combined chiefs of staffs of the United States and Great Britain, King made his predictions at one of his rare press conferences.

During the conference he puffed thoughtfully at cigarets and frequently pointed to the large wall map in his office in the navy munitions building. He weighed his words carefully.

It's Still "Hitler First."

The admiral revealed it is still the allied grand strategy to deal first with Hitler and then turn to the Pacific. This plan has met with severe criticism in congress and in military circles.

It has been widely said the Pacific is America's most important front. Various spokesmen have warned that this country will get little or no help from its European allies, once Hitler is liquidated.

Adm. King defended the island hopping strategy against Japan, which has been severely criticized by Gen. MacArthur, allied commander in chief in the Southwest Pacific. The admiral acknowledged that island hopping is not the most effective plan of attack, but said the navy must necessarily employ it as long as the emphasis is on the European conflict.

No Guess on Losses.

The admiral made no prediction on losses. Since unfavorable reaction followed the recent prediction of 500,000 casualties in launching a European invasion, the administration has abandoned this form of attempting to steel public morale. The half million prediction was made annonymously last week and later traced to Mobilization Director James W. Byrnes.

Adm. King's discussion of grand strategy came when he was asked whether the navy is prepared to fight a full scale war against the European continent as well as in the Pacific.

"I don't think you should consider the navy alone," he said. "The army air and ground forces have developed considerable teamwork and Gen. Marshall [army chief of staff] and I have endeavored for two years to strengthen the idea not only in theory but in practice.

Navy Ready for Both Foes.

"On the whole the answer is that since the grand strategy of the war is to deal primarily with Germany and then with Japan, the navy—as one great branch of our fighting power—is ready to do its part against Germany and do its part against Japan.

"I don't know whether any one else has announced it but it would be an obvious thing — that studies have been under way for several months looking to a shift of power from the European theater to the Pacific theater, not only when Germany is defeated but as her defeat seems near at hand," he said.

The admiral expressed doubt that the Japanese, in view of heavy naval and merchant shipping losses, will be able to undertake any sustained offensive in the Pacific in 1944.

"I don't quite see how they are going on the offensive where they are in contact in the Pacific," he said. "What they may do in China, Manchuria, or even in Burma is something else.

Japs Short of Ships.

"Their shipping losses, which are going on constantly, are putting them in a position where the only offensive that would get them anywhere in the Pacific is amphibious. But they are getting shorter and shorter of ships, and a large number is necessary to do that. They might dredge up enough for one such operation, but I don't think they are very happy about their shipping situation."

Questioned about continuance of the island hopping campaign in the Pacific, he said: "Of course, I'm afraid that question is like the famous one: 'do you still beat your wife?' We never have had the intention of island hopping. The so-called island hopping is due in large measure to the limitation of ways and means available to do anything. That is a big factor in the Pacific. If we had more out there we could strike at more points with more force. We don't do it [island hopping] intentionally."

Adm. King said American efforts to lure the Jap fleet out of its base at Truk will be continued.

U. S. FLYERS RAID INDO-CHINA, RICE BOWL AND BURMA

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 30 (AP).—Bombers and fighters of the United States 14th air force have been hammering at the Japanese from the rice bowl area of Central China to Burma and French Indo-China, it was announced today. These widespread operations over a period of three days have been carried out without loss.

Fighters struck into Central Burma yesterday, raiding three towns, damaging rail facilities and a power plant.

An attack by six Japanese bombers and an escort of 30 Zeros on one of the American forward air bases Monday caused slight damage. Four Zeros were shot down and probably five others, one United States fighter was knocked out in the air, with the pilot parachuting to safety.

WIFE DIVORCES PILOT OF FAMED 'FORT,' MARTINI

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 30 (AP).—Maj. Allen V. Martini of San Francisco, pilot of the widely known Flying Fortress Dry Martini, in action over Europe, was divorced today by Muriel Martini on grounds of cruelty.

Superior Judge Alfred J. Fritz issued an order for the major to pay $75 monthly for three years to Mrs. Martini and $75 monthly in addition for the support of a 15 month old son, John.

Mrs. Martini said Martini had become indifferent to her and had been friendly with other women.

Army Inducts Publisher, So He Will Close Paper

Evansville, Ill., Dec. 30 (AP).—Raymond Gerlach, publisher of the Evansville Enterprise, said today the weekly newspaper, which is 47 years old, will suspend publication Jan. 7. Gerlach, 32 years old, was inducted into the army this week. He has two children.

PARATROOPS OFF FOR ROME—THEN SIGNALS CHANGE

An allied plan to capture Rome with paratroops a few hours before the Americans landed at Salerno was called off just as the first planes were taxiing down the runways in Sicily, Seymour Korman, Chicago Tribune war correspondent back from the Italian front, told members of the Union League club yesterday.

Explaining to a luncheon crowd why he was not with American troops in their first landing in Italy, Korman said, "I missed that invasion because I was slated to go on another show."

"I was sitting on top of the biggest story of the war," Korman said, "but the lid never came off. I was with an American airborne division which was to seize Rome—the big city itself—on the night of Sept. 8, some hours before the landing around Salerno.

Learn of German Strength.

"I was in the plane in Sicily, ready to take off—actually taxiing across the field—when word came that the operation was off. There'd been a slight hitch. Instead of the Germans having a small force around Rome, they had 48,000 men, 270 tanks, and 100 big guns. So that was the story that might have been."

Explaining the apparent slowness of the allied advance in Italy, Korman declared that "the German is defending as he has never before in this theater." He said the Nazis had built a powerful chain of resistance in country ideally designed for defense.

"And now he's being aided by the elements," Korman said. "The allied forces are handicapped by some of the worst November and December weather southern Italy has known in years—cold and rain, and the earth churned into vast fields of mud. With the coming of the new year, there are some more months of cold, but it will be a clearer cold, less rain, and the enemy will lose some of his defensive advantage."

Tie Up 40 Divisions.

The American and British armies are now fighting along a front in the narrowest point of Italy, about 100 miles long, but have tied up between 35 and 40 German divisions in Italy and the Balkans, Korman said.

One of the few instances when American forces used mines—usually the weapon of a retreating army—was credited by Korman with halting the Nazi counter-attack that nearly drove the invaders into the sea at Salerno. The Germans had forced American troops from one road and then sent two armored cars and eight Mark IV. tanks down that lane, Korman explained.

"They paid for that mistake," he declared. "In this war you don't go down the middle of a road until you've searched for and cleared mines, but the Germans never thought we'd use them. Those armored cars and tanks were blown to pieces and the psychological effect on the Germans was terrific. The counter-attack petered out."

Lauds Allied Coöperation.

Korman praised the coöperation of all branches and services. He told of one instance when an artillery observation post spotted three German tanks and was just about to order fire on them when a tremendous shell smashed into the tanks, destroying two of them. That shell, he said, came from a warship which also had seen the target.

"That kind of friendly rivalry between our army and navy isn't doing the Germans any good," he added.

Recalling that it took Garibaldi 24 days to get his forces across the Volturno in his fight for the unification of Italy, Korman said it took the Americans less than a week, but he quoted Lt. Gen. Mark Clark, 5th army commander, as saying, "Garibaldi didn't have Americans or jeeps."

Why Yank Soldier Fights.

Korman quoted an American soldier, grim, weary, hungry, standing in the ruins of Battipaglia where not a building was left standing:

"You want to know how we feel being so far from home? You want to know why we think we are fighting this war, and what we hope for? I don't know all the answers. I don't know much about the dream of four freedoms, or what the other plans are for the world when this is over. I only know that I'm fighting so that no city in America shall ever look like this."

EXPECT CROWD TO HEAR SPARKS ADDRESS JAN. 10

C. Nelson Sparks, former mayor of Akron, O., and author of the book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie," will draw a capacity crowd when he addresses the Republican nationalist revival committee in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman on Jan. 10, William J. Grace, committee secretary, predicted yesterday.

Grace told members of the organization's executive committee at their meeting last night that advance interest indicated the ballroom will be filled. The meeting will be held the same day the Republican national committee meets in Chicago to select the date and location for the party's 1944 convention.

Grace said press releases outlining the committee's determination to continue its efforts in circulating nominating petitions to place the name of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in the Illinois Presidential preferential primary are being mailed to all Illinois newspapers, Republican county committee chairmen, and secretaries and to all elected Republican state officials.

"The signatures will be obtained and the petitions will be filed," Grace declared.

ILLINOIS TO AID SOLDIER VOTE, GREEN ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 30.—Illinois will do its part in helping soldiers to vote, Gov. Dwight H. Green said tonight at the start of a meeting of election law experts and legislative leaders. Under consideration is a special session of the legislature to make any changes determined necessary.

Meeting with the governor in the executive mansion were Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder, Werner Schroeder, Republican national committeeman who early this year codified the election statutes; Arnold P. Benson, president pro tem of the Illinois senate; Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the Illinois house, and Majority Leader Reed F. Cutler of the house.

"We want to do whatever we can in line with all the circumstances and factors to facilitate voting by our fighting men," Gov. Green said. "Illinois absentee voting laws already are ahead of those of most states, but if we can improve them for war time elections, it should be done."

U. S. AIR CREWS GIVEN WHISKY TO EASE FATIGUE

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 30.—For the first time in history American plane combat crews are now receiving whisky at the expense of the government in an experiment to relieve "pilot fatigue."

This radical change in war department policy extends to all war theaters, it was learned today by THE TRIBUNE. But it applies only to combat flyers and not to the ordinary GI's crouching in the bitter cold and snow and rain of Italian foxholes.

The air force in the North African theater received this privilege following its authorization on Aug. 10 by the air surgeon in Washington, D. C., at the same time that a similar recommendation by physicians on the war front was being considered by allied headquarters here.

Get 2 Ounce Shots.

Shortly after Washington informed allied headquarters that combat crews were permitted to receive a whisky dole, a requisition went forward from this headquarters for 22,000 cases—six months' supply.

The whisky is administered in allotments of 2 ounce shots. Upon returning from a combat mission each member of a crew is given a drink of good government purchased bourbon under auspices of medical officers.

Needless to say, this innovation received an enthusiastic acclamation from the airmen. It is strictly on a volunteer basis, however, and if an airman has scruples against drinking he is not forced to drink.

The handling of the first whisky shipment—estimated to occupy no more than half a hold on a Liberty ship—as well as future shipments, has been made entirely an air force problem. It was reported authoritatively also that the office of the surgeon general in this theater has not been in favor of the innovation, tho only on the ground of the extensive administration problems involved.

Urged for Land Troops.

Most military medical men to whom this correspondent has spoken favored a whisky allotment for front line troops, particularly during the winter. Physicians who have been on the Italian front with doughboys, rangers, troopers, artillerymen, engineers, and supply soldiers often have said the morale and physical well being of these fighters would be improved if it were possible to give them a "shot" of liquor at dawn and dusk.

In recent months some Scotch whisky, shipped from Britain, has been available in very limited quantities for purchase by those army officers who are aware of its presence. But most American officers, as well as the enlisted men, are dependent for alcoholic stimulant on the local raw French spirits and wine. British officers are permitted to buy Scotch, Canadian rye, or gin on a limited ration basis from their post exchanges.

Phone Dead, Yank Doubletalk Radio 'Line' Helps Win Fight

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Dec. 29 [Delayed]—(AP).—Fast thinking and Texas double talk are a good substitute for secret code when telephone communications go out at the front.

Capt. Jalvin Newall, of Huntsville, Tex., proved this at Mount Samucro when telephone lines to the battalion command were knocked out by mortar fire.

Newall's men had gone down from the Samucro peak to a hill on the lower left. Just when things began to look pretty bad in the early morning his telephone to the battalion command went out. The only communication left was radio. He called Lt. Richard Burrage, of Waco, Tex., and said:

"Listen, Dick. Now get this straight. I started to the postoffice to deliver mail and ran into the roughest road you ever saw."

"What's that again?" Burrage asked. "I thought you said something about going to the postoffice."

Double Talk Takes Effect.

"That's exactly what I said," replied Newall and by this time Burrage began to understand what was happening.

He carefully noted the message and then went into a huddle with Maj. David Frazier of Houston, Tex. Together they realized that Newall meant he had started for his objective and run into trouble.

"Okay, go ahead," Burrage called back on the radio.

"I don't know whether to leave the mail on the road or bring it back. Maybe you'd better notify the postmaster," said Newall.

From this Burrage and Frazier figured Newall was trying to tell them he wanted to know whether he should leave the men in position or withdraw them and wanted a decision from the commanding officer.

"I've been down to see Jerry Sadler," continued Newall. "I found 37 letters from Able, 52 from Baker, and 43 from Charles. I got the solitaire grease and I'm afraid when the sun comes up it will melt and I'd like to get it back to the kitchen before it spoils."

They Hold the Post.

That one was not so easy to unravel, especially the part about Jerry Sadler, who is a well known figure in Texas politics. But finally Burrage and Frazier had it.

They decided Newall had seen Jerries in the saddle of the mountain where the doughboys were, but the strength of the A-B-C companies was so low he was afraid that when the sun melted the mists off the mountain the Germans might open up and inflict heavy casualties.

Newall thought perhaps he had better bring his men back to the crest of the mountain before the Germans got the range.

His messages were relayed to the commanding officer and the order went back, "Leave the mail on the road. Do not bring it back."

200 AT LUNCHEON IN CHICAGO CLUB HONOR DOWNES

Rear Adm. John Downes, who retires as commandant of the ninth naval district Jan. 3, was honored yesterday at a luncheon in the Chicago club at which Mayor Kelly was host to 200 business, civic, and labor leaders.

James B. Forgan, president of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, disclosed that Adm. Downes will become executive officer in the Chicago offices of the organization.

Rear Adm. Arthur S. Carpender will relieve Adm. Downes as commanding officer of the district in ceremonies to be held at 11 a. m. Monday in the commandant's office at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Adm. Carpender is coming to the 9th naval district from command of allied naval forces in the Southwest Pacific.

READY TO STRIKE KILLING BLOWS, HALSEY REPORTS

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—Adm. William F. Halsey, American commander in the South Pacific, says in a New Year's message to the home front that "never have we been so ready to strike killing blows in so many places, simultaneously.

"We propose to strike these blows again and again."

"We have our country's enemy in full retreat on all fronts of this war along the equator—on the land, above it; on the sea, and under it. We cannot now be halted.

"We aim to fight our way along the straight road to Tokio."

R.A.F. REICH RAID TONNAGE PASSES 200,000 TON MARK

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP).—The R. A. F. night bomber fleets which heaped destruction on Berlin last night in the eighth heavy assault in six weeks boosted the total bomb weight dropped on Germany by the British since the war began to more than 200,000 tons. It was the 99th British attack, including Mosquito stabs, on the Nazi capital. Berlin had been hit by over 11,000 tons of bombs in the seven previous heavy assaults.

Berlin still was digging out from the wreckage of a 1,000-ton blow early Dec. 24 when the 2,240 ton raid hit it. "We now live in an immense ruin in which there is nothing more to bomb," a Swedish correspondent in Berlin reported to Stockholm. The knock-out campaign began Nov. 18 when the R. A. F. hurled 2,500 long tons [a long ton is 2,240 pounds] on Berlin and Ludwigshafen. The succeeding raids on Berlin were:

Nov. 22—1,000 bombers dropping 2,300 long tons.
Nov. 23—An estimated 1,400 tons.
Nov. 26—More than 1,000 tons.
Dec. 2—More than 1,500 tons.
Dec. 16—1,500 tons.
Dec. 24—1,000 tons.

3 RAILS UNIONS RIP U. S. MESS OF PAY DISPUTE

Accuse Administration of Delay and Bungling.

F. D. R. Ultimatum

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP). — President Roosevelt advised the 15 nonoperating railroad unions today he is prepared to rule on their wage demands, but declines to be bound by limitations set forth in their acceptance of arbitration.

The President asked for an answer by 10 a. m. tomorrow if his basis of procedure is not acceptable. The unions are expected to stand their ground and insist overtime is the only issue, inasmuch as they have accepted the 4 to 10 cent increases.

Overtime was not an issue when the 4 to 10 cents was approved by Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson. The carriers contend now that if there is to be an allowance for overtime, consideration must be given to the 4 to 10 cent increases because the 10 cents was allowed to eliminate substandard conditions and would not have been necessary if payment was made for overtime.

The President advised the unions the 4 to 10 cents would not be reduced, but added: "If I am to arbitrate the question of what should be given for overtime in the future I could not be debarred in advance from considering whether or not there is merit in the carriers' contention."

The unions contend the sliding scale is not arbitrable and believe that if it is considered in conjunction with overtime the amount due under one item or the other would be reduced.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—Chiefs of the three railroad unions who canceled strike authorizations only after government seizure of the nation's railroad system, accused the administration tonight of delay and mishandling of the wage dispute.

The joint statement was issued by top officers of the firemen, conductors, and switchmen shortly after the war department declared that it could not return the railroads to private management as it desired because at least two of the unions had merely postponed their strike orders for the period of government control rather than cancel them.

They also charged that two other operating brotherhoods, who capitulated first, had struck them "a stab in the back."

Awaited U. S. Move.

The statement disclaimed any responsibility for the taking over of the carriers, and asserted that "for five days we and other responsible representatives of our unions were waiting for some representative of the administration to make some move in the direction of an adjustment."

The war department identified the unions as the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, headed by David B. Robertson, and the order of Railway Conductors, headed by Harry W. Fraser.

With the switchmen's union, the two brotherhoods only last night recalled the strike order for today. The 17 other unions called off their scheduled strike earlier and the war department stated it had not ascertained whether the switchmen, headed by Thomas C. Cashen, had canceled or postponed their strike orders.

Commenting on the department's statement; the three observed that under brotherhood rules and practice a strike vote "remains alive until the issue is settled."

"We don't cast the vote and we can't cancel a man's vote," they said. Fraser added that "some one is attempting to interpret labor union practice in the light of their suspicions and not in the light of knowledge."

No Meeting Arranged.

The statement by Robertson, Fraser, and Cashen quoted President Roosevelt in taking over the railroads as saying, "I cannot wait, the war cannot wait."

The trio protested, however, that from Dec. 23 until Dec. 29, "the administration arranged no meeting with the chosen representatives of the three organizations involved in an effort to reach a peaceful settlement."

"Notwithstanding this waste of time," the unions added, "we and the public were being told repeatedly that the crisis was so great that it would be necessary to take over the railroads unless a settlement was reached . . ." they declared.

"It is unfortunate that instead of pursuing such a drastic course the President and his lieutenants did not seek a settlement of this wage controversy by the customary procedure of continued conference and discussion. That would not have been so spectacular, but, in our humble judgment, it would have been much more effective."

MONTREAL'S CITY HALL PAY STRIKE BACKED BY UNION

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 30 (AP).—Alfred Charpentier, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, parent body of the National Syndicate of Municipal Employees on strike here since Dec. 20, said tonight the executive body of the CCCL feels obligated "to give its support to the strikers.

A committee of strikers sent a note to L. E. Potvin, commission president, stating the strikers were ready to go back to work and to accept a mediation proposal as soon as they were given a promise wage increases would be granted.

Show Girl Injured

LORRAINE DE WOOD.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 30 [Special].—Lorraine De Wood, 22 year old show girl, was in Park View hospital today, suffering a possible skull fracture and broken jaw, after a car in which she was riding, driven by Samuel P. Norton, attorney, and co-producer of show in which she appears, struck a lamp post last night. Norton suffered only minor injuries. The accident happened as the two were returning from a night club where Norton said they went to review entertainment.

U. S. 'GESTAPO' DOES ITS STUFF IN RAIL CRISIS

to employ his so-called "private army." Suspicion has grown that the White House palace guard, headed by Harry Hopkins, White House intimate, and Felix Frankfurter, Supreme court justice, had induced the President to order the step to give their protege, who holds dictator powers over industry, a chance to strut his stuff on the home front.

Somervell was WPA director of New York under Hopkins. A few weeks ago it was charged in congress that Frankfurter and Hopkins were kicking Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, upstairs to command allied invasion forces in London so that Somervell could succeed him as chief of staff. The plan to take Marshall from Washington has been abandoned.

Help in Strike Doubted.

According to the war department, Somervell's police force, unlike the Gestapo, has been trained to aid civilians rather than to terrorize them. However, it was said in congressional circles that their employment in the railroad strike could hardly be considered as helpful to the million and a half citizens engaged in that industry.

The ZI, as the police units are designated in the army, stand ready to "aid the nation's civil population in the event of axis-inspired disturbances, fires, floods, riots and other emergencies." Their duties are limited to the continental limits of the United States as distinct from tactical military police assigned to field forces, whose members are assigned to camps and with troops on leave at home and abroad.

The war department emphasized that this police force does not constitute a private army or a Gestapo for Gen. Somervell but is an emergency unit designed to give aid if needed to civil police facing man power shortages in a period of national crisis when duties are heavier.

ZI units are stationed in vital spots thruout the country and are readily available for duty in other areas with their equipment.

BARES FARMING OUT OF WORKERS BY WAR PLANTS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—A system of "farming out" scarce workers, for as much as $50 a day and at a profit to the employers, was reported today by Rep. John J. Sparkman [D., Ala.] to have been uncovered by the house military committee.

Sparkman, a committee member, declared the matter was being referred to the government agencies having war contracts with the employers he said were involved. He said the practice is believed to be confined to only a few tool makers in the aircraft industry.

A committee investigator had found instances where a company with several tool makers would hire some of them to another company at twice their normal rate of pay, time and a half for overtime, double time on Sundays and holidays, and with $6 a day living expenses, he said. The investigator found one case, Sparkman said, where the workmen got only 60 per cent of the "hiring out" cost, while their original employer profited by 40 per cent.

EDUCATION BODY URGES PROGRAM FOR EX-SOLDIERS

An extended education and rehabilitation program for returning soldiers and sailors and persons coming from war industries was urged in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Illinois Education association in the closing session of its three day 90th annual convention in the Morrison hotel.

ICKES PROHIBITS COAL SHIPMENTS FROM THE EAST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—Harold L. Ickes, interior secretary, announced today the hard coal shortage in the east is so severe that no more hard coal will be shipped west of the Ohio-Pennsylvania boundary until April 1. The order thus means that no more anthracite coal will be shipped to the midwest for the next three months.

The embargo on westward shipments, he said, will provide about 300,000 additional tons for the east.

Ickes, replying sarcastically to the war man power commission, asserted he is more positive than ever the coal shortage is due "to a considerable extent" to a man power shortage.

Assails McNutt's WMC.

He accused the man power commission, of which Paul V. McNutt is chairman, of giving no help except to conduct a recruiting campaign that was unsuccessful.

The man power commission recently attributed coal shortages to work stoppages in the mines this year.

When a reporter pointed out that Lawrence A. Appley, executive director of the man power commission, had denied this week that any coal shortage was due to a man power crisis, Ickes responded:

"Did he really? Well, I am more positive than ever that such is the case."

WMC Drive Was No Help.

Ickes said the WMC recruiting campaign was carried on simultaneously with a campaign for workers in another industry which pays higher wages and added this is not conducive to helping coal production.

At another point of a news conference, Ickes assailed coal distributors in the east who, he said, are reluctant to handle soft coal because they think "Santa will bring them anthracite."

These dealers, he said, apparently don't want to build up soft coal in their market areas and are "willing to do anything to win the war except the one thing they are capable of doing."

The cabinet member, who also is solid fuels administrator, declared there is "too damned much" of this in the United States.

"I'm not God," he said. "I can't make anthracite that's not there, and I can't produce miners."

In addition to the embargo cutting off hard coal from the west, he announced 8,000 tons of New York City's share of hard coal is being "frozen" for sale only to consumers whose furnaces cannot burn soft coal.

NO HARDSHIP HERE.

Because hard coal represents not more than 3 per cent of the total solid fuels consumed, the effect of the embargo on shipment of anthracite will be small in the Chicago area, Fred J. Holdsworth, president of the Chicago Retail Coal Merchants' association, said last night.

Chicago dealers have been short of hard coal since May, he said. In recent weeks, dealers have been forced to limit consumers to a ton delivery basis.

LAWYER FOUND DEAD OF KNIFE WOUND IN HOME

Curtis W. Flowers, 28 years old, an attorney, was found dead in his home, 5724 Blackstone avenue, yesterday. He had been stabbed below the heart with a 10 inch carving knife.

His widow, Doris, 25, who is employed by the University of Chicago Press, told Hyde Park police her husband had been ill. His physician, Dr. Henry W. Gentles, 30 North Michigan avenue, said Flowers called him at 10 a. m. yesterday and complained of feeling ill. He mentioned that he planned to stay home from work.

At 11 a. m., Bernice Jones, 5802 Woodlawn avenue, a Negro maid, saw Flowers lying on the bathroom floor, but did not investigate until 5 p. m., when she noticed blood on the floor.

She then summoned Mrs. Flowers, who called Dr. Gentles and Hyde Park police. Police said Flowers left no note. He was employed by the law firm of Chapman & Cutler with offices at 111 West Monroe street.

CADET DENIED FURLOUGH TO SEE INVALID SISTER

Sikeston, Mo., Dec. 30 (AP).—Army officials at the Sikeston air base decided today not to grant a furlough to air cadet Denis Mathews of Griffith, Ind., whose 13 year old invalid sister reportedly had refused to eat since hearing her brother's voice over the telephone two weeks ago.

Maj. H. J. Shelden, commander of the air base, said the Red Cross chapter at Gary, Ind., which had investigated the case as part of army routine, had not recommended a furlough.

Mathews' sister, Martha Jean, is being given food injections by a physician, who was quoted as expressing belief only a visit from her brother would induce her to eat.

The mass was said Christmas eve on the first anniversary of Darlan's assassination.

U. S. WASTES IN LATIN AMERICA, CHAVEZ AGREES

Blames Units Which Do Spending.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Sen. Dennis Chavez [D., N. M.], credited with being among the best informed in the senate on Latin American affairs, today backed up the charge made by Sen. Hugh Butler [R., Neb.] that waste has marked spending by the United States in South and Central America.

Sen. Dennis Chavez.

Sen. Chavez, in an interview, made clear that he criticizes not the fact that money is spent to aid South America, but that there is waste and extravagance in the way it is spent.

"The waste is not in South America, but in the government departments which do the spending," he said. "I am not criticizing Latin America for receiving anything from this country, but I feel from observation of my own here in Washington that there has been waste and extravagance as to the expenditures directed to Latin America."

Cites an Example.

The senator listed one minor example of what he said is a general tendency to waste public funds in building a good neighbor policy.

Chavez can think and speak equally well in Spanish and English. He is often called on by Nelson Rockefeller, coördinator of inter-American affairs, to make radio broadcasts and transcriptions for broadcast to the nations of Latin America in their own language.

"I am very happy to do this, and frequently have made such broadcasts and transcriptions," he said. "But I know that some of the others who are making these broadcasts are employes of the government and are receiving additional pay for making the broadcasts.

"I know they attempted to pay me for a recent broadcast and even sent me a check, which has been returned to the coördinator of inter-American affairs. I know that others who were on that program with me were employes of the government, who by taking a few minutes off from their regular work, were allowed to do something for which they received extra pay.

Not Latin American Waste.

"I think the programs are beneficial and do much to build good will but I question the practice and the propriety of people already on the pay roll receiving additional money for making the broadcasts. This is what I mean by waste and extravagance in Latin American spending. The waste is done by our own government, not by the Latin Americans."

Sen. Butler's report, presented to the senate shortly before congress recessed, created a turmoil in the ranks of the administration. It charged that New Deal theories have been transplanted to Latin America at a cost of 6 billion United States dollars.

The administration, thru its spokesmen in the senate and elsewhere immediately set upon Butler to disprove his figures.

Thus far, Butler has not answered any of the attacks on him and his report, but has promised new evidence after congress returns on Jan. 10.

CHARGE WOEFUL NEGLECT OF WAR PLANS IN WEST

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Woeful neglect of preparations on the west coast for a shift of the war to the Pacific was charged against government war agencies today in a house naval affairs subcommittee report.

Rep. Izac.

The group, headed by Rep. Ed V. Izac [D., Cal.], after inspection tours and hearings in Washington, Oregon, and California, issued a warning that chaos will result and successful prosecution of the war against Japan be seriously hampered unless immediate steps are taken to anticipate the tremendous burdens to be placed on the area in the near future.

Officials Content to Wait.

Emphasized in the report was the committee's impression that the administration seems to have forgotten the west coast will be an important base of operations for military and naval operations against Tokio when the main war effort becomes focused in the Pacific.

"The most striking aspect of this area," the report stated, "is the uniform lack of recognition of its coming tremendous importance with the shift of the war effort to the Pacific. Too many responsible authorities have failed to anticipate and are content with waiting until the time the tremendous burden is added to this area."

Cited in the report for neglect of the problem were President Roosevelt and the joint chiefs of staff, the war production board, the office of defense transportation, the war man power commission, and the office of price administration.

"To insure the most efficient and adequate preparations for the unprecedented demands upon this area which will come with the shift of the war effort, the joint chiefs of staff must inform the local key authorities of what is to be expected of them and the approximate time the demands will be made," the subcommittee recommended.

Need Area Representative.

"We therefore sincerely urge the President to direct the joint chiefs of staff to inform the local authorities of the time and extent of future demands of the army and navy in this area.

"The President's executive committee for congested production areas should appoint an area representative for the Los Angeles-Long Beach area as soon as possible. This has not been done altho the area is by far the most challenging of all congested areas studied by this committee."

Serious problems in housing, health, recreation, transportation, man power, police and fire protection, food, and education have been neglected, the report declared.

EDITOR BEATEN BY POLICE CHIEF FOR CRITICISM

Beckley, W. Va., Dec. 30 [Special].—Editor Eugene Scott of the Beckley Post-Herald was knocked down and beaten by Police Chief Tommy Roberts today in a quarrel over the newspaper man's right to publish criticism of the police and city administrations of this community of 15,000.

In an editorial in his paper this morning, Scott opposed the reappointment of Roberts, whose tenure ends tomorrow midnight, as does that of other city officials. The editor declared Roberts' enforcement of the law had been sporadic.

Ordered to Be Silent.

"It is reported we have been commanded to publish no criticism of the police department," the editorial said in part.

"We have no quarrel with the police department or any of its members. We have criticized the department and the city administration only when we considered that the activities of either were so culpable, so detrimental to the best interests of this community that we had no other choice.

Invited to Office.

Scott said the police chief telephoned him at home this morning and asked him to stop in at the city hall for a talk about the matter. The editor stopped on the way to his own office and found the retiring mayor, A. K. Minter, with the chief.

They had discussed the matter for some time, the editor said, and then as he arose to go the police chief seized him by the vest and crashed a fist in his face, breaking his glasses. The editor, who weighs 115 pounds and is 5 feet 2 inches tall, and the chief, a former professional baseball player who weighs between 180 and 200 pounds, struggled for a few minutes during which, Scott said, he was thrown on the floor and struck repeatedly.

ALOOF MARTHA ENJOYS PARTIES AND STAYS LATE

Lives Luxuriously on Maryland Estate.

dren go," but he would not say what school. It is a private school.

Mr. Olav said Martha is "interested in women's affairs" and "spends time with the children." He says she does her own shopping and when she goes into Woodward and Lothrop's here in Washington to buy that war time rarity, 35 mm. film, for her movie camera, her hobby, "she waits her turn in line just like any one else."

Shows Films of Her.

He produced pictures to illustrate part of this. One showed Martha, a double strand of pearls around her neck, rings on her fingers, as she apparently rewound a reel of film. Another showed her seated at a white grand piano near an oil portrait of herself, her fingers on the keys as the three children gaze raptly at the music. The three children look remarkably like their mother, who has an aquiline face with high forehead, long thin nose, deeply inset eyes. The little boy is probably the beauty of the family. All, including Martha, look like their kinsmen—most of the other royal heads, crowned or decrowned, of Europe. [Martha, a daughter of Prince Carl of Sweden, was the sister of Queen Astrid of Belgium.]

Mr. Olav said Martha rarely goes out socially. This extraordinary statement is in direct contradiction both to the generally known and to the published facts about the princess' social activities. Some people might call her a gadabout. She not only likes to go to such splendid social functions as dinners; she likes to stay late.

The latter predilection has had many amusing consequences here. As a royal princess, as the only royal princess within a 25 cent bus fare of the District of Columbia, she outranks every one in Washington except, presumably, President Roosevelt. Protocol, a very tedious manifestation of the diplomatic scene, is rigidly observed here, and protocol demands that no social gathering break up until the ranking guest leaves. She leaves first and those on the fringes follow. Finally the last lowly congressman can gather his hat and gloves and stumble out.

Talk Gets Tedious.

One of the first non-White House dinners given for the princess was that given by Wilhelm Morgenstierne, the Norwegian ambassador. The princess was charming and gay, altho talking too prolixly and too tediously for the tastes of some of the more intellectual guests, about the sayings of her children and her husband, and the night wore on.

In official Washington, where offices open at 8 a. m., dinners generally disband at 10:30. Eleven o'clock is almost naughty. This night 11 o'clock came and passed, 12 o'clock came and passed, 12:30—and no one budged. All waited for Martha to leave. She sat and chatted gayly. Many dignitaries fidgeted nervously, concealed their yawns, and nudged their wives. Their wives nudged other wives. Finally one asked Mr. Morgenstierne if the princess had to leave first.

"Not at all," he said. "It is just as tho this were her own home."

This brave woman then summoned her husband and they left. The other guests looked aghast, but did not budge. Half an hour later they still were there and an air raid alarm was sounded. The "all clear" came 45 minutes later. Martha then left. So did they all. It was a bad evening.

Still Leaves Late.

Presumably all Washington would have learned its lesson, but no one really believed the couple who left early had a right, protocolianly speaking, to do so. The princess still leaves first—and late.

Martha's visits to the White House and to Hyde Park are too numerous to mention, altho all Washington, with its penchant for teacup gossip, does mention them. She is a great favorite of President Roosevelt and on such occasions is guarded by the United States secret service.

But to return to Mr. Olav—

Mr. Olav said that Martha is 41, and was educated in the public schools of Sweden where she studied nursing and dabbled in music. He says she has a "dark" voice and occasionally speaks on the radio, her speeches being beamed to Norway and to ships at sea.

Mr. Olav said Martha is hostess to hundreds of sailors at Pook's Hill in the winter and at her summer place on Long Island in the summer.

Not Borrowing Money.

Norway, he added parenthetically, has a merchant marine exceeded only by that of the United States and Great Britain. When the war started, it was known as "the carriers of the world" and had 23,000 sailors and 7½ million tons of shipping. One out of every 10 sailors has been lost at sea.

He said Norway is not borrowing money, that it is paying its own way thru the income from its fleet, on which it maintains an entire foreign government and pays for its participation in the war. It has even serviced its loans. In the summer of 1940, he said, any one could buy Norwegian bonds for about 40. They are now quoted as high as 101 and 102. All Norway's loans are met on the day due.

Lend lease is looked to only for refitting ships, arming ships, and getting training planes for the Norwegian pilots trained in Canada, he said. The training of the Norwegian squadrons, who coördinate their flights with the R. A. F., and the upkeep of their base in southern England is financed by Norway-in-exile.

It was an interesting interview with Mr. Olav.

FIGHTER-WRITER TELLS STORY OF WAR ON TARAWA

Sgt. Jim Lucas, marine combat correspondent, whose vivid accounts of the taking of Tarawa have thrilled the country, in Chicago yesterday told how he landed on the island under heavy Japanese fire with other marine correspondents and photographers.

Sgt. Jim Lucas.

A former reporter for the Tulsa [Okla.] Tribune, Sgt. Lucas said he landed with the second wave of assault troops after dusk on the first day of attack.

"One of the officers was killed as we stepped out of the boat onto the pier," Lucas said. "The rest of us hit the landing and inched forward in the dark. It took me five hours, dodging lead, to make the 500 yards to the beach.

The marine correspondent warned that the fighting will get tougher the "closer we get to Tokio."

FRANCE'S NAVY DESTROYS FOUR ENEMY CRAFT

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 30 (AP).—Operating with allied navies half-way around the globe, French naval units have shot down two axis planes, torpedoed two axis ships and probably destroyed one axis submarine, a French naval bulletin said tonight.

French light cruisers on raids in the Aegean sea during the battle for the Dodecanese Islands fought off a violent aerial attack, downing two planes for certain and probably two others. A French sloop, operating in the Indian ocean, was credited with the probably destruction of one submarine.

Three small vessels were lost, including a coastal minesweeper, a submarine and supply tanker.

U. S. NAVY EQUAL TO ALL WORLD'S FLEET PREDICTED

Boston, Mass., Dec. 30 (AP).—Addressing members of the Boston City club tonight, Rep. John W. McCormack [D., Mass.], house majority leader, predicted the nation's combat ship strength would be virtually equal to the rest of the world combined by the end of 1944. He asserted America's two-ocean navy would be completed next month—two years ahead of schedule.

"By the end of 1944, the navy will have 41,179 vessels of various types and sizes," McCormack said, "compared with its 1939 strength of 1,091."

FALL FROM PORCH FATAL.

Harold M. Carlson, 29 years old, 6355 Maryland avenue, was killed yesterday in a fall from a third floor porch in the rear of 6354 Maryland avenue. Neighbors said he apparently lost his balance.

'POINT HOLIDAY' ON MANY FOODS; OTHERS ARE CUT

The office of price administration yesterday declared a "point holiday" on canned green and wax beans, all frozen vegetables except corn, peas, and lima beans, and all but two frozen fruits in announcing new point values for processed foods during January.

Sharp cuts were made in the point value of canned peas, tomatoes, and tomato sauce packaged with cheese. Two point increases were made in the value of one pound jars of jams, preserves, and noncitrus marmalades to 8 points.

Need Freezers for Pork.

Alex Elson, acting regional OPA administrator, said point values were taken off frozen foods in order to encourage their sale and thus free badly needed freezer space for the storage of large amounts of pork now coming to market.

The only frozen fruits not cut to zero in point value are blueberries and huckleberries. They are reduced from 12 to 6 points per pound.

Canned peas are cut from 18 to 15 points for No. 2 cans; No. 2½ cans of tomatoes are reduced 6 points to 15, with other sizes reduced proportionately.

"Supplies of canned beans are at a fairly high level, and the production outlook is satisfactory," Elson said. "Consumer demand for canned peas and tomatoes has declined 10 per cent in the last two months, and stocks of both compare favorably with last year. Canned beans, peas, and tomatoes make up about 25 per cent of all rationed processed foods, with frozen foods accounting for 5 per cent of total use."

Items on "Free" List.

Frozen foods now on the point free list include apples, applesauce, rhubarb, asparagus, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, snap beans, mixed vegetables, beets, carrots, leafy greens, pumpkin, squash, baked beans, spinach, and all fruit juices. These ranged in value from 2 to 12 points per pound in December.

The Washington office of OPA said last minute point changes had delayed the printing of January charts. He said retailers will not receive them for several days. Lists of the new values have been sent to local boards, food trade groups, wholesalers, and processors. Retailers were asked to consult these sources.

ILLINOIS BOARDS TOLD TO DRAFT POLICE, FIREMEN

Illinois draft boards yesterday were told by Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, that occupational deferment from military service must not be granted to policemen and firemen except key men in administrative positions who have had substantial training and experience in their work. This order was given after consultation with national headquarters. It does not apply to police and fire guards in war plants.

The director's order said boards may adopt a liberal policy in considering deferments for pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, provided the police and fire departments in which they work have made an honest but unsuccessful attempt to replace them with men not liable for military service.

Before considering a policeman or fireman for occupational deferment the local board will insist that claim for occupational deferment be signed by the executive head of the department, but those signed by captains or other subordinates will not be considered. Armstrong's memorandum reminded local boards that in many police and fire departments men of military age can be replaced readily.

SOLDIER TELLS OF FIGHTING IN TAKING TARAWA

The battle of Tarawa cannot be described adequately even by those soldiers who fought there, Frank Stefko, 23 years old, a marine corps private who lost his left eye in the engagement, said yesterday after his return to his home at 1114 Kenwood avenue, Hammond, on sick leave.

"I was lucky enough not to have to go 'in' until the second day of the assault," Stefko said, "but even then it took us four or five hours to reach the beach after we left the big barges. We attacked in small rubber boats because the bigger stuff couldn't get over the reefs. Machine gun bullets flew everywhere. Boats on both sides of me were hit and every one killed."

After he gained the beach the fire was so heavy that the only thing to do was to wiggle deep into the sand and wait for darkness, Stefko declared. He was injured the next day when explosives intended for the Japs were hit and blew up, tossing pieces of jagged metal about, damaging several tanks.

AL SMITH, AT 70, GETS POPE'S AND F.D.R.'S GREETING

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, 70 years old today, received a special apostolic benediction from Pope Pius XII, and congratulations from President Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. The benediction, conveyed to the 1928 Democratic Presidential nominee by Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, was imparted in a letter written by Archbishop Amleto G. Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States.

THE QUESTION.

Do you have any chronic resolutions that you make every New Year's day?

WHERE ASKED.

Jackson and La Salle streets.

THE ANSWERS.

V. H. Bartholomew, vice president insurance company, 4940 East End avenue—On every New Year's day for the last 10 years I have made the same resolution to stop smoking. Each year I'm more determined, but each year I find I'm a little weaker. Before long I'm back at the old pace.

Virginia Peterson, secretary, 2480 Lake View avenue—It's such an effort for me to get to the office on time. I promise myself that when the new year comes I'll make only one resolution: To get to work 15 minutes earlier than I have to. That rushes me more, so I go back to the old schedule.

Mrs. Robert L. Anderson, secretary, 6820 Wabash avenue—Each New Year's day I reconstruct my budget so it will be easier for me to stick to it. Then I pledge never to spend more than I've allowed myself. Nevertheless, before the first month of the new year is gone my budget's in the red again.

Eleanor Dorigan, telephone operator, 10115 Wood street—All thru the old year I keep telling my friends I'm going on a diet at New Year's. It looks an easy thing to do, but on New Year's day food tastes better than ever. I make the resolution, keep it awhile, then break it again.

Suzanne Wolfe, waitress, 5306 Kenmore avenue—I always make my New Year's resolutions just before Christmas when I'm milling thru crowds of people on last minute shopping. I vow I'll do next year's shopping at least a month or two before Christmas and avoid the rush. But it never happens.

Eleanore Holle, office worker, 10828 Prospect avenue—Every time another year rolls around I think it's time to get ambitious. I vow to get out of the rut and accomplish something. I investigate various evening schools of art and design, but I never get any further.

HERE'S HOW TO PACK WASTE PAPER JAN. 15 FOR PICKUP AT CURB

In preparation for Chicago's first curb-side collection of waste paper on Jan. 15, housewives are requested to divide all scrap paper into separate bundles of newspapers and paper sacks, magazines, cardboard boxes, and wastebasket paper. Each bundle should be 12 inches high and tied securely in criss-cross fashion. Cardboard boxes should be flattened. Wastebasket paper may be packed in boxes or sacks. Magazines and book bundles may be 18 inches high. The same instructions apply to bundles of paper to be carried to public and parochial schools by pupils for collection on Jan. 17.

U. S. MAGAZINES HIT BY WPB CUT IN PAPER QUOTAS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 [Special].—Publishers of magazines and periodicals in the United States, with certain exceptions, will be restricted in their 1944 paper usage to 75 per cent of their 1942 tonnage, the war production board announced today. Publishers in the small tonnage brackets will not be restricted as much as the large users, the announcement said.

The order affects some 2,500 publishers of magazines and periodicals.

Adjustments permit publishers to borrow an additional 15 per cent of their next quarter's paper quotas, provided they deduct that amount from their quotas in the next period. Paper savings effected in one quarter may not be used in subsequent quarters.

Clink of Falling Chips Leads to Basement Raid

Relying upon their sense of hearing, Detectives John Morrisroe and Robert Becker raided a basement apartment at 4130 Kenmore avenue yesterday. They reported they found William Nichols, 55 years old, an exbookie, running a poker game for seven men. What they heard from the street was the clink of falling chips. The eight were arrested.

YOUNG FATHER APPEALS 'WORK OR FIGHT' ORDER

A test case to determine whether a citizen can be forced to work for an employer against his will, on threat of being inducted into the army, has been placed before the area war man power commission by Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

The case is that of Paul Rhodes, 29 years old, 10900 Avenue J, married and the father of three children—Paul Jr., 6; Patricia, 4, and Peter, 4 months old.

Involved are the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing company, which refuses to give Rhodes a release, or certificate of availability to work elsewhere, and Draft Board 93, located at 9622 Commercial avenue, which has reclassified Rhodes as 1-A.

Feels Skill Unused.

Rhodes' troubles began last summer when he quit a job in the Chrysler plant because he felt that his skill as an expert automobile mechanic was not being utilized. He was reclassified from 3-A to 1-A by his draft board, he said, after which, on Sept. 9, he went to work for the Pullman Standard Car company. His eventual reward was a reclassification to 2-B—essential worker.

Rhodes was assigned to the welding school, against his preference for mechanical work, in which he was trained, and he quit after a few weeks. Pressure promptly was applied, he charged. First, he said, a company agent telephoned his wife, Flora, that he'd have to return to his job or be inducted; second, Draft Board 93 notified him to prepare for a physical examination.

Release Is Denied.

Rhodes returned to his job, but quit again on Nov. 18. He asked for and was denied a release. He appealed to the WMC and the federal employment office, and lost. He was advised generally, he said, that he had to work for Pullman Standard, and no one else, or he'd be inducted.

Rhodes stood his ground and on Dec. 18 he was reclassified by his draft board from 2-B to 1-A.

"I'm willing to work in a war plant," Rhodes said yesterday, "but I want to feel I'm doing useful work. I don't want to loaf. I feel I'm being pushed around by my draft board. I'll go into the army before being forced to work for some one against my will."

Company Denies Threats.

A Pullman Standard spokesman admitted that a release had been denied Rhodes.

"We don't use coercion or threats to keep our employes," the spokesman said. "However, we do need men, we are unwilling to release Rhodes, and we have work for him to do."

Draft board officials asserted Rhodes' case was a routine one and was being handled according to law.

"It smacks of slavery," said Olander, an avowed foe of the government job freeze order. "We agree that man power should be used, but protest against decrees that any citizen must work for any one employer and no other, and to enforce that rule by threat of induction. That is our main interest—whether a man can be forced to work for any certain employer. That amounts to binding one man to another, and that is slavery."

BLOCK CAPTAINS PLEDGED TO AID PAPER SALVAGE

Divisional chairmen of the office of civilian defense yesterday pledged the support of 16,784 block captains to the city's newly organized waste paper salvage program and made plans for a house to house canvass in anticipation of the first curb-side collection on Jan. 15.

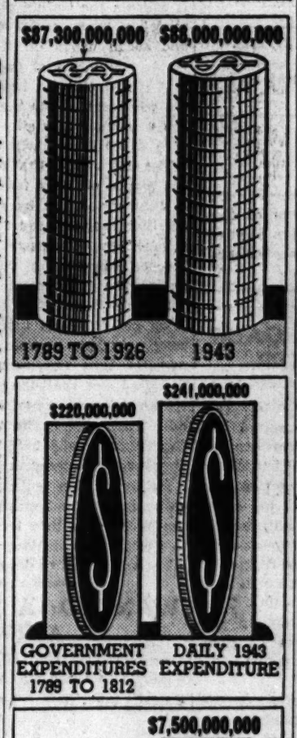
The chairmen met with Walter Roy, assistant OCD director, and John R. Robinson of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association, which is sponsoring the program, at the OCD headquarters, 23 North Wacker drive.

"The present waste paper salvage program is as important as the buying of war bonds," Robinson maintained as he told the OCD workers of the drastic shortage of waste paper stocks for the production of war and civilian materials. "We must increase the output of paper by 1,000 tons daily thruout the city. This can be done only with the coöperation of every housewife, every janitor, every block captain, and every business house."

F. D. R.'s Press Conference Canceled Because of Cold

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—President Roosevelt's usual Friday morning press conference has been canceled, the White House said tonight, because of his cold. He has been taking things comparatively easy for the last several days, but it was said he has had no fever.

Government Costs



U. S. 1943 COSTS MORE THAN FOR FIRST 150 YEARS

241 Millions Spent in Every Day.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—By midnight tomorrow the federal government will have spent more money in the 365 days of 1943 than it did in all of the first 150 years of this nation's existence.

The 1943 total of approximately 88 billion dollars embraces war costs of over 82 billions—or, roughly, 241 million every 24 hours, 225 million of it for war.

From the establishment of the treasury in 1789 thru June 30, 1926 [there are no good figures on the comparatively tiny costs of 1776-'89], aggregate governmental expenditures amounted to 87 billion 300 million. Up to last Dec. 31 they totaled 247 billion 200 millions—or less than three times the amount spent in this second year of total war.

Income at Peak, Too.

Costliest period of World War I. was the 1918-'19 fiscal year, when the government paid out 18½ billions. Average daily spending during 1943 was some 21 millions greater than the total amount spent in the period 1789-1812.

This year's record spending—nearly 32 billions above that of 1942—saw a new record, too, of federal income. The 34½ billions garnered into the till—31 billion 900 million in taxes—is more than double last year's 16 billion 400 million and includes 3½ billions taken directly from pay checks during the first six months of pay-as-you-go operation. The 1943 receipts were 3½ billions above official forecasts.

Debt at All Time High.

The national debt, mounting steadily thruout the year until this month, jumped from 112 billion 471 million on Dec. 31, 1942, to a high of 170 billion 420 million three weeks ago. Payment of some 400 million in maturing treasury notes, however, together with more than double that amount of tax notes tendered in payment of third quarter taxes, pushed the figure back until nearly month's end. Net increase in the debt for the year will be about 57½ billions.

War spending, at a rate of less than 6 billions a month last January, hit a peak of over 7½ billions in November. Altho there was some slackening this month, the figure is expected to mount again with the new year.

Lt. Wright, Son of Plane Builder, Missing in Action

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP).—Second Lt. Burdette S. Wright Jr., 23 years old, son of the vice president of the Curtiss-Wright corporation airplane division, is missing in action, the war department has advised his family. A bombardier, he did not return from a raid over Germany Dec. 11.

Ex-Attache to U.S. Named Mexico's Chief of Staff

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 30.—Gen. Cristobal Guzman Cardenas, former Mexican military attache to Washington, D. C., has been appointed chief of staff of the army. He replaces Gen. Thomas Sanchez Hernandez. Gen. Cardenas is familiar with United States army methods and has been training Mexican mechanized brigades equipped with American weapons.

RETURN THE RAILROADS TO THEIR OWNERS.

There is no longer the remotest excuse to justify the government's possession of the railroads of the nation. They were seized last Monday night on orders of the President to avert a threatened strike. In fact, all but 150,000 of the 1,450,000 organized railroad workers had agreed before the President issued his order that they would not walk out. For all practical purposes, therefore, the threat was nonexistent at the time the President signed the decree.

Meanwhile, the three unions which still held out on Monday night have fallen into line. That being so, there is no longer even a nominal justification for depriving the owners of their property. The railroads should be returned to private management at once.

Any one who will take the trouble to examine the record can hardly escape the conclusion that Mr. Roosevelt's goal all along has been seizure of the railroads. If his administration had taken the people into its confidence on the conduct of the war there would be little labor unrest in the country.

When, months ago, his mediation boards had awarded increases amounting to about 8 cents an hour to some of the railroad unions his stabilization director refused to permit increases of more than 4 cents an hour. The railroad workers knew that the larger increase was fair and the railroads were willing to pay it. Mr. Roosevelt also knew that the 8 cent raise was fair, and the proof is that the moment he was accepted as arbitrator he awarded it to the engineers. In fact, he gave them not the 8 cents that would have averted all danger of a strike but 9 cents—the 4 cents they were allowed by Mr. Vinson and a bonus of 5 cents in lieu of demands that they had been willing all along to waive if they were given their 8 cents.

Obviously Mr. Roosevelt went thru this elaborate maneuver for a purpose; and his purpose could have been none other than to find an excuse for seizing private property. He may intend to keep the railroads, as his Communist friends desire him to do, or he may return the properties before long, but in either event he has taken another step in accustoming the American people to the seizure of private property. He wants them to think it is a costless, harmless, temporary expedient.

DAVID AND GOLIATH OFF MURMANSK.

The Nazi battleship Scharnhorst attacked a convoy last Sunday in the murky darkness of the Murmansk route. British cruisers with the convoy engaged her first, screening the escape of the merchantmen they were guarding and scoring a possible hit. The Scharnhorst fled and was intercepted by the battleship Duke of York, a cruiser, and four destroyers. The Duke of York fired her main battery and scored a hit, but the Scharnhorst was not sufficiently damaged to prevent her speeding away from the slower British battleship.

Then the destroyers sped ahead, intercepted the Nazi ship, and delivered a torpedo attack that scored three hits and crippled their enemy. The Duke of York was then able to come within range and fire again, but the coup de grace was delivered by the cruiser Jamaica with another torpedo attack.

Thus vanished what probably was the last hope of the British battle fleet in this war to engage the Germans in a classic sea fight with big guns pitted against big guns. In this war British capital ships have suffered vastly more damage than they have inflicted. In their other principal surface engagement with the Nazis it was planes that spotted the Bismarck and aerial torpedoes that crippled her. The torpedo, in fact, has become the most destructive naval weapon of this war, and the battleship, of all combat craft, is the only one that has little opportunity to use that weapon.

In the Pacific our gunners have played a more important part in naval warfare than have those of the British fleets in the North sea and Mediterranean. We, too, have suffered and have inflicted heavy damage thru the air, and in the principal engagement to date with the Japanese, at Midway, planes wrecked and repulsed the Japanese force without our battleships getting a chance to engage.

In the numerous engagements fought at night in the Solomons we suffered heavy damage by gunfire and inflicted still greater damage. Battleships participated in at least one of the night engagements with the Japanese forces and their gunners, as well as those on cruisers and destroyers, demonstrated that, with the aid of modern rangefinders, the gun is still a terrifically deadly weapon when conditions are such that opposing fleets get within range of each other before planes have decided the issue.

The big ship admirals, to do them justice, have always tempered their claims by the assertion that the battleship is only one part of the striking force and supplies the knockout punch of an organism designed primarily to get information for it and protect it while it closes in and engages the behemoths on the other side.

But, despite its durability and great hitting power, the battleship has yet to demonstrate that it is as powerful a weapon as the lighter craft, on the surface and in the air, that have sacrificed protection for speed and carry the tremendous sting of the torpedo or the aerial bomb.

ANOTHER POLL.

A public opinion poll wrecked one magazine—the old Literary Digest—whose investigators had the misfortune to talk to the wrong people just before the voters swept Mr. Roosevelt into the White House in 1932. Out of that holocaust rose Dr. George Gallup.

Dr. Gallup claimed to have an utterly new and foolproof way of guessing how the people would vote. The frequency with which his poll predicted the triumph of Mr. Roosevelt's party gladdened both Dr. Gallup and the New Dealers, and his interrogators branched out from political to economic analysis.

Like his predecessors in the divination of the public mind, Dr. Gallup dropped his watch on more than one occasion, the most outstanding being the 1942 congressional elections, when he failed to foretell the Republican landslide.

A pipsqueak of the Gallup effort has just been started in Iowa by a Willkie-New Deal organ. It follows the Gallup plan of a "scientific sampling" of "men and women in all the economic and social walks of life as are found in the whole population of the state." The theory is that if you find out how two red-haired plumbers who earn $5,000 a year are going to vote, you will know how all red-haired plumbers who earn $5,000 a year will vote.

The Iowa poll has already discovered that the people of Iowa favor subsidies. It arrived at that conclusion by asking those questioned whether they favored "increasing the farmer's income" by letting prices rise, or whether they favored "increasing the farmer's income" by having the government pay subsidies.

If there is anything that all of the people of Iowa are for it is increasing the farmer's income. As long as that proposition was tied so adroitly into the subsidy question, there is little wonder that the astute residents of that state were ready to let the government foot the bill. They were in the position of the successful congressmen who held office by voting for all appropriation measures and against all tax bills.

Public opinion polls always were of dubious value, but in the hands of the New Dealers and the Willkieites they have become another tool to confuse and confound the public. They are a hoax intended to deceive the voters.

WANTED: A LAKE FRONT AIRPORT.

Almost every one interested in air travel and qualified to speak on the subject is agreed that Chicago must have a better airport than it now has to link the city with the rest of the world after the war.

If Chicago wants to avoid being by-passed by the great air transport companies of the post-war age, it will have to see that they get the terminal facilities they need. Mr. Kincaid of the plan commission has estimated that it would cost 60 million dollars to expand Chicago's present municipal airport to a size that would be adequate for post-war planes as they are now envisioned. This airport would still be nine miles from the heart of the city and accessible only thru some of the most densely populated sections. An alternative site has been mentioned—the Douglas field near Park Ridge—out that would be 19 miles from the loop.

Chicago's lake front provides an almost ideal airport site that is gaining more and more favor in the city council and among the air transport spokesmen. The navy aircraft carriers Wolverine and Sable, anchored off the lake front, have made meteorological surveys showing that the lake area north of 31st street is usually free of smoke and has wind velocity and ceilings suitable for a large airport.

An airport built in this area on made ground would be free of obstacles such as usually surround municipal airports, could be readily expanded to any size needed to accommodate great, new planes, and would be only a few minutes' drive from the heart of the city.

Several lake front airport projects have been suggested, one of them calling for construction of an island two and a half miles off shore, connected with the mainland by a causeway. It might not even be necessary to go to this expense. The present outer breakwater runs from the vicinity of South Water street almost continuously to the Shedd aquarium at the foot of 12th street. Extending land outward from this breakwater would provide ample room for an airport and would give airplanes plenty of space to gain altitude, even in a westward take-off, before reaching tall buildings. It would in no way interfere with navigation, and would be less than a five minute ride to the loop over a short causeway.

The city council airport committee and the Chicago plan commission have done some admirable advance work on plans for a lake front airport, and it is in the interest of every citizen to see that their work is supported and that the plans are carried thru.

Editorial of the Day

THE FLAGS AT TARAWA.

[New York News.]

An interesting sequence included, we think, only in the unexpurgated Tarawa film shows the American flag going up over Tarawa after the victory, and the British flag going up beside it immediately thereafter. This signifies that the British owned the island before and are scheduled to get it back.

It also shows us what we are fighting for. We are fighting to teach the Japs not to attack us in our sleep again; and to fulfill the words of the Cairo agreement: "The three great allies [Britain, China, U. S. A.] . . . have no thought of territorial expansion," but they intend to get back what has been snatched from them.

Thus, we are fighting to restore the British, Dutch, perhaps French empires in the far Pacific, to free the Philippines and guarantee their freedom forever, and to get no territory for the United States. From the Cairo agreement it does not even appear that the United States has any thought of gathering to itself a strategic set of atolls to use as air bases for its outer Pacific defenses.

All this means that future wars in the Pacific and in the far east are in the womb of time even now. The Japanese, Chinese, Burmese, Malayans, Javanese, and Indians have all shown, with varying degrees of vigor, that they do not like to have white men from the occident running things in the orient. As long as the white man maintains imperiums in the orient, he will have intermittent wars on his hands. But maybe he figures it is worth it.

Test Your Horse Sense

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 15.

1. The common housefly is associated with which one of these diseases?
   Malaria Typhoid Tularemia Pellagra
2. Which one of these animals requires the most water per day?
   Horse Mule Hog Cow
3. Crepe de chine refers to which one of the following products?
   Wine Paper Fabric Waffles
4. The Spirit of St. Louis is a fast train between St. Louis and
   New Orleans Chicago New York Denver
5. At what age does a woman usually weigh the most?
   18 years 25 years 34 years 46 years
6. A farmer went to town with a load of 20 hogs which he sold at a good price, but spent some of the money in a tour of night clubs. Upon his return home, he confessed to his wife that he had spent one-third of the sale price of the hogs, plus an additional $200. When she counted his money, she found that he had remaining only one-half of the sale price, plus $100. At what price did the farmer sell his hogs?

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-5, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT.

Today is called Hogmanay in Scotland, and tonight is Sylvesterabend in Germany. They are, or used to be, observed by many quaint and curious customs, ancient as the hills.

* * *

The American New Year's eve of pre-war conviviality, with its emphasis upon overindulgence in warming beverages, is a relatively new thing in the national life. If you should examine the newspaper files of the 1870s you would find little or nothing about orgies on the Eve, and a great deal about New Year's day calls and open-house festivities with ample bowls of eggnog and Tom and Jerry. In that period a young man of fashion woke up sober, to be in good condition for travel along the social route.

* * *

Perhaps the custom of greeting the New Year with midnight revelry developed in the gay '90s. We refuse to testify on this point, however, because that decade was a serious period for us and we were only vaguely aware that some people foolishly spent the last night of the year in blowing tin horns and shooting pistols. The development of the occasion into the Big Drunk of the year is worthy of the attention of some literary folklorist. Herbert Asbury ought to be the right man, for he has written copiously upon the loose conduct of his fellow citizens in such carnal centers as New York, New Orleans, Chicago, and San Francisco.

* * *

To Asbury ["The Bonvivant's Companion"] you must turn to learn the origin of the holiday beverage called Tom and Jerry. He attributes its invention to "Prof." Jerry Thomas, a mastermind of drink mixing, who was nationally renowned in the 1850s and 1860s. The Planters hotel in St. Louis was the scene of the professor's inspiration. He also mowed 'em down in New York and San Francisco. He spent a few months in Chicago, but found this settlement too rugged.

* * *

One of "Prof." Thomas' greatest inventions, now obsolete, was the Blue Blazer. He invented it at the Eldorado bar in San Francisco for a miner who demanded a drink that would shake him to the gizzard. The proper management of a Blue Blazer requires a juggler's technique. Take two large mugs; then into one pour a stiff snort of whisky and an almost equal amount of boiling water. Next, light the mixture with a match, and then with the cups at arms' length toss the flaring liquid from one cup to another five or six times, just to astonish the spectators. Blow out the torch, then, and serve.

* * *

FAREWELL AND HAIL.

Old Year, going, take with you
All our failures, sorrows, too;
Memories of bitter years,
Old regrets and futile tears;
Fret and envy, greed and spite—
Take them with you, pray, tonight.
Pride too lofty, dreams too crude,
Hate, with all its venomed brood,
Discontent, our subtle foe—
Old Year, take them as you go.

New Year, bright as dawning youth,
Bring us faith and love of truth,
Kindly thoughts of one and all,
Charity for those who fall,
Strength to help and zeal to cheer,
Hope to banish doubt and fear.
Bring us quietness, content,
When your brimming months are spent.

Old Year, here is our farewell,
New Year, hail! We wish you well.

Thomas Curtis Clark.

How to Keep a Resolution.

"Any New Year resolutions?"
"Yes, I've stopped swearing."
"Isn't it hard?"
"You're D right it's hard."
"How'd you happen to do it?"
"The wife was always raising H about it."
"Do you always comply with your wife's wishes?"
"H yes. When she gets going she's a she D."
"I'm surprised to hear that."
"O, she's a fine girl. But she can be a regular H C when she wants to be."
"Think you'll live up to your pledge?"
"H, yes. If I don't there'll be the D to pay. You'll never hear another G D swear word from me."

W. L. Hudson.

A HUNK OF DURATION.

The ambulance is just outside,
The poor Old Year! He won't be back
To face more shrapnel, bombs, and flak.

But look who's marching in the door!
That little rascal, '44,
All clad to meet the war's alarms,
A tommy gun is in his arms.

No didies, khaki pants instead.
Let's give the kid a rousing cheer
And hope he junks 'em all this year.

Origin of Raisin Pie?

When a café patron ordered raisin pie, the man sitting next to me said: "Whenever you hear people order raisin pie you can bet your bottom dollar that they are from Indiana." But he couldn't explain the fondness of Hoosiers for that tidbit.

After spending much time in libraries, I finally found in "Hoosier Hearsay," by Col. Windbottle, the following explanation:

A lady in Delphi, Ind., was known for the thin pies she brought to church suppers. They were dubbed "chummy" pies because their top and bottom crusts nestled so close together. One day an old Hoosier said, "When will Mrs. G. begin raising her pies?" but an old lady thought he had said, "When will Mrs. G. make raisin pies?"

No one had ever baked raisin pies, so she made one that became the talk of the town. From Delphi the vogue spread to Monticello, then to Logansport, and then thru the state.

GOOD HABITS START IN INFANCY.

It has been well said that man is a creature of habit. We do things in a particular fashion because we have gone thru the motions over and over again. Nerve pathways have been established so deeply that response is well nigh automatic.

Instinct is a closely allied tendency. We say that we inherit the ability to do certain acts without instruction. Dogs and cats can find their way home even tho removed long distances. Furthermore, most forms of wild life know how to protect their young and provide them with food.

Infancy is the period to inculcate correct thinking and behavior. The adage, "You cannot teach an old dog new tricks," harbors much wisdom. With the carrying out of any procedure, the next time it will be accomplished with more ease and greater facility. Thus, in rearing our offspring, only a moderate amount of energy will be demanded to establish normal physical functions.

Almost from birth the swallowing reflex is present. Later the little one learns to feed himself, to regulate the bladder, the intestinal tract, and intervals of slumber. The mother who is too fussy about minor details is likely to impress the child with her oversolicitude. In such instances thoughts will be directed too strongly upon digestion and other processes which are really outside our control. Thus it is that we are likely to create neurotic personalities for which there is not the slightest excuse.

Reasoning powers, as well as judgment, come later. But the basis will be sound if fathers and mothers will take the trouble to explain the why of everything. Understanding will be clear if youngsters are not asked to accept statements blindly.

The traits which we hope to encourage are cleanliness, respect, obedience, and veracity. The lad wants to obey because the command is reasonable and the right thing to do. In addition it is easier than to disobey. Let him weave as many fanciful tales as he wishes in developing his imagination, in living in his dream world, but questions of fact must be answered accurately. We all respect authority, but that which endures is tempered with kindliness. If the one who gives orders merely wants to demonstrate his tyranny we need not expect that his wishes will be performed complacently. In such circumstances we may look for rebellion and resentment.

We cannot anticipate law abiding men and women if our children are insubordinate and untruthful. Rewards may be all right in special cases but it is far wiser to teach the desirability of doing things well.

Nevertheless, praise seems to be a scarce commodity in some households. While it may be overdone occasionally, it is one of our greatest stimulants. The next time the lad will try to perform the task even better because his effort has been commended. The family wherein every contact with the children is peppered with a shower of "don'ts" points to failure somewhere along the line. It may mean that the parents are inconsistent or that there is a conflict of authority between them.

KIDNEY PAIN.

V. H. writes: I had two attacks of kidney colic several years ago. Will I ever be bothered again?

REPLY.

If your trouble was due to a calculus [stone] the chances are that the obstruction has long since departed. If you want to make certain, have an X-ray examination. Colic can come from a kink in the tube which leads from a kidney to the bladder. In this condition a year or two without an attack indicates that recurrence is unlikely.

NIGHT AIR.

Mrs. H. writes: I read somewhere that the influenza germ is carried at night and that it is better to ventilate the bedroom during the day and keep the windows closed at night. Is this just a rumor?

REPLY.

Altho the "bug" has many owllike qualities, it is a facile traveler by day. It doesn't like bright sunlight, however. Airing the bedding out of doors will be helpful.

NOT DANGEROUS.

D. M. writes: Is mitral regurgitation serious?

REPLY.

Altogether too much emphasis is placed upon heart murmurs. They may have little significance. If the cardiac muscle is doing a good job, you can forget about the mitral "leak."

DEFORMED SPINE.

J. P. writes: In a case of rickets which has affected the spine can anything be done to straighten it?

REPLY.

Yes. The child should be under the care of a skilled orthopedist. Much can be done for correction.

The Year Behind Us.

The year was long, so long that the path back to its beginning can be retraced with difficulty. It was a year of partings, of empty homes and tight lipped faces, a year of casualty lists, the year when the 18 year olds and the fathers went in the draft and Superman was deferred because of his X-ray vision. It was a year men disappeared as completely as the children of Hamelin town.

It was the year Rommel's strategy failed in Africa and Ruml's strategy failed in congress. It was the year nail brushes, Kleenex, and butter began to vanish from the American scene and words such as seep [sea going jeep], globaloney, and televise crept into the American tongue. It was the year Charley Chaplin's peccadilloes came back into the public eye.

It was the year American boys fell, and fell, and fell, and the American flag went forward in every corner of the globe and the coal miners went on strike at home. It was the year of Salerno, and Tarawa, and Hill 609, of heroism unchronicled on the beach and in the water and in the air, the year Mussolini was kidnaped and no one remembered to ask what had become of Rudolph Hess, the year Mrs. Roosevelt went and went.

It was the year a mouse stopped rush hour traffic on Michigan avenue, the year the Chicago Historical society's museum refused Sally Rand's proffered gift of her ostrich feather fans, the year grapes were $7.20 a pound in England, the year a man addressed his income tax, with more wisdom than he knew, to the United States Collector of International Revenue. It was the year of the black market.

It was the year of Sinatra and the swooners, of "Coming in on a Wing and a Prayer" and "Pistol Packin' Mama" and "They're Either Too Young or Too Old." It was the year we wore out our war songs before they had a chance to dent the heart, the year American boys began to realize the truth of, and to sing as their fathers before them, "There's a long, long trail a-winding into the land of my dreams . . ."

It was the year of red points and blue points and unutterable edible confusion, of nothing so rare as a steak in June, of one country indivisible, one flag inviolable, one pork chop infinitesimal. It was the year of soybeans and weak coffee and non-elastic garters and leg makeup that did not streak. It was the year the OPA extended its rationing fingers to almost everything but its own words.

It was the year Clare Luce went to congress and coined a word that was heard around the world. It was the year Bizet's "Carmen," after having been tolerated for 75 years, became a Broadway hit as "Carmen Jones." It was the year the most eloquent prose of this generation was written in foxholes and dugouts and camouflaged airplane revetments and came home to America on V-mail.

It was the year Scotch tape vanished and red tape increased. It was the year perfumes, colognes, and whisky went to war, and you varied the old, "Come up and have a drink" to "Have a drink and come up," and the W. C. T. U. rediscovered herb teas. It was the year the WPB finally recognized the exigencies of babies and put diapers back on the priority list. It was the year the Bible outsold itself.

It was the year British soldiers began saying truck for "lorry" and American soldiers began saying "petrol" for gasoline. It was a year that contained the 175th anniversary of the Encyclopedia Britannica, the 168th anniversary of the marine corps, and the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor. It was a year when you often worked very hard to laugh.

THE HEART BALM LAW.

Mobridge, S. D., Dec. 23.—You differ decidedly with Judge Frank M. Padden of the Superior court, who held that the heart balm law, enacted in July, 1935, is clearly unconstitutional.

Perhaps you have overlooked the fact that Gov. Henry Horner and former Atty. Gen. Otto Kerner, now on the federal Circuit Court of Appeals, also expressed opinions in accordance with Judge Padden, also that the Illinois Supreme court knocked out the penalty clause which subjected litigants and lawyers to imprisonment for the mere filing of "heart balm" cases in the case of People vs. Mahummed.

There is nothing wrong with your argument that many women have used such cases as a means of blackmail and extortion and that gold digging vampires have abused the old law. Granted.

However, should personal injury suits be abolished because many persons, who fall thru their own negligence, file suits against the city, surface lines and cab companies [and even attempt to make superficial scratches and bruises permanent injuries]?

Courts exist to determine where the truth lies, and perjurers, liars, and blackmailers will be found out.

and Sol R. Friedman.

LABOR DRAFT.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—The President in his Christmas eve address said he would have something to say about the home front in his address to congress when it convenes next month.

I predict that he will come out strongly for a law requiring forced labor as provided for in the Austin-Wadsworth bill. The fact that he has no personal control over the civilian population seems to have irritated him no end. To support my contention I call attention to the statement just issued by that labor draft fanatic, Sen. Austin of Vermont, who told reporters that a labor draft is imminent. This Republican New Deal stooge has been used to tip off the American people as to what they may expect. A trial balloon is being used to see just what the reaction will be. Rest assured, the New Dealers are going to use every artifice at their command to put over this iniquitous law. Clay T. Held.

CROSSING GUARD.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—"Railroad Employe" in the Dec. 27 issue of The Tribune gave the approximate earnings of conductors and engineers in railroad service. Apparently this "railroad employe" works in the wage bureau of some railroad and if so, why didn't he give the earnings of other employes, such as crossing flagmen, who work in the city of Chicago 8 hours a day, 7 days a week, and receive a monthly wage of $111.93. And, incidentally, they do not receive time and a half for overtime. Just straight 46 cents an hour for all work in excess of 8 hours a day.

Frank L. Noakes.

WOULD RAISE /. LIBERTY POLE.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—I have read several letters recently from Scottish people, in which they advocate independence from Great Britain, or speak of movements of that sort.

Don't you think this is an appropriate time to start a campaign to effect our independence from Great Britain, also? Andrew MacTavish.

WHERE THE PACIFIC WAR IS IMPORTANT.

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 10.—We are five devoted readers of your paper. One of the things we mostly miss is not receiving the daily Chicago Tribune. In the last five months we have received only three Tribunes and with 5 fellows in our tent it was like fighting a million men, three papers and five men and all admirers of the Tribune.

We feel from personal observation, that were the policies you advocate put into effect and carried out, it would bring this war to a speedy and successful conclusion. Here in the Southwest Pacific we look up to you as our friend and champion and we are grateful to you for focusing public attention on the importance of this theater of war.

We personally feel that service men, regardless of where they may be, should have the right to vote for President, because it means the whole future. As far away as we are, we know that our folks and the rest of the people feel the same toward you as we do.

Five Tent Mates.

RESTRICTING WAR PRODUCTION.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—Saturday's Tribune relates the story of a skilled workman who was able to produce 30 to 36 parts daily for navy anti-aircraft guns. The result of his high production was an order from the union to produce only 13 parts a day, the established union production rate.

That this is not an isolated incident is proved to me by the experience of my sister on her second day as an inspector in a defense plant. She and her partner were able to measure a large number of airplane propellers daily. The same night they were told to work more slowly and measure fewer units as it would make the other shifts look bad if they couldn't handle as many units, and in a long time period would mean the employment of fewer inspectors.

If labor unions are going to restrict the output of products that the front lines need badly, the returning service man may forcefully remind the unions that they exist by governmental permission and not by a God-given right.

Warren P. Anderson.

ROSES.

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet; the New Deal by any other name will still smell, and spells defeat. Ruby Sendram.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling

RESIDENCE FOR VOTING.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—[Legal Friend of the People].—How long does one have to be a resident of Illinois in order to vote? O. W.

Immediately preceding the election he must have lived a year in this state, 90 days in the county, and 30 days in the precinct.

FOUR NETWORKS WILL AIR MUSIC TO WELCOME '44

The New Year will be ushered in by music on special broadcasts by the four radio networks tonight. W-G-N and the Mutual network will start the proceedings at 11 p. m. when Steve Ellis will describe tumultuous Times Square in New York City at the minute 1944 makes its debut. Mutual then will broadcast leading dance bands from New York until 11:45 when the dancing party will switch to Chicago for 1944's debut at the Aragon ballroom, with Eddy Howard's orchestra.

The parade of music across America will continue on W-G-N and Mutual until 3 a. m. The other networks' stations in Chicago, WENR-Blue, WBBM-CBS, and WMAQ-NBC, each will present a series of orchestras from New York to California from 11:15 p. m. to 2 a. m.

CHICAGO DRINKS TOAST TONIGHT TO WELCOME 1944

It was learned yesterday from a reliable source that an increase in the sales of aspirin and similar palliatives is expected soon.

This, it is understood, is because tonight is New Year's eve, and hotels, night clubs, taxicab companies, drug stores, and police stations are preparing for one of the biggest celebrations in Chicago's history.

Extra police will be assigned to the loop because of the large crowds expected there. The National Safety council and the Chicago Motor club warned against mixing alcohol and gasoline.

The Anti-Saloon league and the Women's Christian Temperance union warned against mixing alcohol with anything.

Effect Downstate Told at Clerks' Meeting.

Troubles—including in some cases payless pay days for school teachers—that are now piling up for downstate counties as a result of County Assessor John S. Clark's decision to assess in Cook county at 100 per cent of full value were discussed at a meeting of county clerks in Chicago yesterday.

The conferees, a committee of the Illinois County Clerks association, met in the office of Philip W. Collins, director of the state department of revenue. The revenue department, Collins said, was unable to certify railroad valuations to the counties now, and could not do so until Clark has finished his new assessment. Without the rail figures no counties downstate may extend taxes and send out tax bills.

Suit Being Contemplated.

John S. Hillen of Warren county, president of the clerks' association, said that his county was contemplating a suit to compel the department to certify on last year's figures, but added that he was satisfied to wait on the completion of the local assessment here. This came after Collins assured the group he was doing everything possible to expedite matters and would have the assessments in the counties' possession by Feb. 7.

The principal complaint of the clerks was that the delay was not anticipated and that school districts and other taxing bodies were out of cash and could not borrow against or collect the new levies at the regular time; many counties start collecting normally by March 1.

Hillen said he was convinced the state department was doing everything possible to assist and this opinion was echoed by the other clerks.

Based on Average Ratio.

The railroad assessment, by law, must be made on the average ratio of assessment prevailing over the state. Last year, when the ratio in Cook county was 37 per cent, the state-wide average was figured at 31 per cent. With Cook county at 100 per cent, Collins said, the ratio probably will be increased to 56 or even 60 per cent.

Clark's position is that the only proper and fair way to assess is at 100 per cent and that this method should prevail over the state. The county clerks called attention to the hundreds of township assessors downstate and asserted that there was no chance to get such an agreement; that the only way to reform the taxing machinery was thru legislation.

RULING NEAR ON NEWSPAPER RADIO STATIONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—The federal communications commission neared a decision today in its long investigation of newspaper ownership of radio stations, with some congressional sources predicting an outright prohibition. Other congressional sources who have followed radio problems thought the commission might prohibit future acquisition of stations by newspaper interests, but not disturb present relations.

Taking cognizance of reports that a decision was near, Chairman James L. Fly of the FCC issued a brief statement saying the commission is continuing its study of the matter, but "has taken no vote and has arrived at no conclusion."

M. F. McCarthy Becomes Kiwanis Club President

M. F. McCarthy, Chicago district sales manager of International Harvester company, was installed as president of the Chicago Kiwanis club yesterday at the organization's weekly meeting in Hotel Sherman. Harry A. Sewell, attorney, is the new vice president. Other officers are: Grant L. Sutton of Soundies Film exchange, secretary, and Chester T. Price, vice president of the National Cylinder Gas company, treasurer.

WAR CHISELERS KEEP FBI BUSY HERE DURING '43

Investigation of more than 1,400 violations of the selective service law and 500 cases of illegal wearing of military uniforms accounted for a considerable part of the 1943 business handled by the Chicago office of the federal bureau of investigation, Chief Spencer J. Drayton said yesterday in his annual report.

"Petty chiselers," Drayton said, "have discovered that it is easier to operate while wearing a uniform. Some are more or less harmless and wear the uniform to get a free meal at the U. S. O. or service men's centers, or as an aid to hitch-hiking.

Families Are Victimized.

"Many imposters are preying on the friends and relatives of service men by posing as their comrades or officers. They also cash bogus checks in currency exchanges and hotels.

"During the year we have arrested men posing as officers or enlisted men in all branches of the service. In a number of cases men have 'borrowed' money from women they were able to victimize because of the impression made by their bogus decorations. In other cases men and boys have donned uniforms merely to impress their friends."

Campaign Against Sabotage.

Drayton credited fingerprinting and investigation of employes' identification badges, plant guards, and fire precautions suggested by the FBI for the prevention of sabotage in Chicago area industrial plants. The internal security program started by the FBI now is administered by the army and navy.

Weak Family Life a Cause of Delinquency

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Where does the blame lie for the juvenile delinquency of just the two war years? Is it all the fault of the war?

Some of the increase is, but not all, by any means. Take this actual story, told in a report on this subject by the director of the National Probation association, which, as you know, works only with youth:

"Says a report from the Los Angeles juvenile court: 'The rapid expansion of war industry and other defense activities in 1941 was accompanied by increased employment of women, irregular working hours, economic inflation, and other factors tending to weaken the normal restraints of family life and increasing the temptations and opportunities for juvenile delinquency.'

"Sometimes the parents work from economic necessity, but this is not always the case. In one instance a family was found living in two foul rooms behind a store. There were two young daughters out roaming the streets, stealing bicycles, and habitually reported truant from school. Both parents were working. The father was drawing $80 to $90 a week and was 'playing the horses', with the money. The mother was working until 2 in the morning, and in addition to being out of touch with her daughters' evenings, wasn't getting up mornings to get them off to school.

"A juvenile court judge says, 'Where the father's income is adequate — and it is in most of the cases which come before me—there is no excuse for the mother to be out of the home. If there is no father or if the father's income is not large enough to care for his children properly, the state offers a subsidy under the aid to dependent children program to allow the mother to stay with her family.'

Here is emphasis on the point I have been making ever since this war started: that if it is humanly possible, a mother who is needed at home should stay at home. This does not mean that women shall not go into war work. But maintaining the health, happiness, and morals of our children is as much a part of war service as standing on an assembly line at a factory.

Recipes Given for New Year Punch Bowls

BY MARY MEADE.

The ceremonious punch bowl reigns supreme as a symbol of cheerful hospitality when family and friends gather together on New Year's day. It's a gala occasion for the hostess, too, for her refreshment problem is easily solved with a simple but tempting beverage that guests may ladle out for themselves, along with thin slices of your favorite fruit cake or perhaps trays of tiny holiday cookies.

Choose a colorful fruit or wine punch garnished with wedges of lemon and orange, a hot, spicy tea punch, or mulled wine to fill the sparkling bowl.

Fruit Punch.
[50 punch glasses.]
4 cups sugar
2 cups water
1 quart lemon juice
3 cups orange juice
1 quart grape juice
3½ quarts water

Make a sirup of sugar and 2 cups water. Cool. Add strained fruit juices and water. Pour over a block of ice in punch bowl. Ginger ale may be used instead of part of the water, and pineapple juice may be used in place of part or all of the grape juice. Garnish with thin wedges of orange and lemon.

Wine Punch.
[Serves 30.]
1 bottle port or claret wine
1 pint lemon juice
1 pint orange juice
½ pint grenadine, grape juice, or pineapple juice
1 bottle carbonated water
1 pint ginger ale

Combine ingredients and pour into a punch bowl in which a block of ice has been placed. Garnish with cherries or sliced oranges. Less lemon juice may be used if a sweet punch rather than a tart one is preferred.

Mulled Wine.
[Serves 16.]
1 quart port wine
½ pint rum
1 pint water
1 stick cinnamon
1 teaspoon whole allspice
1 tablespoon sugar
5 whole cloves

Place spices in a bag and add to water and sugar. Simmer for 15 minutes. Pour wine and rum into the hot water. Stir gently. Do not let the mixture come to the boiling point. Remove the spice bag and serve the wine warm in heated punch bowl. [If stick cinnamon is not available, use ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon.]

Bohemian Tea.
[Serves 20 to 22.]
3 quarts boiling water
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon
1 tablespoon orange pekoe tea
¾ cup orange juice
Juice of 2 lemons

Tie spices loosely in a cheesecloth bag and add with sugar to hot water. Boil for 10 minutes, turn off heat and add tea, tied in another bag. Cover and let stand for 5 minutes. Remove spices and tea bag. Add fruit juices and serve hot in heated punch bowl. [Ground spices may be used. Tie ½ teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves in a muslin bag and boil for 5 minutes instead of 10 with the sirup.]

TURN IN WASTE FATS FOR POINTS AND PENNIES.

Filet Tablecloth

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A small, square, crocheted tablecloth created in a filet pattern has a rose and butterfly motif which is dainty and graceful. This effective design also may be used for a table centerpiece. Fine white cotton is the ideal medium in which to execute this handsome piece of needlework.

For instructions in crocheting the square tablecloth, No. 936, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Oyster-Sausage Loaf.
[Serves four to six.]
8 slices bread, crumbled
Milk
2 dozen oysters
1 pound ground pork or sausage
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper

Crumble bread and pour over it liquid drained from oysters. If necessary, add milk to moisten well. Add remaining ingredients and shape into a loaf. Bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 1 hour.

Order of Good Templars to Have Music Program

Districts 2 and 5 of the International Order of Good Templars will usher in the new year with a musical program tonight, beginning at 8:30 o'clock, at the West End Woman's club, Monroe street and Ashland boulevard. Artists will include Virginia Parker, soprano; Lewis Hartfield, tenor, and Dr. Paul Vernon, violinist. Dr. Vernon, who is president of the Austin Academy of Fine Arts, formerly was violin soloist with the Cleveland Symphony orchestra.

Party Clothes Are Ready for the Year's End

BY REA SEEGER

Some of the most fascinating party clothes ever launched for a departing year celebration are in the collections featured for such a gala occasion. Debs and sub-debs have practically anything and everything ever dreamed about, in color and drifts of net and tulle. Traditional dancing dresses featuring dozens of yards of net or lace swishing over taffeta slips attached to figure slimming bodices of satin or brocade or silk are ready all over town. Choose the color and take what best dramatizes your own personality to be the belle of the ball.

Distinctively streamlined and of spartan simplicity are the new day-length party dresses. These are exciting models with bodices definitely fashioned like low cut evening gowns. They come in black, in deep purple, midnight blue, plum, and copper. Everything festive is applied to the neckline—luxurious bands of snowy white ermine, gleaming satin ribbon, metallics, filmy shadow yokes of chiffon, marquisette, or the illusion even of flashing sequins. Some of the newest models feature long fitted sleeves trickily attached well below the exposed shoulders, thus simulating long evening gloves. Others have long narrow panels of the same material as the dress, to be worn as a scarf or left floating down as a panel to the hemline of the straight skirt.

Sensational glittering successes are composed of half and half combinations, such as a bodice completely splashed with multi-colored sequins outlining a printed motif in the material, and a skirt of strong colored contrast minus any hint of sequins. A third color is introduced in the suede belt also decorated with sequins or in a simply grosgrain ribbon tied artlessly in front in a bow.

Goya Pictures Vividly Drawn by Ballet Cast

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

A brightly varied bill with Argentinita's version of "Pictures of Goya" as its focus of novel interest, brought a capacity house to Ballet Theater's performance at the Civic Opera house last night. Before the novelty the Tudor "Romeo and Juliet" was repeated, and Lucia Chase and Albia Kavan were new in a repetition of "Pas de Quatre," with Kavan sparkling in a pas de seul and Chase disclosing well grounded competence.

The public quite obviously was most interested in the Spanish venture, which turned out to be pretty much as described in its title. Out of a huge baroque frame at the back of a stage hung in black velvet there were momentary tableaux of five paintings of the Spanish master: "Los Embozados," in which two duchesses have a rendezvous with their lovers; "Jugando al Toro," two youngsters in a make-believe bull fight; "La Vendadora De Uvas," in which the boys torment a fruit vendor and finally make away with her wares; "Los Majos Enamorados," a light-o'-love dispensing her favors to two boy friends, and "Capricho," in which two grotesque thugs force their attentions on a lady and succeed in kidnaping her.

There is a static moment for the audience to visualize the painter's design, then Goya's artfully drawn characters step out of their frame and become themselves in brief but vivid vignettes. The conception is clever, the execution adroit. Argentinita and her colleagues, Pilar Lopez, Jose Greco, and Manolo Vargas, are superbly but reticently costumed, and there is restrained good taste in the lack of over-dramatization. This, however, suggests merely negative virtues, which was by no means the case for there was excitement of a unique sort in Argentinita's lashing fandango, in the romping exuberance of Greco and Vargas as the bull fight degenerates into leap frog, in Lopez' coquetry as she practices the double cross in front of her lover's nose, in the dark moment of violence in the abduction scene, and above all in the brilliant Jota finale, in which the two most popular Spanish Jotas are juxtaposed for contrast which ends in competition. The Granados music which Antal Dorati arranged and conducted so well, is quite right and the only pity is that this was "Pictures of Goya's" only presentation.

"Lilac Garden," one of Antony Tudor's earlier dance compositions, also came up for a single performance on the Wednesday night bill. It is obviously Tudor in its trance-like quality and in the sense of frustration so clearly projected in the unrequited lovers. Nora Kaye and Hugh Laing again were paired for one of their subtle yet dominating expositions, Tudor was reserved and right as "The Man She Must Marry," and Maria Karnilova had the fleeting feeling for "An Episode in His Past." Unexpectedly, Chausson's "Poeme" for violin solo and orchestra proved a provocative tonal background.

At-Home Design

This one pattern makes either a house frock or a housecoat, depending on fabric selected and length of skirt and sleeves. It's a comfortable, wraparound model you'll enjoy making and wearing. Style No. 3470 is designed for sizes 12 to 44. Size 36 requires, for frock, 4½ yards of 35 inch fabric; for housecoat, 3⅝ yards of 54 inch fabric.

Order Clotilde Patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Armour Ideas Make the Most of Meat

A Gay Way to Fix Star Smoked Tongue!

For holiday entertaining plan a buffet supper around a colorful plate of Star Smoked Beef Tongue with Horseradish Molds. It'll cost you little more than 1 point per serving! And the delicious beef tongue and sharp, tangy molds create a flavor combination that can't be beat! What's more, the rich red of the meat and the cool green of the molds will give your buffet a nice holiday touch!

To serve about 12, get a 3-3½ pound Armour's Star Smoked Beef Tongue. We suggest Star tongue because it's flavorful and delicious...a real favorite with epicures!

Cover tongue with water and let simmer in covered container 3 to 4 hours, or until tender. After removing skin and roots from tongue, slice and serve on platter with horseradish molds made this way: Dissolve 1 package lime gelatin dessert in 1 cup hot water, add ¼ cup prepared horseradish and chill in small molds. And here's a tip: The unsliceable meat makes a swell sandwich filling!

Two Betrothals of Interest Are Being Revealed

BY JUDITH CASS.

ENDING the old year on a romantic note and starting the new one with wedding plans uppermost in their minds are two well known young women in Chicago and on the north shore, Miss Marjorie Kimball and Miss Jean Wolcott. Today Mrs. G. Cook Kimball of Lake Shore drive is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Marjorie Stuart, to Lt. Robert William Clark Jr. of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark of Seattle, Wash.

The announcement will not come as a complete surprise, for Lt. Clark has been devoted to Miss Kimball since they first met after he came to Chicago to take over his duties at the naval reserve school at Northwestern university, at which he still is stationed. Miss Kimball was graduated from the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry and has been active in the Chicago Junior league and civic interests. She served as regional director for the National Association of Junior Leagues of America for three years and has been chairman of volunteers for the Travelers Aid society for two years.

Lt. Clark was graduated from the University of Washington. His fiancée and her mother enjoyed a family Christmas reunion with Miss Kimball's brothers, Nelson Kimball of Philadelphia and Richard Kimball of Cleveland, and their families, in Cleveland.

Mrs. Ryland Anson Wolcott of Winnetka today is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Jean Lister, to Ezra Pugh, son of Mrs. Chauncey Ezra Pugh and the late Lt. Comdr. Pugh, U. S. N. retired, of New York. Miss Wolcott and her fiancé, who is stationed at Northwestern university as a petty officer first class in the navy, told their families of their engagement at a family Christmas party.

Miss Wolcott is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school and of the Stuart school in Boston. She is a member of the Chicago Junior league and has been active as a Red Cross nurses' aid. Mr. Pugh was graduated from Phillips Exeter academy and attended Williams college. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

Other Engagements.

From their home in Sewickley, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick F. McIntosh have sent word of the engagement of their daughter, Frederica, to Caleb Johnson Massee, son of Burt A. Massee of East Walton place and of Mrs. Margaret Johnson Massee of Orange Park, Fla. Young Mr. Massee, who is in Florida now, is expected in Chicago soon on his way back to Honolulu, where he is engaged in engineering work. He attended the Asheville and the Hill schools and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His pretty fiancee is a junior at Vassar college.

The engagement of Miss Peggy Pierson to Lt. Frank K. Badger was announced at a family party Sunday in the home of Miss Pierson's grandmother, Mrs. Frank J. Scheidenhelm Miss Pierson, daughter of Mrs. Leland V. Pierson of Wilmette, is a senior at Wellesley college. Her sister, Nancy, recently became engaged to Lt. Richard S. Frazer of Winnetka.

Lt. Badger, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Badger, also of Wilmette, was attending the Northwestern university institute of technology when he entered the army. He recently received his commission from the army air forces and now is stationed at Scott field, Ill. His brother, Ensign Badger Jr., is on duty in the Pacific.

At a tea at home in River Forest last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Green announced the engagement of their elder daughter, Donna, to Ensign Robert V. Nystrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor S. Nystrom of Norway, Mich. Miss Green will be graduated from Lawrence college in February. Ensign Nystrom was graduated from Lawrence last April and received his commission from the naval reserve midshipmen's school at Northwestern university. He is stationed at Fort Pierce, Fla.

News of Births.

Ensign and Mrs. Lyle Harper Jr. [Roberta Lane] announce the birth of a daughter, Katharine Cornell, at the Seaside hospital in Long Beach, Cal. The baby, the third to bear her name, is a fifth generation Chicagoan. Her great-great-grandfather was Paul Cornell, founder of Hyde Park. She is a great-great-grandniece of the late Orrington and Cornelia Lunt of Evanston and of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Evans, who founded Evanston and then went by covered wagon to Colorado, where Mr. Evans became the state's first governor. The baby's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Harper Sr., has gone to California to see her first grandchild and to say goodby to Ensign Harper, who will go overseas. Young Mrs. Harper and the baby will go to Kenosha to be with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Hiram H. Lane, early in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adams Sellery [Emma Brown] of Evanston are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Kay Acheson, Tuesday night in the Highland Park hospital. The baby and her brothers, Robert Jr. and Stephen Edward, are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Acheson Sellery of Ravinia and of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Brown of Atlanta, Ga.

Here and There.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Morse Jr.'s Christmas holidays have been made gayer by the presence of their son, Ensign Robert Morse III., who is at home on leave from his duties in Annapolis, Md. Also visiting the Morses is Midshipman George Hazelhurst of Spottswood, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Morse will leave for Palm Beach, Fla., Sunday to

And how are all the lasses
Who type and file, and all the while,
Are speirin' for the passes?

The laddies, too, wa hae the noo,
Been readin' of your column,
Tha' should na mumble, fuss and fumble,
And dictate slow and solemn.

So White Collar Host, I drink a toast
On this festive New Year season,
And I raise ma glass, to the bonnie lass

Missions Body Will Convene Here Tuesday

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

War in the Pacific, with its mounting stories of dramatic rescues of fighting men by missionaries and native converts on atolls and elsewhere, is being accepted as a vindication of Christian foreign missions in the public mind. Consequently, when Chicago becomes a five day foreign missions capital of North American Protestantism Tuesday, it will be more than a passing event.

Announcements of sessions of the Foreign Missions council of North America in the La Salle hotel, with a public session in Orchestra hall a week from tonight, will arouse much wider interest than, say, about a decade ago when the Rockefeller sponsored Laymen's Missionary inquiry then tended to inspire doubt in the whole enterprise.

Altho foreign missions' contributions to the drama of the isolated rescues excite immediate public interest, when history of the entire Pacific warfare can be written it is now believed by observers that the unintended column of American influence set up by missionary institutions in China, the Philippines, and the islands of the sea will have been cited as sufficient to turn the entire tide of the war in that theater. Some competent observers declare that China might have been allied with Japan had there been no Christian missionary influence there in the last century.

Chicago will be visited during the meeting by the Christian missionary physician credited by Chinese authorities as giving possibly greatest individual aid in erecting China's plans for medical and hospital care for the people of that country. He is Dr. Edward H. Hume of New York, present director of the Christian medical council for overseas service.

Dr. Hume also is the father of the late Rev. Theodore [Ted] Hume, "first martyr to Ecumenical Christianity" and former pastor of New England Congregational church of Chicago. The Rev. Mr. Hume was killed when a Swedish commercial airplane was shot down over Sweden in September. Memorial services were held for him thruout the English speaking world.

Dr. Hume is scheduled to preach Sunday morning, Jan. 2, at Hyde Park Baptist church, 56th street and Woodlawn avenue. In addition to Dr. Hume, 90 widely known leaders of nearly two score denominations will appear on various programs of the mission council sessions. These include the honorary co-chairmen of the conference, Dr. Robert E. Speer and Dr. John R. Mott, and one of the best known foreign missionaries of the present day, Dr. E. Stanley Jones. The Right Rev. Y. Y. Tsu, an Anglican bishop in China, also will be on the program.

The Orchestra hall mass meeting will be addressed by Rep. Walter H. Judd [R., Minn.], one of the few members of congress who are doctors of medicine, and by Dr. Jones. Bishop Tsu will speak before the opening session Tuesday night. Tracy Strong, Y. M. C. A. secretary for war prisoners, and Dr. Willard Brewing, Toronto, Canada, of the foreign missions board of the United Church of Canada, will be other speakers.

The Rev. Leo R. Ward, C. S. C., of the University of Notre Dame, yesterday was elected president of the American Catholic Philosophical association as the 19th meeting of the association closed in the Hotel Sherman. He will succeed the Rev.

Religious News Notes

In contrast with gay spots, many churches of the city have announced "watch night" services late tonight to usher in 1944. These services, together with the special day of prayer services tomorrow, and the Roman Catholic feast of the Holy Name of Jesus Sunday, will mark the New Year week-end's extraordinary devotions. . . . Dr. Charles R. Goff, minister of First Methodist church, Chicago Temple, announces repetition of the historic "watch night" service for that century-old congregation tonight. The designation "watch night" is generally attributed to the Rev. John Wesley, founder of world-wide Methodism. Evanston's Protestant community is invited to a New Year's day service in First Congregational church at 11 o'clock under auspices of First Baptist, Congregational, Methodist, and Unitarian churches of the city. Drs. Hugh Elmer Brown, Charles H. Heimsath, Ernest F. Tittle, and the Rev. John Nichols Booth will officiate.

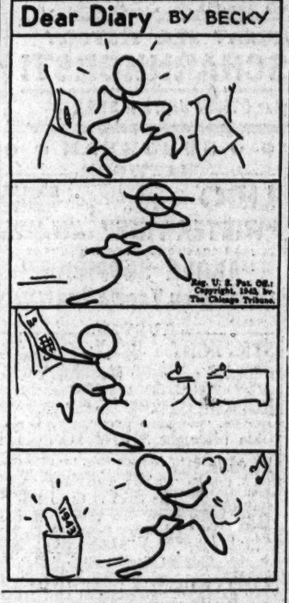
Dr. Charles R. Goff.

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch will speak over a nation-wide radio chain, originating thru W-G-N at 10:30 a. m. Sunday from St. Sabina's church, 7800 South Racine avenue. The archbishop will be celebrant at the 8 o'clock mass for the feast of the Holy Name. The Rev. William A. Gorey, pastor, has invited all Holy Name society men of the parish to breakfast following the mass to hear the archbishop's address, "A Prayer for Peace." . . . Moody Memorial church, North avenue and La Salle street, will use watch night service for a mortgage burning ceremony over which Dr. H. A. Ironside, pastor, will preside. Moody church was built in 1925 at a cost of a million and a half dollars with an indebtedness at the time of construction of a half million. . . . The Rev. Louis J. Schwartzkopf, head of the Lutheran bureau, 82 West Washington street, will be instituted as pastor of Hyde Park Lutheran church, Dorchester avenue and 55th street, Sunday night by Dr. J. A. Leimer of Hope Lutheran church. The Hyde Park church has been sold and a new church near the University of Chicago campus will be erected after the war. . . . Pastor Schwartzkopf will continue to head the Lutheran bureau.

A solemn holy hour service will be held tonight at 11:30 at the shrine of St. Jude Thaddeus, St. Pius church, Ashland avenue and 19th street. The Rev. Edward L. Hughes, O.P., will conduct the service. . . . "The Unknown Tomorrow" will be Dr. Frederick K. Stamm's New Year's sermon topic Sunday morning at First Congregational church, 1613 Washington boulevard. . . . A commission of the entire rabbinate of Chicago has elected Rabbi Morris Teller as chairman of a committee to install protests against the British white paper prohibiting Jewish immigration to Palestine. Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Zionist organization of America, presided over the rabbinate.

Dr. Harold W. Ruopp of Central church, Orchestra hall, announces the annual communion service of the congregation Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. . . . A New Year's eve program at University Church of the Disciples, 5655 University avenue, will begin at 11:30. Dr. Irvin E. Lunger is minister. . . . "The Forgotten Christmas Gift," a drama, will be offered by the Sunday school of Hope Reformed church, Wolcott avenue and 78th street, Sunday night at 7:30. . . . Dr. G. Arvid Hagstrom of Emerald Avenue Baptist church of Englewood announces the Day of Prayer services tomorrow beginning at 3 p. m. The watch night service will be held from 10:30 tonight to midnight. . . . The convent of Our Lady of the Cenacle, 513 Fullerton parkway, will observe New Year's week-end with a special retreat for women with registrants arriving tonight. The Rev. John J. Dussman will be the retreat master. . . . "A Nation's War Time Prayers" will be the subject of Dr. Clinton C. Cox's sermon tomorrow morning at special Day of Prayer services, Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 64th street and Marshfield avenue.

Dear Diary BY BECKY



Dr. Joseph A. Schalbert of St. Paul, Minn. New members to the executive council include Prof. Mortimer Adler of the University of Chicago, the Rev. Stewart Dollard, S. J., West Baden, Ind., and Prof. Charles de Kominck of Quebec, Canada.

The University of Chicago choral speech choir will participate in a nation-wide broadcast at 12:45 p. m. tomorrow as a part of the national New Year's day of prayer set up by Presidential proclamation. The choir, a choral reading group, uses oral techniques akin to ancient Greek choruses. It will read the Canticle to the Sun, from St. Francis of Assisi, Micah VI.; selected portions of Carl Sandburg's "The People, Yes," the 46th Psalm, and the Lord's Prayer. Solo readings will be by Chaplain Louis Collie.

World Traveler to Talk at Academy of Sciences

John R. Philip, world traveler and lecturer, will appear at 3 p. m. Sunday in the auditorium of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, Lincoln park at Clark street and Ogden avenue, in the first of a winter series of Sunday afternoon lectures, open free to the public. "The Canadian Pacific Rockies" will be the subject of his illustrated talk.

Many Parties Tonight Ring in New Year

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

INDICATIONS are that New Year's eve will be a gay one, with hotels, restaurants, and theaters expecting a capacity business, and a number of clubs open for watch parties. Indications also are that guests will bring their own spirits to some of the parties planned in private homes, while many who might have been starting the evening with cocktails at home before going on to dinner will enjoy their aperitifs at clubs or hotels, as whiskies are becoming increasingly difficult to buy in quantity.

The most formal of tonight's private parties will be given at the Casino, which is the setting for the annual Junior assembly, where girls from 15 to debutante age and boys from 15 thru college will be dancing the new year in. Boys of 15 were invited for the first time this year to make up for the absence of those 18 and over who are in service.

Preceding the assembly Mrs. T. Philip Swift, its chairman; Mrs. Dexter Cummings, her sister; Mrs. James C. Cook, and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson will entertain at dinner at the club for their daughters, Betty Swift, Joyce Cummings, Pamela Kelley, and Ellen Ryerson. Mrs. John P. Hooker is giving a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle for her daughter, Mary, before the party, and Ginevra Mitchell will be hostess at a smaller dinner at the Racquet club.

The Saddle is having its own party tonight, with dinner and dancing at 9 o'clock. The Tavern is not having a special party. The Racquet club is not having a party tonight, either. Members of the Cliff Dwellers will gather there as usual, and the Chicago Yacht club's Monroe street station will be ablaze with lights and good cheer to welcome the new year.

The Exmoor Country club is not having its usual celebration, nor will there be a party at the Chicago Golf. The Onwentsia closed its reservation list when it reached 250, and will have dinner and dancing. About the same number of guests is expected at the Indian Hill, which will serve supper. There will be two or three private parties at the Glen View. The South Shore Country club will have its customary large group to celebrate tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr. will have their usual circle of friends with them tonight to greet 1944. The Daniel Boones and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Douglas Cooper III. are giving a party at the Coopers' Winnetka home, to which their guests will bring both liquid and solid refreshments. Dr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire are entertaining at cocktails at home for Miss Barbara Straw, a debutante of the season, and taking their guests afterward to the Onwentsia. There is no large debutante party tonight.

The Donald F. Boweys, the Abner Stilwells, the Paul Pooles, Mrs. Gilbert Healy, Mrs. George P. Braun Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis, and the Andrew D. Berkeys are entertaining at the Key club tonight.

Thru the Looking Glass

Tonight's the night to look your shining best if you're stepping out—and here's how to manage it, even if you're tired before you start:

Lay out every single thing you'll need, from lingerie to evening bag, before you start to dress, so you won't be harassed or hurried in the process.

Take a slow bath, not too hot, and before you pop into the tub bind up your hair and slather your face and neck with cream. Stay in the tub for about 10 minutes and finish off with cool water.

Lie down for a while before you start your program. Dig out your eye pads if you have them, as you should, and let them help the cause of eye beauty along while you rest. They're really remarkable aids to eye luster if you combine them with a 10 or 15 minute session of relaxation. If you haven't the medicated pads, wring out cotton or gauze in warm water and lay these gently over the closed lids.

Make your makeup a lasting one, so your facial facade won't crumble after an hour or two. Use a base, by all means, and powder carefully over it—first slathering powder on, then smoothing it down with complexion brush or soft puff. Use eye makeup, too, deftly, and if you're wearing evening dress don't fail to make up back and shoulders and arms.

Break out your best and most becoming perfume, apply it artfully, not on your gown but directly on the flesh behind your ears, at the base of your neck, and on the inner elbows. And, because it's a special occasion and you'll be dancing, touch the hem of your slip with it so that you'll twirl in fragrance.

And have fun!

Tea at College Club.

Following today's symphony concert, the College club will have a tea at 4 p. m. in the clubrooms.

Surface Sheen Lost, Concerto Lacks Appeal

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw, conductor; Arthur Rubinstein, pianist. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Dec. 30, 1943, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:

Overture, "Idomeneo".....Mozart
"Valley Forge".....Knutzen
First performance in Chicago.
Concerto for Piano.....Khachaturian
Symphony No. 3, F major.....Brahms

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Artur Rubinstein reappeared at Orchestra hall last night, playing the first downtown performance of Aram Khachaturian's Piano Concerto with the Chicago Symphony orchestra under the direction of Désiré Defauw. Altho the Polish virtuoso, was in superb form, playing with a brilliance that would have made any concerto, if not an emperor, at least a valiant pretender to the throne of music, the score proved less interesting than at its Ravinia début last summer, and the performance less satisfying than Mr. Rubinstein's unforgettable playing of the Beethoven Third last Tuesday.

This is not particularly surprising. In Beethoven, Mr. Rubinstein found an outlet for the nobility of style that is the crown of his magnificent gifts. The Khachaturian work, essentially a showpiece, has little to substitute for the novelty exploited in first performance. At Ravinia it was conducted by Efrem Kurtz, who balanced the orchestra better than Mr. Defauw was able to last night, so that the pattern of the piano was never obscured, but always supported and displayed. Furthermore, the Ravinia performance was played by a talented youngster, William Kapell, making one of those electrifying débuts. It is no longer news to any one that Mr. Rubinstein is a magnificent pianist, so there could be no element of surprise. He played with a coruscating brilliance that polished the surface of a shallow work, and the orchestra thundered along, pausing just once, at the end of the slow movement, to linger on a memorable bit of phrasing.

The concert opened with Frederick Stock's arrangement of a Bach andante, played little more than a year ago for Mr. Stock himself, but last night in memory of Henry E. Voegeli, the orchestra's manager for many seasons. After that came a rather formless version of Mozart's Overture to "Idomeneo," and the first performance in Chicago of Boris Koutzen's "Valley Forge," a bombastic work, turgidly orchestrated, which bears no recognizable affinity to the honored name of its title.

The piano concerto, with its oriental colorings and its resonant soloist, was the peak of the program, altho, oddly enough, it preceded intermission. To follow a soloist like Rubinstein with a good performance of Brahms' Third Symphony would have been risky; to follow him with a poor one was anti-climactic.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 30.—Harry Cohn's asking price for Alexander Knox, who's playing Woodrow Wilson, is very modest. It's only $50,000. The holiday season got Harry. . . . Garbo isn't making "Lena Storme" at R. K. O. In fact, she's not making a picture there at all. I knew she wouldn't. She made too many requests. It's well known that Garbo never has made money for her producers in America. Her big draw has always been Europe. . . . Eric Hatch, who had much to do with "My Man Godfrey" and "Topper," has sold "Home Is the Sailor," which will run in a current magazine, to Bill Goetz. David Lewis will produce it. . . . Brynie Foy is getting praise from all quarters for his "Guadalcanal Diary," and deservedly so. . . . Hey! How about giving Lassie an award for the performance in "Lassie Come Home"?

Lost Out Again.

Hollywood's too slow on the up beat. It had a chance to buy into the Blue network. Hollywood's so busy making pictures it doesn't realize that television will be right around the corner when war's ended.

Boris Karloff. Dorothy Comingore. Bill Bendix.

. . . Nice having Boris Karloff back again. Some smart producer some day is going to realize that Boris IS a fine actor, and let him do something besides a horror picture. . . . Dorothy Comingore waited for her suspension at R. K. O. after making "Citizen Kane." Now plays opposite John Loder and Bill Bendix in "The Hairy Ape."

Marking Time.

I wonder if that sudden dash of Delmar Daves by plane to Washington had anything to do with the "Hollywood Canteen" picture. I have a hunch it did. I know Warners won't take the refusal of Hollywood to coöperate on this lying down. The Screen Actors guild turned it down. Jimmy Cagney is president of that. It's well known that Cagney and Warners have been rowing for a long time. There's more to this than meets the eye, and I have a hunch it will all come out in the wash. . . . Walter Pidgeon didn't wear his first screen beard in "Madame Curie." Eighteen years ago he was bearded in "Miss Nobody," which starred Anna Q. Nilsson and Louise Fazenda.

Should Get What They Want.

Fans, in spite of war, like their stars glamorous. At a recent opening Hedy Lamarr got the biggest hand, and was she done up!—in a long gown afire with sequins, over that a luscious mink coat. And as her husband, John Loder, passed me, he whispered, "And I didn't pay for either of them." It always amuses me to see stars under contract to other studios refusing to speak over the microphone at an opening. Only those who think they're important skip it. The really big ones are gracious—and why not? It's part of a public appearance. And wouldn't they resent it if they were able to sneak into a theater unnoticed? Boy, that would take down their ego to zero.

They Can Hope, Can't They?

Bill Girard, producer of "Ladies in Washington," has been asked to stress the glamor of the WACs', WAVES', and SPARS' uniforms, so they'll trot out all their finery, hoping it will help recruiting. . . . Trudy Marshall, who played in "The Sullivans," is testing for Benny Goodman's musical. . . . Marjorie Reynolds dyeing again—her blonde hair goes red for "Bring on the Girls." It's in color.

INSTALMENT XLI.

INTO THE GAP.

As they headed into the higher hills, Neal talked over with his companions the problem that confronted them. To rush in and attempt a rescue would be fatal. They would either be taken prisoners or exterminated. No success was possible unless they could pull off a coup that would give them something with which to trade. If they could capture Cad Clemson a deal might be worked out.

The chance of surprising Clemson had been lessened by the cattlemen's raid.

Miller could give them no assurance as to where Clemson might be found. He might be with the besieging party, in which case there would be practically no chance of seizing him. But as Neal judged his charactedhe was more likely to be in the background, close enough for consultation but not actually in the camp of the attackers.

Young Miller's guess was that the old fox might still be at the Lonesome Valley ranch. It was his favorite stopping place, the point where most of the stolen stock was driven for concealment and rebranding before pushing it on to a market in Montana or Idaho.

"We'll be lucky if we find him there," Neal said.

"Maybe we'll be luckier if we don't Driskill chuckled.

That might be true, Neal thought, and knew it was in the minds of the others, too. A burst of gunfire might mow them down.

In single file they rode into the gap thru the boulder-strewn pass, after listening at the mouth for any sound that might tell them the defile was guarded. They passed deep into it, fear catching at their throats.

"Remember the last time we went thru, Neal?" Tim asked in a low voice just a little jumpy.

Neal smiled. A pulse of excitement was beating in his throat. "With bullets whistling at us," he mentioned.

Breakneck Trail lay before them, along a precipice which fell away to a black gulf of space that showed no bottom. They could have had no better guide than young Miller. At the foot of the steep declivity he swung sharply to the left and took them along a hill shoulder from which they dropped to a box canon with walls sheer and close.

Miller had lived two years in the gap and he knew its fastnesses as a cattleman does his range. He led them into gorges thru which streams tore down furiously, and he took them up stiff ascents into wooded parks dropping to narrow trails winding along draws issuing into other gulches.

By the light of the moon Neal read the face of his watch. The time was half past two.

"Not far now," Miller assured him. The young man's voice was dry, his throat parched. He knew what a dangerous game he was playing. If he was captured by the outlaws he was doomed. There was a slender chance the others might be allowed to escape, but there would be no mercy for a traitor. Cad Clemson's slimy cruelty had sickened him. Another reason had moved him—his deep gratitude to Neal MacGowan for saving his life. He had promised Neal to turn his back on lawlessness. It was a pledge he had meant to keep. But when Allan Dunn arranged the jail break, with the pursuit hard on his heels, he knew of no place of safety for him except Rustlers' Gap. The trapping of the cowmen brought his determination to the point of action.

Deep within him he was glad of it. He might be going to his death. But he was riding beside honest men. He had turned his back forever on the crooked trails that had led him into evil ways.

From the rock ridge that formed the near lip of the park they looked down into Lonesome Valley.

Miller led them along the ridge to a wooded point from which they dropped down to the ranch. There were the usual log house and cluttered outbuildings. What differentiated it from the usual hill nester's home were the large corrals.

"I wonder how many K-B cattle and horses have been driven into those corrals," Neal said.

"Not so many," Miller replied. "There was a sort of understanding among us to leave your stuff alone because you stood up to the big outfits for the small man. Once in a while the boys picked up a K-B animal, but it was kinda by chance mostly."

An unseen dog began to howl mournfully.

"His bark would be more vicious if he did," Owen agreed. "But he'll know soon as we get closer."

Miller sat his saddle in a heavy silence. He knew the others were waiting for his answer. "I don't reckon I can do that," he replied at last. "I'm thru with Cad. I brought you here. The rest is up to you. I can't betray him cold, and that's what I'd be doing if I held him unsuspecting in talk while you fellows rushed him."

"We don't intend to kill Cad or anybody else." Neal mentioned quietly. "If there's any shooting done his side will start it."

"About a dozen men's lives hanging on this," Driskill murmured.

"Including one mighty important to me," chipped in Tim.

"I've been a pretty wild coot," the rustler admitted unhappily, "but I haven't ever sold my saddle yet."

"Would you be selling yore saddle, Russ?" asked Neal. "Look at it this way. Cad is a bad man and a killer. Right now he is contriving the death of a lot of decent citizens. All four of us are risking our lives to stop it if we can. To kill Cad would ruin our plan. All we want to do is to take him prisoner. Your job is the most dangerous because he is liable to be suspicious of you for not having been around all day. If this attempt goes wrong you're done for."

"All right. I'll try it. How am I to explain showing up at this time of night?"

"Better tell him Reynolds' party have hoisted a white flag and want to surrender. Say Dunn thinks Cad had better come to the camp right away."

They agreed on details of the plan and Miller rode forward.

As Russ Miller approached the house the hound broke into angry and noisy protest, but while he dismounted the dog leaped up joyfully in affectionate greeting. Before the door was opened a voice demanded roughly, "Who's there?" Russ Miller gave his name.

Russians Praise Selves in Films; WhyDon'tWe?

RUSSIAN MOVIES.
Presented at the World Playhouse.
By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The World Playhouse is presenting an interesting and varied program, extolling in fiction, fact, and music the prowess that is Russia's. And I thought as I watched—IS there on a Russian screen, or a British, a prideful picture of America and Americans, made BY Americans, that other nations may contemplate US and know that we, too, glory in OUR country and OUR patriots? That WE have what it takes — and to spare—AND KNOW IT? That WE are all out for AMERICA? I wonder. . . .

"The Lad from our Town" is a war drama based on a poem by Konstantin Simonov, war correspondent and playwright, titled "Wait for Me." . . . It follows the adventures of a Russian lad from the year 1902, thru his training at the tank school at Omsk, the first World war and the second . . . Sergei is a gay and reckless fellow, but he burns with love of country and when he learns the value of discipline turns into a great soldier. . . . His romance with a girl from "our town" who becomes an actress and, later, his wife, provides the stern war stuff with warmth and color. . . . The acting is magnificent on the part of everybody in the cast. Direction was splendid, English titles are illuminating, and the whole picture is engrossing and convincing. . . .

"The Russians are also proud of their progress in music," says a title. So then you see "Leningrad Music Hall"—which brings you the Leningrad orchestra, Sergei Lemeshev, Russia's leading tenor, and the Leningrad ballet in some beautiful numbers. . . .

A war film, "The Free Czech Army in Action," shows units of Czech soldiers hammering at the Nazis in Russia. . . .

WHERE on an allied screen is an American program such as this?

Sholom Temple to Open Series of Night Classes

A series of evening classes, open to members and to the public, will begin at 8 p. m. Monday, Jan. 17, at the Sholom temple, 3480 Lake Shore drive, with weekly sessions continuing for 20 weeks. Russian will be taught on Mondays by Rebecca Domashevitsky, instructor in that subject in the army specialized training program at the University of Chicago. Spanish is scheduled for Tuesday nights, and a course in post-war problems for Wednesdays. There also will be a class in Hebrew on Wednesdays, directed by Dr. Moses Zalesky, principal of B'nai Zion Hebrew school.

Contract According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

A forcing bid based exclusively on winners, and without due regard to the honor trick content of the hand, is almost sure to go wrong. Consider the case given here.

North, dealer.
Rubber bridge.

	NORTH
	♥ K4
	♦ AQJ103
	♣ 84
WEST		EAST
♠ KJ964		♠ 8732
♥ 10		♥ 5
♦ K97654		♦ —
♣ 3		♣ AKJ109752
	SOUTH
	♥ AQJ987632
	♦ 82
	♣ Q6

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	2 clubs	3 hearts	3 spades
Double	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 spades	Pass	5 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

It was inevitable that this extreme freak should have produced some vigorous bidding. As a matter of fact, looking at the North-South hands alone any one would feel that the five heart contract was a lay-down—so why any fuss about the bidding? Actually, however, the contract was defeated! West opened the club three; East won and returned a low club. West ruffed and shifted to a diamond, and East ruffed for the setting trick!

Unquestionably, this was the toughest sort of luck for the North-South pair, but the fact remains that they probably would have bought the contract at four hearts if South had been less carried away with his extraordinary nine card suit. His jump to three hearts, over two clubs, was a definite announcement of top card strength, quite aside from length in hearts, and with less than two honor tricks South was simply not telling the truth.

There is a conventional and logical bid for such a holding as South's, but it is not a single jump, which constitutes a force. It is a double jump, which constitutes a shutout. Thus, if South had properly bid four hearts over two clubs, North would have stepped aside, whereas in view of South's actual three heart bid, North's slam try was thoroly justified.

Sketches of Actors to Go on Exhibition in Evanston

An exhibition of water color sketches of famous actors, painted from the wings by Fitzroy Davis will be opened Monday at 621 Grove street, Evanston. The artist, who is better known as an author, will speak informally at 3 p. m. His new screen play "The Heat's On," starring Mae West, will open next week at the Woods theater.

Stritch Commends Council of Catholic Women on Efforts

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, addressing members of the central governing board of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women at a luncheon meeting yesterday in the Palmer House, commended the council for its past contributions to charity, national defense, and social reconstruction, and urged that efforts in the new year increase the record in these fields.

Tracing the history of women's work in the church, the archbishop paid a special tribute to the late Miss Agnes G. Regan, first executive secretary of the National Council of Catholic Women, under whose leadership the Catholic women of the United States first banded together.

Mrs. Edwin H. Thomas, council president, introduced Archbishop Stritch and also the Rev. Richard Kelly, chairman of the priest committee, and the Rev. James C. Curry, executive director of the council, who were special guests at the luncheon.

remain until the end of January, when they will go to Providence, R. I., for the launching of a boat at which Mr. Morse's sister, Mrs. Morse McCall, will be the sponsor. The Morses' daughter, Miss Marilynn Morse, will go to Florida later.

Clifford C. Gregg, who is on leave of absence as director of the Chicago Natural History museum, has been promoted from lieutenant colonel to full colonel in the army. Dr. C. Martin Wilbur, curator of Chinese archaeology and ethnology, has been granted leave of absence to join the staff of the office of strategic services in Washington, D. C. Dr. Julian A. Steyermark, assistant of the herbarium, and Llewellyn Williams, curator of economic botany, have been granted leaves of absence to engage in foreign missions for the board of economic warfare.

Ralph Applegate has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in the army. He is stationed in Chicago.

Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goldstein of North Whipple street have announced the marriage Nov. 21 of their daughter, Gertrude Elaine, to Sidney Coopeman.

FASHIONS
By Angela

If the boys are over 38 or under 18 and not in uniform, their wardrobes might boast a vivid plaid shirt, such as was included in the wardrobe of the President on his Cairo trip. These sports models are ideal for lounging, informal attire, hunting, golfing, and vacationing.

The good looking blue plaid shirt [left] is patterned after the Farquharson tartan. It is heavy and warm, and composed of 50 per cent wool and 50 per cent rayon. The yoke of the shirt is cut with the plaids on the diagonal. Two ample patch pockets decorate the shirt front. It is priced under $7.

Of more delicate coloring, the checked rayon and wool shirt [center] is the type designed for winter resort activity. A creamy white background is accented with herring bone cross bars of yellow, beige, and powder blue. Other features of this faultlessly tailored shirt are the two button adjustable cuff and single patch pocket. It is available in large, small, and medium sizes.

Another vivid red plaid wool and rayon shirt of the lightweight variety has blue, green yellow, and white stripes. The unusual texture of the material reminds one of the exquisite work done by the famous Kentucky weavers. It is perfectly cut and tailored, has two slit pockets and bright red bone buttons. Available in large, small, and medium sizes, it is priced under $11.

[For further information call Angela, Superior 0200. Mail requests should be accompanied by self-addressed, stamped envelopes.]

News Is Told of 4 Chicago Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gladin of North Bosworth avenue have announced the engagement of their daughter, Beverly Mae, to Cadet Barnard Fredrick Jurist of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Jurist of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of Chicago. Cadet Jurist, a graduate of the University of Illinois, is stationed in Albuquerque, N. M. The wedding is planned for the spring.

Israel Schatz of Lake Shore drive has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miriam Helen, to Pvt. C. Burton Kallick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kallick of Chicago. Miss Schatz attended the University of Wisconsin and Mundelein college. Her fiancé is stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Mrs. Blanche D. Anderson of Normal boulevard announces the engagement of her daughter, Edith Kathryn, to Hubert Earl Edmond of the naval air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Earl Edmond of Worcester, Mass. Miss Anderson was graduated from the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Her fiancé received his degree from the Teachers' State college in Fitchburg, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Miller of Sheridan road announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria June, to Seymour Ira Wald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Wald of North Winthrop avenue.

Women in War Work

By Kate Masse

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, chairman of the women's division of the war finance committee of Cook county, reports that 1943 war bond and stamp sales of her department amount to $277,830,725, making total sales since the division's organization tion two years ago of $370,300,951. Financial reports of the last two weeks in December will bring the sales to an even higher total.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf.

The more than 30,000 Chicago and Cook county women who participated in the program have worked in the second and third war loan drives and have plans mapped for their rôle in the fourth war loan, to be started Jan. 18.

The sales were made at concerts, theater programs, radio performances, special events, and in booths in hotel and theater lobbies. Translated into military equipment, the bonds sold by the women's division would purchase an aircraft carrier, a large battleship, 10 submarines, 100 Flying Fortresses, 100 dive bombers, 100 transport planes, 100 heavy duty tanks, and three destroyers.

As an active organization, the women's division of the war finance committee is two years old, having been formed Dec. 30, 1941, at the home of Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who organized it and was its first chairman. She has been the 1943 vice chairman. Other vice chairmen are Mrs. Leo P. Cummings, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, and Mrs. Donald McPherson.

Not all the activities of the women's division are bond selling projects, for a large share of the women's work comes under the heading of education. More than 200 trained speakers are on call at a bureau whose chairman is Mrs. Kirk.

Mrs. Charles E. Peace's committee has trained more than 8,000 volunteer bond saleswomen, keeping them informed of new trends to be presented to the bond buying public. Mrs. Peace's committee conducts weekly classes in bond instruction.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Max Epstein, and Mrs. Georgia Hunt form the 1943 advisory committee, with Mrs. Epstein supervising booths and Mrs. Hunt hotel sales.

A new booklet which answers every woman's question about the WAVES now is available for the asking at the "streamlined" recruiting office, room 300, Board of Trade building, Lt. Margaret Harding Cecil, senior recruiting officer, announces.

The 49 pages of the handbook, which is illustrated with photographs of WAVES on the job, describes in detail many of the 246 types of important work navy women do. In the back of the pamphlet, printed on glossy paper stock, is a complete list of WAVES recruiting offices in the country and answers to questions about enlistment.

WAVES personnel at the recruiting office invite any interested woman to stop in and pick up a copy of the booklet, which is free.

The women employes of Mrs. Steven's Candy company will give a New Year breakfast for service men at the U. S. O. club at 131 South Wabash avenue Sunday from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. The committee, headed by Mrs. Julia Steven, president of the firm, expects more than 500 men in uniform.

Lacking Dates? A Slick Chick Has Sure Cure

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Here's something new and different. Too often gloom gals make with the mood indigo and pour out king sized laments about not dating and not having the personal wherewithal to keep chaps interested.

And too often these long faced biddies who sit home date after date blame their troubles on doubtful facts such as: Boys are scarce, boys aren't dating this year, or boys don't like honey chiles with brains, so that leaves them out. So here's the "something different," a chipper note from one little doll, an attractive piece of dream cake, who not only has all the dates she can use herself but would like to hand out a bit of advice to girls on how to contact those boys who are left over.

Her story takes this cheery pitch: "I have plenty of dates myself and I have a suggestion to aid in solving the no-man problem that so many girls complain about. It's simple and easy to follow. In fact, it consists of two words and a few elaborations. The keynote is "be friendly." By that I mean extra friendly. So many times the least attractive girls will be seen with the most desirable fellows. This is evidently not due to their personal appearance [neat but not knockout], but to the fact that they are willing to go more than half way to be friends."

"Just a few friendly and interested remarks will do the trick, and when a certain some one finds out you're interested [really] in what he's doing, he'll return the compliment by offering his friendship. Before long you'll be enjoying the popularity every girl wants. Just remember to be enthusiastic—it helps!"

This particular whiz kid has a dating schedule that looks like block booking, so she must know what she's talking about. Maybe she has the true answer to what puts a girl on the beam, keeps a chicken really tickin'. Any other wise characters with suggestions about what makes a doll dateable? We'd like to hear them.

Household Forum
By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Bill S., Chicago—This holiday time we checked on height of our pinup lamps and decided they were much too high for maximum light for reading. Now they are just 24 inches above chair heights. Our New Year's resolution is to turn off lights thru the house when we aren't using them. Our children are dutifully carrying out this resolution—and we hope to save electricity.

Helen J., Peoria, Ill.—Some time ago I attached a little oilcloth pocket to my ironing board. It's a handy spot for my pressing cloth.

Now—Please—Your IDEA.

Thought Her Unfaithful, and Kept 'Bargain.'

New York, Dec. 30 [Special].—A pre-nuptial pact under which the first to become unfaithful was to be killed by the other today was cited by Lewis Wolfe, wealthy 36 year old contractor of Montreal and Palestine, as justification for bludgeoning to death his pretty actress wife.

Lewis Wolfe.

The former Paula Mona, 27, a red haired Viennese who had looked forward to a career on the American stage, was found in her husband's Brooklyn hotel room beaten to death with a steel weighted man's shoe.

"Before our marriage we made an agreement that the first who cheated would be killed by the other," the slightly built, mild mannered Wolfe told police. "She agreed. When I became convinced she had cheated, I killed her."

Met 10 Years Ago.

Wolfe, a native of Montreal and a graduate of McGill university there, had been in Vienna and Palestine for several years. He had a contract for making tents for the British government in Palestine, but gave that up when he returned to America recently.

He first met Paula Mona 10 years ago in Vienna, where she was a dramatic and radio actress. Because of persecutions in Austria, she fled in 1938 to Palestine, where he met her again three years ago and they were married.

When he returned here, he said, he had agreed with his wife that she was to follow him when he sent for her. But she came of her own volition and unbeknown to him, arriving here Saturday and registering at a Manhattan hotel, altho he said she knew his address.

Wolfe learned from a friend that she was in New York and on Tuesday he got in touch with her and last night persuaded her to go to his hotel room with him. There they quarreled violently for some time until Mrs. Wolfe finally fell asleep.

Preyed on His Mind.

Suspicions concerning her fidelity preyed on his mind, he said, until he became convinced that she had been unfaithful to him, that "she had met somebody else on the boat." Unable to sleep, he took a bath to calm his nerves, but it failed to refresh him, so he redressed and tried without success to compose himself on a couch.

"It was then I decided that Paula had been unfaithful," he told Assistant District Atty. Edward A. Heffernan.

He said he picked up one of his shoes, steel tipped and with a shoe tree inside, and struck her on the head as she slept. Then he hit her again and again until she lay still. When she was quiet, he said, he called the police.

Two children by his first wife, who died, are living in Palestine.

Former Soldier Charged with Wedding Ring Theft

Larry T. Craig, 20 years old, 4870 Winthrop avenue, an ex-soldier, was held by police last night on two charges of larceny. Police said Craig admitted stealing a wedding ring and an engagement ring from the apartment of Mrs. Mary Michaliczyk, 20, of 910 Lawrence avenue, on Christmas eve, while he was helping her trim a Christmas tree. The other complaint was signed by Ben Chandler, 15, a Negro, 328 East 25th street, who charged Craig stole some clothing.

GEORGIA POLICE TOLD TO IGNORE U. S. BUROCRATS

Decatur, Ga., Dec. 30 [Special].—Sharply criticizing federal authorities as burocratic and comparable to the hated "carpetbag government," County Commissioner Scott Chandler today told four De Kalb county officers, accused of abusing two Negoes arrested for burglary, to continue their investigations of crime "regardless of interference from federal officials."

The officers, including Chief of Police J. T Dailey, were made defendants in criminal information filed in federal court at Atlanta on Dec. 21 by United States Atty. M. Neil Andrews. They were charged with violating the civil liberties act by mistreating the two Negroes to obtain confessions from them.

Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle at that time announced in Washington, D. C., the action was taken at the request of Assistant Atty. Gen. Tom C. Clark, in charge of the criminal division, after an investigation by the FBI.

Commissioner Makes Charges.

Commissioner Candler's charges were contained in a letter to Chief Dailey after the accused officers had indicated a desire to resign. Candler, former mayor of Decatur and former state commander of the American Legion, has authority over all county departments.

"You and your officers," he wrote the chief, "are charged with investigating every crime committed in De Kalb county. This is required by your oath of office. You will continue to make investigations and arrests when necessary, regardless of interference from federal officials.

"Of course, if federal officials intend to file a criminal accusation every time some criminal is arrested, as they have done in this case, it is going to be very hard for any police force to keep down crime.

"The carpetbag government after the war between the states treated our officers in this way for political reasons. We can only hope the same motive will not cause them to follow the same course now.

"The federal officers are helping criminals when they encourage such ideas and when they drive state and county officers out of their position.

"It seems very strange that this matter was not presented to the federal grand jury, but instead was held out from the grand jury and an accusation filed. This is in line with burocratic government, toward which we are fast drifting.

Must Enforce State Laws.

"You and your men are to enforce the state laws in this county regardless of federal officials' efforts to stop the investigation of crime and protect criminals."

The two Negroes, Naomi Reid, 23, and Raymond Houser, 24, were arrested on charges of having burglarized the Ritz Supper club, a night club near Decatur, and were indicted by the De Kalb county grand jury on Dec. 6. They are now in jail here awaiting trial.

ARGENTINA NAMES POLICE HEAD.

LEPKE RECEIVES 4TH REPRIEVE; F. D. R. BLAMED

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey deferred for the fourth time today the execution of Louis [Lepke] Buchalter and two associates in Murder, Inc., because, he said, President Roosevelt has failed to surrender Buchalter to New York state.

Dewey postponed electrocution of Buchalter, Louis Capone, and Emanuel Weiss, last set for the week of Jan. 3, to the week of Feb. 7. Buchalter is serving a 14 year sentence on a federal narcotics conviction. Capone and Weiss are in Sing Sing prison's death house.

The three were convicted of the murder of Joseph Rosen, Brooklyn storekeeper, in 1936.

The governor said Thomas C. Hughes, acting district attorney of Kings county, "today advised my office that since the granting of the last respite in these cases he has again unsuccessfully demanded that Buchalter be surrendered by the United States government for the execution of the death sentence."

The governor has refused consistently to hold executive clemency hearings for any of the three until the state gets their custody.

The three were members of a Brooklyn murder ring to which numerous killings were attributed.

URGES POST-WAR CURBS TO AVERT WAVE OF DEATH

Dr. William D. McNally, toxicologist with the Cook county coroner's office, yesterday predicted "an unprecedented wave of murders, suicides, and accidental deaths immediately after the war" unless steps are taken now to curb the use of alcohol and sedative drugs.

Speaking at the concluding session of the convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association in the Morrison hotel, Dr. McNally cited statistics to prove "the murder rate always parallels the rate of human consumption of alcohol."

He urged stricter enforcement of existing laws restricting the sale of sedative drugs, particularly the barbiturates, and a curb on the sale of alcoholic drinks.

HELD ON TOOL THEFT CHARGE.

Thomas A. Jelinek, 45 years old, 4788 Kenmore avenue, was held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday on a charge of stealing tools valued at $24.87 from the Douglas Aircraft company plant in Park Ridge, where he had been employed.

FIRE-POWER, King of Battle!

In the hands of our valiant fighters, on land, air and sea, the devastating force of cannon, guns, bombs and shell is blazing a shorter route to victory!

Far out ahead, behind enemy lines, huge splashes of earth blow skyward. High above, in the clouds, flaming enemy planes swirl downward, like stricken comets. All around, on every side, in the stench of smoke and burning powder, tanks and artillery keep blasting forth their fire and thunder. The ground, the very air is trembling . . .

This is battle . . . This is where cannon reign supreme—along with guns and bombs, grenades and shell. This is where the fury of flying steel and lead and high explosive dominates the whole terrain. This is the thick of the actual fight—where Fire-Power is King!

In North Africa, at El Alamein, it was Fire-Power from the guns of the gallant British Tommies that broke Rommel's lines. At Stalingrad, it was Fire-Power in the hands of the heroic Russian defenders that gave the Wehrmacht its first great defeat on land. It was Fire-Power, too, from the cannon and guns of our Fighting Yanks that chased the Japs from Guadalcanal . . . and Munda . . . and the Gilberts and the Aleutians. And remember the weight of Allied Fire-Power at Midway . . . in Sicily . . . in Italy . . . over the war centers of Fortress Europe!

Now, as a new and climactic year of fighting is about to begin . . . we know that it is Fire-Power that holds our hopes for the future . . . Fire-Power in ever-increasing frequency and volume . . . Fire-Power delivered with ever-increasing skill by millions of Allied fighting men . . . the overwhelming kind of Fire-Power referred to by Major General Levin H. Campbell, Jr., Chief of Ordnance, United States Army, when he said: "It is not the size of a tank or the width of a gun carriage that destroys an enemy. Rather . . . the amount of steel and high explosive we can deliver at the enemy target is what will win battles and eventually win the war. And so we in Ordnance urge that we keep ever before our minds the one word 'Fire-Power' . . . which stands for destruction of our enemies and certain Victory!"

We at Oldsmobile feel it a high privilege to cooperate with Army Ordnance in the development and manufacture of many important forms of this all-important Fire-Power.

Oldsmobile is building aircraft cannon of several types and sizes—including the widely used 20 mm. and 37 mm. automatic cannon and the type of "tank-size" 75 mm. cannon recently introduced in North American B-25 Bombers—"the flying 75." High-velocity cannon for tanks and tank destroyers are also rolling off the Oldsmobile lines in volume—long-range weapons that give our armored forces an edge over Nazi Panzers.

Add to these the production of high-explosive and armor-piercing shell by the millions—shell of many types and sizes for both Army and Navy—and you'll see why Oldsmobile men and women are proud to repeat . . . "Fire-Power Is Our Business . . . our job to Keep 'em Firing."

LET'S MAKE '44 A VICTORY YEAR!

The big, climactic battles of this war still lie ahead. More . . . and more . . . and MORE Fire-Power will be needed to help our boys smash their way into Fortress Europe—and into the heart of the Mikado's empire. It's up to every one of us to make 1944 an all-out year—by putting everything we've got into our war jobs—and by putting every cent we can spare into our War Bond purchases. Is that too much to ask . . . for a quicker Victory? Let's all start the New Year right. Start saving now to buy at least one extra $100 Bond in the Fourth War Loan Drive, which begins on January 18th.

Let's ALL Buy More Bonds!

LONG ISLAND IS TENTH VICTIM OF DE PAUL, 59 TO 38

Blue Demons Continue Undefeated Streak.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—De Paul's unbeaten basketball team, a speedy combination and 6 foot, 8 inch George Mikan, chalked up its 10th victory of the season tonight with a 59 to 38 victory over Long Island university before a capacity crowd of 18,000 in Madison Square garden.

The game was close for only the first 10 minutes when Long Island came from behind to tie the score at 14-14. From there on the Chicagoans went on to build a 32 to 20 margin at the half, with Dick Triptow doing most of the scoring and Mikan a bulwark on the defense.

Long Island Threatens.

Long Island moved with six points early in the second period but that was as close as they got. Mikan, after scoring only one field goal in the first half, tipped in four to bring his total to 12 points before leaving the floor on fouls with four minutes to play. Scoring honors, however, went to Triptow, who racked up 16 points and also did a great job of feeding his teammates.

Kentucky Wins, 44-38.

The University of Kentucky defeated St. John's of Brooklyn, 44 to 38, in the second game of the double header.

Phillies Trade Babe Dahlgren to Pittsburgh

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 30 (AP).—Babe Dahlgren, Philadelphia Phillies first baseman and leading hitter, has been traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates for Catcher Babe Phelps and an undisclosed sum of cash, the Phillies announced today.

Dahlgren hit .288 last summer to top all members of the club. He came here in a 1942 trade with Brooklyn.

Dahlgren, who will be 32 on June 15, is classified 4-F in the draft. He was sought by the Pirates as a replacement for First Baseman Elbie Fletcher, now in the navy.

Phelps has been on and off the voluntary retired list several times since 1941 when he refused to fly from Florida to a training camp in Cuba with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He left the Dodgers in the middle of that season, passing up his salary and a world series share of nearly $5,000, and the following winter was sent to Pittsburgh in a five player deal in which the Dodgers acquired Shortstop Arky Vaughan.

The big catcher played in 95 games with the Pirates in 1942, but was out of action last year. He has hit over .300 in several seasons. He is 36 and currently 3-A in the draft.

HUMPHREYS NEW ATHLETIC HEAD AT ANNAPOLIS

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 30 (AP).—Capt. Charles O. Humphreys, U. S. N., will relieve Capt. John E. [Billick] Whelchel tomorrow as director of athletics at the United States Naval academy, Rear Adm. J. R. Beardall, superintendent, announced today.

Whelchel, who has been head football coach as well as director of athletics for the last year, has been assigned to sea duty. Academy officials have not named a football coach to succeed him.

Humphreys was graduated from the naval academy in 1922. He won his "N" star in baseball and captained the team in 1922. From 1929 to 1931 he served as the athletic officer of the submarine base at New London, Conn. While attached to the academy in 1935 and 1936 he was head coach of the baseball team.

Humphreys has seen service on cruisers and aircraft carriers and more recently commanded a squadron of submarines.

St. Philip Is 43-35 Victor Over Weber

BY FRANK NORRIS.

Rising to unexpected heights, St. Philip's undefeated fighting Gaels upset the mighty Weber Red Horde, 43 to 35, last night to capture the championship of the fifth annual Fenwick High school pre-season junior basketball tournament and extend their winning streak to 11 while stopping Weber's at 15.

Twice Clem Naughton's charges overcame 10 point margins the Red Horde had built up on a style of play which puzzled the Gaels practically the entire first half.

Weber Takes 12 to 2 Lead.

Weber shot into a 12 to 2 lead early in the first quarter, but St. Philip sliced this to 12 to 7 as the quarter ended. Again the Red Horde consistently hit the hoop, building up another 10 point lead, and at the end of the first half Weber led, 25 to 17.

Then St. Philip's fast breaking offense began to operate. After Capt. Jules Pandera hit to open the second half for Weber, the Gaels ran up 14 points to go into a 31 to 27 lead before Wally Pokoj picked up a free throw on Bob Behnke's foul. Pandera added another basket to narrow the count to 31 to 30 in favor of St. Philip at the end of the third period.

Hectic Final Period.

The final period probably was the most hectic of the entire tournament as the kids from St. Philip ran the Red Horde ragged. Jim Bryers and Capt. Gene Catrambone each connected in the opening minutes of the final quarter before Dick Zaleski cashed in on Tom Byrne's foul. Pandera made it 33 to 35 before the Gaels began popping them in from all sides.

As usual, St. Philip's scoring punch was divided among Catrambone, Byrne, Bryers, and Dick Flando. Byrne poured in 14, Flando nine, and Catrambone and Bryers eight each.

Pandera led the Red Horde's attack with six baskets and a free throw for 13 points. Joe Depka, leading scorer in Chicago, was restricted to seven points which raised his season's total to 241.

Loyola Beats Mount Carmel.

In a sparkling game which featured long shots from outside the foul line, the Loyola Ramblers defeated the Mount Carmel Caravan, 30 to 27, to capture third place. The contest was close thruout with Loyola holding a 4 to 2 advantage at the quarter, but Mount Carmel pulled into a 11 to 11 tie at the half.

Dan O'Donnell and Dave Padden then each hit three times to send the Ramblers into a 24 to 20 lead going into the final period.

Prep writers, officials, and coaches selected Pandera and Depka of Weber, Maurie Ahern of Mount Carmel, Catrambone of St. Philip, and Dan O'Donnell of Loyola to the All-Star tournament team. O'Donnell also was selected the most valuable player, the first ever to win both awards in the Fenwick tourney.

St. Philip won possession of the Rev. Leo C. Gainor, O. P., traveling trophy for one year. Mount Carmel, eliminated by Weber Wednesday, held the trophy the last two years.

WOMEN'S INDOOR NET TITLE WON BY SHIRLEY FRY

Brookline, Mass., Dec. 30 (AP).—Shirley Fry of Akron, O., dethroned the defending champion, Lillian Lopaus of City Island, N. Y., in the final match for the Girl's National Indoor Tennis championship today at the Longwood club by a score of 6-1, 6-3.

In the doubles' final, Miss Fry teamed with Norma Meister of Sharon, Mass., to defeat Betsy Rosenquest of South Orange, N. J., and Miss Lopaus, 6-1, 6-4.

N. U., SAILORS TO BATTLE TONIGHT

Wisconsin, Camp Grant Invade Milwaukee.

Northwestern and Great Lakes basketball teams will celebrate New Year's eve at the Evanston High school gymnasium tonight in the first of a two game series, but the Bluejackets also will be seeking revenge for the 59 to 47 defeat suffered at the hands of the Wildcats on the same floor last year. Lt. Tony Hinkle's charges also will be trying to get back on the victory trail after sustaining their first loss of the season Wednesday night at Illinois by a score of 64 to 51.

The game will be the first for the Wildcats since their 48 to 32 victory over Notre Dame two weeks ago. Since that time Coach Dutch Lonborg has been striving to develop a first string combination built around his ace performer, Capt. Otto Graham, who rolled up 16 points against the Irish. Tickets are on sale at the Northwestern ticket office. The lineups:

Northwestern.		Great Lakes.

Clyde McCullough to Face Army Doctors Today

Clyde McCullough of the Cubs' catching department will report to the army doctors here this morning for reëxamination of the ankle which he fractured when he slid into second base in the opening game last April. McCullough was called for induction in September, but because of the condition of the ankle was granted a 90 day deferment.

High Scoring Game Foreseen in Sugar Bowl Tomorrow

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Dec. 30.—The luncheon this noon of the Quarter Backs clubs in the Hotel St. Charles and another chapter in the discussion of the weather shared honors on the Sugar bowl program as Georgia Tech and Tulsa advanced within kickoff distance of their New Year's day contest.

The weather, of course, remains of vital importance since it directly affects the ticket sale at the Mid-Winter Sports association office. The sun made its second appearance this afternoon in more than a week, but the 42 degree temperature has the association worried, altho to a Chicagoan this weather is ideal. If more than 70,000 see Tulsa and Georgia Tech the sale probably will be like last year's, when thousands of tickets were sold on the game day.

It's Different This Year.

To refute the charge that New Orleans folk will not attend on a chill, cloudy afternoon one might quote the 68,000 spectators who sat in the rain two years ago to see Fordham defeat Missouri, 2 to 0. However, that year tickets were mailed on any order regardless of distance. Last year and this, sale by mail is restricted to metropolitan New Orleans.

Coach Bill Alexander of Tech says he anticipates a free scoring contest because of the passing ability of Eddie Prokop of the Yellow Jackets and Clyde Le Force of Tulsa. With proper weather support each team may count two touchdowns or more. Tomorrow night Tech will leave its St. Charles headquarters to escape the New Year's eve celebration. The team will be quartered near the stadium.

Tulsa Is Ready.

Coach Henry Frnka's Tulsa eleven finished training in Bay St. Louis, Miss., today. The squad will come to New Orleans tomorrow in time to have a look at Tulane's bowl. Only six of the 40 players have seen it and the Tulsa coach apparently fears an attack of stage fright.

TEXAS SET FOR PASSES

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 30 (AP).—The nation's No. 1 passing attack will be tossed into the Cotton bowl Saturday, but—the year's best pass defense will be working against it. That's a major feature of the Texas-Randolph field football game New Year's day.

Figures from the national football statistical bureau show Randolph field, with Glenn Dobbs doing the pitching, with 120 completions out of 218 attempts for 1,528 yards.

The figures also show Texas had the best pass defense in the nation and in one department the best of all time. With 135 passes thrown against them, the Longhorns allowed only 45 completions for 606 yards and intercepted 32 of the pitches. Texas took those 32 interceptions back 580 yards, an all-time record, beating the mark set in 1940 by Pennsylvania by 55 yards.

MIAMI SPECULATION

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP).—The Orange bowl's scoreboard keeper dusted off his high numbers today in readiness for Saturday's football game between Texas A. & M. of the Southwestern conference and Louisiana State of the Southeastern.

The two teams, which scored six touchdowns in a previous game, will get together again on what probably will be a dry, fast field.

KERR LIKES EAST

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 30 (AP).—Striking the most optimistic note of the training preparations, Coach Andy Kerr said today he thought the eastern team had a good chance of winning the annual East-West all-star charity football game here New Year's day. The western team is the established favorite.

The East's chances were dealt a severe blow, however, when it was learned that Bill Baughman, 195 pound center from the University of Iowa, probably would not be used in the game. He suffered a recurrence of a knee injury.

VERN STEPHENS, BROWNS' STAR, GETS ARMY CALL

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 30 (AP).—Vernon Stephens, St. Louis Browns shortstop, was reclassified today by his draft board, took his physical examination and blood tests, and received his induction papers.

Stephens was classified 4-F by a St. Louis board last summer because of a leg injury sustained several years ago. A broken bone, the board held, had not knitted properly.

ANNUAL BATTLE MAY BE FOUGHT BEFORE 70,000

Glamor Dimmed by Talent Shortage.

Coast Preview

RALPH [PEST] WELCH, football coach at the University of Washington, and Jeff Cravath, coach at the University of Southern California, will be guests on Arch Ward's Sports Preview over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network tonight from 9:15 to 9:30 o'clock [CWT]. Washington and Southern California will meet in the annual Rose bowl game tomorrow.

The program will originate in Los Angeles.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 30.—Southern California and the University of Washington today concluded preparations for Saturday's Rose bowl game in Pasadena. Football's most glamorous post-season contest, dimmed somewhat by the shortage of outstanding talent and transportation difficulties, nevertheless will be played before a crowd of 70,000.

Attendance may exceed the above figure if the moisture that has been settling in the Los Angeles area lifts by Saturday morning. There has been 5.83 inches of California dew, which in the middle west often is referred to as rain, in the last couple of weeks, as compared with 2.06 inches at this time last year.

Ordinarily a wet field would be an advantage to Washington, because the team from the land of the tall fir often plays in the damp. This season, however, Southern California's weather apparently has shifted to the Seattle region and the moisture of the northwest has seeped into this region. Washington has superior weight both in the back field and line, and avoirdupois often is a decisive factor on a heavy field.

Comparative Strength in Doubt.

Never has a Rose bowl game brought together two teams whose comparative strength is so much in doubt. Washington hasn't played a game since late October. It could find no opponents thereafter. The Huskies and Trojans have played only one common foe, the 4th air force from March field. Washington whipped the flyers, 27 to 7, on Oct. 23 and three weeks later the March field unit blanked U. S. C., 35 to 0.

"The scores of those two games put us in a false light," says Coach Ralph [Pest] Welch of the Seattle squad. "We caught March field the week after it had played San Diego navy, a big, tough team that gave all its opponents a physical beating. It wasn't playing its game.

"Don't forget," Welch went on, "that the Washington team that beat March field is not the unit that will face the Trojans. We have lost three starters, Balchunas at tackle, Stoves at half back, and Susick at full back."

Washington Has Two Fast Backs.

It's true that both Rose bowl contestants have lost some prominent players since their last engagement, but Washington still has two of the fastest backs this section has produced—Sam Robinson and Al Akins. Robinson is 6 feet tall, weighs 200 pounds and there's not an ounce of fat on him. He's so fast that in a football suit he can run away from Akins, the Huskies' left half back, who starred for Washington State in two track meets last year.

Robinson is a home town product, unusual in these days when most players are on lend-lease from other universities. He was born in Seattle and went to high school there. He didn't play football until his senior year. He is awaiting call to marine officers' training school. He intends to return to Washington after the war and complete his law studies.

Judging from the character of today's workout, Coach Jeff Cravath plans to use the Trojans' apparent superiority in the middle of the line to blast a path to victory. There wasn't a forward pass thrown during the workout. Bill Gray, U. S. C. center, is said to be the best on the coast and he is flanked by Norm Verry, an All-Coast tackle last year who now is being used at right guard.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Dec. 30.—The Athletics' swap of Roger Wolff to Washington for Buck Newsom gives the Senators four capable knuckle ballers. . . . The other three are Dutch Leonard, Johnny Niggeling, and Mickey Haefner. Knucklers are particularly effective under the lights and the Senators have permission to play as many night games as they can squeeze into the schedule. . . . Chaplain John G. Burkalter of Fort Devens, Mass., was called Jackie Mills as a professional fighter. . . . When Owner Bill Veeck of the Brewers enlisted in the marine corps, Manager Charley Grimm took over Bill's letter writing duties and that is no sinecure. . . . One of Charley's first tasks was to send Christmas greetings to every player on the roster. . . . Even the army shots Lefty Gomez had to take before he went overseas to entertain the soldiers were a gag to him. . . . "Which arm do you want," asked Lefty of the surgeon. . . . "The left" was the answer. . . . "Be careful of it, Doc," cracked Gomez, "that's the arm that made Johnny Murphy famous." . . . The tallest marine private at Parris Island, S. C., is 6 foot 5 inch Charley Malone, the Redskin end. . . . Lt. Buddy Lewis, the former Washington third baseman, is piloting a paratroop transport plane overseas. . . . Promoters claimed an advance sale of 2,000 tickets for the Atlanta [Ga.]-Meridian [Miss.] High school football game which supplanted the customary Blue-Gray college contest in Montgomery, Ala., Christmas day, but the attendance was 300. . . . Rainy weather was blamed. . . . Casey Stengel, who was mowed down by an automobile the day before the 1943 season opened, has discarded his crutches at last but he still is not allowed to stand for more than a few minutes. . . . Had it not been for the injury, Casey no doubt would have been one of the baseball figures chosen to tour overseas posts. . . . He would have been a natural. . . .

Fans here say Lou could command a fat salary from any Pacific Coast league club if he came back. . . . Eddie Hearne and Fred Frame, both well known as auto race drivers when there were such things, are mechanical experts at coast airplane plants. . . . They tell this one of Francis Schmidt, head coach at Idaho: Frank, who is diagramming football plays 24 hours a day, was in church and the minister, who was about half way thru his sermon, was amazed to hear a shout, "I've got it! We'll score on this baby, sure." . . . Schmidt had uncovered a new maneuver. . . .

City Skating Rulers Face Tough Tasks

The first ice skating championship meet of the season will be held tomorrow afternoon in Garfield park when 300 skaters are expected to take part in the city championship event sponsored by the Northwest Skating club.

As a result of the upsets that featured last Sunday's races, no skater dominates a class as was the case last year when Luetta Du Mez, intermediate skater representing the C. Y. O. took first place in every event in which she competed. Luetta already has lost the only two races in which she has started to Virginia Mazzetta.

Don Laser, C. Y. O. state junior champion, appeared the outstanding skater in this division while in training but Ken Henry of the George F. Barrett Athletic club, who dominated the juvenile class last year, beat Laser in the 220 yard and half mile races last Sunday.

SEEK FAMILY HONORS

When Jerry Fahrenbach, intermediate skater, and his 9 year old sister Rosemary face the starters at the Silver Skates Derbies on Jan. 15 and 16 in Garfield park, they will be attempting to add the fourth and fifth pairs of Silver Skates to the family trophy case. In 1938 Jerry won his first pair of skates while competing in the midget class, and two years later took the junior title while big brother Don, now in the service, carried home the skates representing the senior title.

This is not the only case where two or more pairs of the skates went to the members of one family. In 1920 Julie Steinmetz, now an athletic director at Crane High school, won the Silver Skates in the junior division and in the following year his older brother, Bill, took the senior title. The older Steinmetz was one of the best skaters in the country and was crowned "Skating Ace of America." It was also in 1920 that the Thomson family started to collect Silver Skates, for in that year George Thomson finished first in the junior class. Just 13 years later his son Marvin took the midget title and in the following year won the juvenile championship. In 1937 Marvin took the junior title to become the only skater to win three pairs of first place skates.

HAWKS EXPECT USUAL TURNOUT FOR CANADIENS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago Blackhawk fans don't seem to give a whoop about the way their heroes get weak knees in alighting in any railroad depot other than those in Chicago. Thoroly drubbed nearly every time they stumble onto a rink away from home, the lads still try like everything when they skate in Chicago Stadium. There they have won eight of their last nine matches, since they lost, on Nov. 4, to their foes of tomorrow night—the league leading Montreal Canadiens.

As a result of this home rink complex the clerks in the Hawk counting room are looking for another near-capacity crowd to show up tomorrow night.

Canadiens Are Speeding.

Sure to be there are the dyed-in-the-wool hockey scholars who are eager to see just why the Canadiens are running away with the National league. Other teams in other years have been vastly superior to the rank and file of the league, but such teams usually have had at least one real challenging team. In most of the Canadiens' games this year the opponents have had no artistic right to skate on the same ice with Dick Irvin's boys.

Durnan Is the Star.

The Canadiens are strong in all departments, but hockey dopesters are inclined to give most of the credit to Bill Durnan, the Canadiens' 29 year old rookie goalie. Read how the Hawk office gurgles about Durnan in a bulletin released yesterday:

"The Stanley cup trophy has been fought for for over 50 years and at no time in its history has there been a season when a goal tender has been so outstanding as Durnan.

FREY, AN EX-CUB, TOPPLES LEAGUE FIELDING MARK

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs didn't skim off much of the fielding cream in the National league last season but if any consolation is needed the team's adherents can find it in the fact that one of their former boys did pretty well.

It was Lonnie Frey of the Reds, who, the official figures show, performed so handily around second base that he posted a .985 average for the position, establishing a league record.

The Cubs, who sold Frey to the Reds for a nominal sum in February, 1938, also share in the record breaking picture because of the mark that was broken. The former league high for second baseman was .983, put in the books by Earl [Sparky] Adams as a Cub in 1925.

Lonnie Gets Around.

In the double play feature Frey had an able assistant in Eddie Miller, the shortstop acquired by the Reds in a deal with the Braves a year ago. Miller was the league's best at his position with .980.

The remainder of the league's all-star infield, defensively speaking, was made up of Elbie Fletcher of the Pirates at first base and Merrill May of the Phillies at third.

Litwhiler's Good, Too.

Dan Litwhiler, who was promoted from the Phillies to the Cardinals during the season was guilty of only one error which ended at 189 games a string of flawless performances. Litwhiler's average was .996.

For the second season in a row Claude Passeau of the Cubs was the choicest fielder among pitchers. He handled 68 chances and wasn't charged with a boot.

Sailors, N. U. to Open Swim Season Today

Bill Smith, famed Hawaiian swimmer, will lead the Great Lakes swimming team against Northwestern in Patten gymnasium, Evanston, today in the first meet of the season for both teams. The meet will start at 4:30 o'clock.

The Bluejacket squad is coached by Lt. Walter N. Colbath, swimming officer at Great Lakes and former Olympic diving champion from Northwestern. The Bluejacket squad also boasts several other outstanding swimmers including Jerry Kerschner, holder of the national prep school record for the 220 yard free style; Strother Martin, former Big Ten diving champion from Michigan, and Wally Riis of Chicago, former city high school sprint champion.

The Wildcat squad is made up entirely of men in the navy and marine units on the campus. It includes five letter men headed by Ronnie Trumble, veteran diver. Other members of the squad are Robert Tribble, back stroker from Honolulu; Jim Gamble, a transfer from Stanford, and Orrin Neff, another transfer from Minnesota.

Service Men Elect 2 New League Heads

Lt. Comdr. James McMillen and Maj. Harold Faint were elected president and vice president, respectively, of the Service Men's Basketball league at a meeting yesterday in the Board of Trade building. Lt. Comdr. Fay S. Mathewson, welfare and recreation officer for the 9th naval district, presided.

Lt. Comdr. McMillen replaces Ensign John Ryback, transferred to the station at Tucson, Ariz., and Maj. Faint succeeds Capt. Roscoe H. Heckaman, sent to a port of debarkation.

At the same session it was revealed Camp Sauganash and Camp Des Plaines have been forced to withdraw from league competition. The next league game will be between Northwestern university radio school and Camp Skokie at Northwestern Jan. 7.

MAROONS PLAY CHICAGO TECH'S FIVE TONIGHT

The University of Chicago basketball team tonight will be host to the Chicago Technical college five in a New Year's eve contest which will begin at 5:30 o'clock. The contest will be played in Chicago's fieldhouse, 5550 University avenue.

C. M. THOMSON, NORTH WESTERN TRUSTEE, DIES

Charles Thomson.

Charles M. Thomson, former judge of the Illinois Appellate court and trustee for the Chicago and North Western railroad since 1939, died yesterday in Passavant hospital of a heart ailment. He was 66 years old and lived at 576 Ash street, Winnetka. Private funeral services will be held at 4:30 p. m. today at Rosehill chapel.

Born in Chicago, Judge Thomson was educated in the city's public schools and was a graduate of Chicago Manual Training school and Washington and Jefferson college. He attended Northwestern university law school, was admitted to the bar in 1902 and served as alderman from the old 25th ward from 1908 to 1912.

Tenth District Representative.

From 1913 to 1915 he served in congress as representative of the 10th district. He was elected to the Circuit court in 1915, where his judicial ability won him an assignment by the Illinois Supreme court to the Appellate court.

Mr. Thomson served on the Appellate court until 1927. In 1933 he was named trustee for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad and served in that position until his appointment to the North Western railroad.

While serving on the Appellate bench he denounced the practice of criminal court attorneys who attempt to free clients they know to be guilty.

Legal "Tricks" Assailed.

"Every day in the criminal courts," he asserted, "we have the spectacle of lawyers, as officers of the court, using every means and resorting to every trick and loophole of the law to effect the release of criminals whom they know to be guilty and who should receive their just punishment."

At that time, Judge Thomson charged that a pickpockets' trust in Chicago retained a firm of lawyers by the year to defend its members and had installed a call system for pickpockets to make hourly check calls.

50 FLEE ROOMS WHEN FIRE HITS 4 STORY BUILDING

Fifty persons were driven from their rooms in a four story building at 2419 Madison street last night by a fire which disrupted traffic in Madison street and in Western avenue for nearly two hours. Fireman William Collins, 36 years old, 8142 Crandon avenue, of Engine company 24, was cut while battling the flames in the basement. The fire, which started in a pile of ashes, destroyed the interior of the De Luxe pool hall on the first floor and caused additional damage in the Midwest tavern in an adjoining building at 2417. The total damage was estimated at $10,000.

NAVY ACCEPTS 76 CHICAGO BOYS AS AIR CADETS

Acceptance of 76 seniors and graduates from Chicago high schools this week by the naval aviation cadet selection board as pilot officer candidates puts the city in the lead with 60 per cent of the men enlisted in the board's area. The area includes Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa. Those enlisted will be called for training March 1.

The navy's campaign for pilot officer candidates has a goal of 600 for the winter. Candidates are sought from among 17 and 18 year old graduates and seniors who will be graduated by March 1. Accepted candidates first will be sent thru the navy's college training course before starting pilot training.

Lane Technical High school supplied 17 of those accepted, Austin High was second with 11, Schurz was third with seven, and Hyde Park and St. Philip tied for fourth place with six each. Twenty schools are represented in the enlistment.

DEAN OF MOVIE WORLD, HOBART BOSWORTH, DIES

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 30 [Special].—Hobart Bosworth, 76 years old, dean of the movie industry, died of pneumonia today in the Glendale Research hospital. He had been virtually retired for more than a year, his last screen appearance having been in westerns in 1942.

Hobart Bosworth.

Born in Marietta, O., a descendant of Miles Standish and son of a Civil war captain, Bosworth lived a colorful life. He ran away to sea at the age of 12, later became a professional wrestler, was an assistant to the magician, "Hermann, the Great," and before he was 30 was a Broadway matinee idol. He played leading man for such theatrical greats as Minnie Maddern Fiske and Julia Marlowe.

Stricken with tuberculosis at the peak of his success, he went to the Arizona desert and battled the disease for years. In 1909 he was in Los Angeles and played in the first complete motion picture ever made there. He soon was writing, acting, and directing. He played almost every type of film story in his appearance in some 600 pictures.

INSULT CHARGED TO TRAFFIC COP BY JUDGE CAPLAN

Judge Oscar S. Caplan in the South State Street court yesterday said he knew what it was to be insulted by a traffic policeman. He made the comment in fining Ben Trigger, 40 years old, 3325 15th street, a Checker cab driver, $25 and costs on a charge of disorderly conduct on complaint of Sgt. Eli Kordick of the mounted police. The judge dismissed charges of refusing a passenger load, assault with a deadly weapon and resisting an officer, which had been filed against Trigger.

Ben Trigger.

"Recently a traffic policeman insulted me and he also insulted my religion," Judge Caplan said. "That, however, does not mean that all traffic policemen are insulting. In spite of the insults, I obeyed the officer, but I am not thru with it."

Afterward the judge declined to elaborate on the incident except to say that he intended to file a report with the police commissioner and, if necessary, with the civil service commission.

Sgt. Kordick, who was in civilian attire at the time, accused Trigger of refusing "a load," in violation of a city ordinance, on Dec. 6 at the Illinois Central railroad's Central station.

Trigger testified that Kordick got out of the cab when he wanted to take in two soldiers who said they had only six minutes to get to Union station.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR SIDNEY H. KAHN

Funeral services for Sidney H. Kahn, Chicago investment banker, will be held at 3:30 p. m. today in the Rosehill cemetery mausoleum. Mr. Kahn died Wednesday in Michael Reese hospital of a heart ailment after an illness of six weeks. He was 57 years old. His home was at 1725 East 53d street.

Mr. Kahn was widely known in banking circles thruout the country. He was chairman of the Straus Securities company and for 25 years had helped organize S. W. Straus & Co. into one of the largest investment banking houses in the country. He served as vice president of that concern. From 1929 to 1932 he served as vice president and a director of the old Straus National Bank and Trust company of Chicago, now the American National Bank and Trust company.

Mr. Kahn was active in Jewish charities. He is survived by his widow, Neta; a daughter, Mrs. Elaine Frank; a son, Lt. [j. g.] Henry S. Kahn of the navy, and a sister, Mrs. Rose K. Heinsimer. Dr. Louis Mann will officiate at the services.

MEMORIAL SERVICES RECALL 601 DEATHS IN IROQUOIS THEATER

The sudden tragedy and lasting grief of a gray winter afternoon 40 years ago—Dec. 30, 1903—when 601 persons perished in Chicago's Iroquois theater fire, were recalled yesterday at memorial services sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce in the city hall council chambers.

The audience of 100 included 10 survivors of the holocaust in the supposedly fireproof playhouse on Randolph street near State street where 1,900 patrons went that afternoon for a Wednesday matinee performance of "Mr. Bluebeard" starring Eddie Foy. Because it was Christmas holiday week, the audience was packed with children, 212 of whom were victims.

John Traeger, who was coroner at the time, said yesterday that to clear up varying reports of fatalities thru the years, his records showed 601 died.

Dr. Preston Bradley, in an address, called for the appointment of some qualified person to write an accurate historical account of the fire. At 3:32 p. m., Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan pulled the box from which he had spread the alarm 40 years ago when he was the first fireman to reach the scene.

TRAFFIC DEATHS DECLINE 5,000 UNDER YEAR AGO

The National Safety council yesterday estimated 1943 traffic deaths in the United States at 23,000, a drop of 20 per cent from the 1942 total and at least 40 per cent below the pre-war toll of 1941. The announcement said this represents a saving of 5,000 lives over last year and almost 17,000 over 1941.

Despite all-year reductions, the toll went up in November for the second successive month. The November increase over the same month in 1942 was 3 per cent, but in October the rise amounted to 19 per cent. November traffic deaths totaled 2,350 against 2,280 a year ago. The November toll, however, was 40 per cent below the same month in 1941.

Mileage and death figures for the first 10 months of 1943, compared with the same period in the unrestricted pre-war year of 1941, show that, with the exception of January, the decrease in traffic deaths has exceeded the drop in travel.

AFL TEACHERS PICK NEW YORK FOR CONVENTION

The executive committee of the American Federation of Teachers [AFL] closed a three day meeting here yesterday after selecting New York City for the federation's annual convention, Aug. 17-21. The federation includes 275 locals with 35,000 members.

The committee, made up of 15 sectional vice presidents, president, and secretary-treasurer, considered a tentative report of the federation's post-war planning commission, which, it was reported, will stress better physical and mental fitness for youth after the war, to avoid repetition of the experience in this war when many prospective inductees have been found mentally or physically deficient.

YOUR CHILDREN.

LEWICKI—Casimir Lewicki, who passed away a year ago today.
Friends may think I have forgotten
When at times they see me smile;
Little do they know the heartache
That my smile hides the while.
How often do I tread the pathway
That leads me to his grave,
Where rests the one I loved so well,
But whom I could not save.
LOVING WIFE, JEAN.

MEANEY—Mrs. Mary Meaney. In loving memory of my dear mother, who passed away 17 years ago today.
Just 17 years ago today.
Mother, dear, you passed away,
And how I miss you, no words can say.
The pleasures that our hearts once knew
Are saddened and lonesome after you.
With God's help, I hope and pray,
That we will meet again some day.
LOVING SON, GENE.

WESOLOWSKI—T/4 Stephen E. Weslowski, who passed away one year ago today. In fond memory. MARTHA JANE.

WILLIAMS—In memory of Christ H. Williams, who passed away two years ago.

MANY TRUCKERS IGNORE NEW GAS RATION COUPONS

Warned They Must Have Them to Operate.

Frank T. Corcoran, district manager of the office of defense transportation, said yesterday that 60 per cent of the truck operators in the Chicago metropolitan area have not obtained the new ticket type T gas coupons which will be mandatory beginning tomorrow. He said that unless they obtained the coupons a serious tie up of freight may result next week.

Corcoran and Paul A. H. Shults, acting area office of price administration director, thru whose agency the coupons are issued, expressed concern because of the operators' delay. As of midnight tonight the old TT type coupons will be worthless and filling station owners have been instructed not to accept them. Notice that the new type would be necessary was given nearly a month ago. There are 55,000 trucks in the area.

Foresees Freight Tie-Up.

"Thousands of tons of freight may pile up on shipping docks Monday if these operators don't hurry," Corcoran said. "Most of the big freight lines that engage largely in over the road hauling have obtained their new coupons, but the smaller operators, grocers, movers, coal dealers and dyers and cleaners have been slow. There are barely enough trucks now to handle the job and if a few thousand are laid up a serious situation will result."

Shults said 50 clerks were available to handle the expected rush for coupons.

"Even if we get a tremendous last minute rush we will not fall more than a day behind," he said. "In an emergency we will call in clerks from the local boards. We will be open all day tomorrow to handle applications."

Apply at Local Boards.

Altho the coupons will be issued from the main OPA office at 228 North La Salle street and delivered by mail, application will have to be made at the local boards as in the past, Shults said. The requests will be certified by the local boards to the main office.

The Chicago Motor club also issued a warning to truckers to obtain coupons or risk having their trucks stranded next week for lack of fuel. Many truckers, the club said, are under the impression that coupons will be mailed to them automatically as was done in many cases in 1943.

BON AMI.

A report on the Bon Ami company will be appreciated. E. Z.

ANSWER: The company, founded in 1886, manufactures a widely advertised compound for cleaning and polishing glass, tile, procelain, metalware, and other surfaces. Factories are operated at Manchester, Conn.; Montreal, Canada, and Sydney, Australia. Subsidiaries carry on mining operations for the principal raw material, feldspar, in New Hampshire and North Carolina.

Bon Ami company has had an exceptionally steady earnings record. In the period from 1929 to 1942 the peak net income was $1,481,772, and the low was $1,003,090.

Net income and per share earnings for the years 1938 to 1942 were:

	Net income.	Cl. A.	Cl. B.	partic.
		—Per share—		*Cl. A
1942	$1,121,655	$11 86	$3.11	$5.29
1941	1,262,949	13.35	3.46	6.03
1940	1,339,593	14.16	3.65	6.44
1939	1,481,772	15.67	4.01	7.19

Outstanding capitalization consists of 94,583 shares of class A and 200,000 shares of class B stock, both no par. The class A is entitled to preferential noncumulative dividends of $4 a share annually. After the holders of the class B stock have received $2.50 a share as dividends in any calendar year, all further dividend payments must be distributed equally between the A and B stocks, each considered as a class.

Dividends have been paid each year since 1909. Distributions for 1942 and 1943 were at the rate of $4 a share on the A stock and $2.50 on the B.

STOCK PRICES RISE IN MILLION SHARE TRADING

Gains of $1 to $7 Are Recorded.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—The stock market, paced by liquors and specialties, today had its best rally in about six months and the heaviest dealings since early December.

Prices improved from the start and, at the close, gains of 1 to 7 points were widely distributed. Low priced issues were prominent and made fractional advances. The most active issue was United Gas Improvement, which opened up ⅛ on a 45,000 share block and finished with a net rise of ¼ at 2⅝, a peak for 1943.

Calling off of the railway strike and hopes for adjustment of the steel wage dispute again were bolstering factors. In addition, investment demand picked up appreciably and a bulge in commodities inspired a little inflationary buying.

Largest Trade Since Dec. 8.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.7 of a point at 49.7, largest gain since Aug. 3. Transfers of 1,143,150 shares compared with 997,150 yesterday and were the largest since Dec. 8.

American Distilling "plain" was up 4¾ and the "stamped" issue rose 7 on rumors that some states would ease regulations to permit the shareholders to collect declared whisky dividends. Schenley was up 2.

New highs for the year were posted for R-K-O preferred, up 4⅝; Waukesha Motors, up 1⅝; Delaware and Hudson, up ¾; Studebaker, up ⅝, and Sears-Roebuck, up ½.

Aided by Stock Plan.

United Gas Improvement was aided by approval of distribution of its Delaware Power common and the proposal for a reduction of its capital stock from 35 million shares to 3,500,000. Elimination of all back dividends on the Radio-Keith-Orpheum senior issue enabled this stock to cross par.

An exchange seat sold for $43,000, an increase of $3,000 over the last transfer. High price for a membership this year was $48,000 and low $28,000.

BOND MARKET ACTIVE

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—A strong rally in all types of rails today resulted in the most active bond market in nearly two months.

A wide variety of carrier loans ended 1 to 3 points higher and altho gains were much smaller in other groups prices generally were strong. Sales in many individual bonds ranged from $100,000 to more than $500,000, boosting the turnover in all groups to $12,463,100, the largest since Nov. 9.

The Associated Press average of 20 rails established a new 1943 high at 79.5, up 0.7, reflecting mounting enthusiasm for carrier loans in the wake of the removal of any possibility of a strike. Some financial quarters expected an early return of the carriers to their private owners if the government becomes satisfied that service will be maintained without interruption during the war period.

CHICAGO STOCKS RALLY.

In a broad rally on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, Cities Service registered an advance of 1⅜ on transactions of 3,000 shares. Chicago corporation, Commonwealth Edison, and Omnibus attracted buyers at fractionally higher prices. Omnibus sold at a new high for the year. Goldblatt Brothers and Studebaker attained new peaks.

BUICK PRODUCES BIG VOLUME OF PLANE MOTORS

Flint, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP).—Harlow H. Curtice, general manager of the Buick division of General Motors corporation, said today his company has produced enough Pratt & Whitney twin-row Wasp engines to power more than 8,000 Liberator bombers.

Curtice said shipments to the army air forces since the first engine was turned out by Buick in January, 1942, have aggregated 33,027 engines, of which 24,626 were shipped in 1943.

He said actual production exceeded these figures, explaining that the excess is represented in engines awaiting official acceptance and shipment to the army.

CARTRIDGE FIRM MAKES REFUND OF 20 MILLIONS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 30 (AP).—Col. Merle H. Davis, chief of the St. Louis ordnance district, announced today Western Cartridge company voluntarily had refunded 20 million dollars it viewed as excess profits on its 1943 war materiel contracts.

A check for half that amount was given to Col. Davis. Company officers notified him a similar refund was made to the ordnance district at Springfield, Mass., by the Winchester Repeating Arms division of the company at New Haven, Conn.

Foote Brothers Employes Reach Million Gear Goal

Achievement of a goal set early this year—to manufacture one million high precision gears in 1943—was realized by employes of the Foote Brothers Gear and Machine corporation, company officials announced yesterday. The gears are used in aircraft engines.

Zenith Radio Profits Gain in Six Months

Zenith Radio corporation's estimated net profit during the six months ended Oct. 31 was $1,300,121, or $2.64 a share, compared with $1,055,706, or $2.14 a share, in the corresponding period last year, E. F. McDonald Jr., president, reported yesterday.

The profit was determined after deducting $2,072,787, or 61 per cent of taxable earnings, for federal income and excess profits taxes, compared with $954,403 in the 1942 period.

"The company is continuing its high rate output of war equipment," McDonald said. "Additional orders are being received for this equipment, a large part of which has been developed, in whole or in part, in the company's own laboratories. Public acceptance of the recently introduced low-cost radionic hearing aid has justified the management's decision to place this instrument on the market now instead of after the war."

Chain Belt Earns Less.

Chain Belt company and subsidiaries reported a profit of $863,625, equal to $1.77 a share on the capital stock, during the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, compared with $912,609, or $1.87 a share, in the preceding 12 months. Net sales totaled $27,049,942, against $19,373,388.

Federal and state taxes on income, after deducting a post-war credit of $550,000, totaled $6,115,000, equal to 77 per cent of earnings.

Beech Aircraft corporation's net income for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 increased to $4,035,965, equal to $10.08 a share, from $1,802,980, or $4.50 a share, in the preceding year after renegotiation adjustment. Federal taxes on income were $10,438,260 after applying the post-war credit, compared with $6,476,450 a year earlier.

MAGUIRE PLANS EARLY ANSWER TO OPPONENTS

William G. Maguire, president of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, yesterday promised an early reply to criticisms of the management contained in a letter to stockholders signed by A. Faison Dixon of New York, vice president and director, and two other stockholders.

In answer to the demand of Dixon and associates for the ousting of Maguire as president, Maguire said he will seek to prevent the re-election of Dixon to his present posts.

Besides objecting to payments made to Maguire by the two companies during 1943, the opposing group charges he "is planning a method whereby he can obtain control of Panhandle Eastern" along with plans to liquidate Mokan, now being studied by a committee headed by Maguire.

PRESSMEN RE-ELECT PRESENT OFFICERS TO NEW 4-YEAR TERMS

All officers of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America have been elected for another four year term thru a referendum nomination in which approximately 600 local unions in the United States and Canada participated, the organization announced yesterday.

The officers are: George L. Berry, Pressman's Home, Tenn., president; William H. McHugh, Indianapolis; F. W. Maxted, Hamilton, Ont.; J. H. de la Rosa, San Francisco, and Jacob B. Boscoe, Minneapolis, vice presidents; Joseph C. Orr, Pressman's Home, secretary-treasurer, and Otto Huber, Denver; E. Curtis White, Indianapolis; Anthony DeAndrade, Boston, and Louis A. Lopez, Washington, D. C., trustees.

A statement by President Berry said, "If we are to save America from the more violent effects of the post-war period, we must all come to understand the inescapable community of interest which exists between the investor, management, and labor in the promotion of a stable and prosperous industry, and from it, of course, will come a stable government."

COURT WILL CONTROL N. W. RAILROAD UNTIL TRUSTEE IS SELECTED

As a result of the death of former Judge Charles M. Thomson, trustee of the Chicago and North Western Railway company, Federal District Judge John P. Barnes yesterday directed the company to operate the railroad under the direction of the court and subject to the orders of Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, pending the appointment of a successor trustee. Judge Barnes set a hearing on the appointment for Jan. 7. R. L. Williams is chief executive officer of the road.

The court also ordered that, inasmuch as the plan for the reorganization of the road had been confirmed, the company shall immediately take all necessary action in coöperation with the reorganization managers to put it into effect. Judge Barnes issued an order restraining the company and its officers, directors, and attorneys from taking any action in opposition to the plan in any other court. The plan excludes the present preferred and common stocks from participation in the reorganized company.

TRUCK TERMINAL TO SPEED NAVY, ARMY FREIGHT

Designed to reduce delays in handling 3 to 4 million pounds of army and navy freight daily in Chicago, the large facilities of the Denver-Chicago Trucking company at 3030 South Ashland avenue will go into operation Monday morning as a consolidated truck terminal.

Col. Dan A. Hardt, commanding the 6th zone transportation office, said all loads of 6,000 pounds and less will be routed to the new terminal for redistribution to trailers making up loads of about 20,000 pounds. Loads of more than 6,000 pounds will continue to be routed into the terminal at 2035 Pershing road.

Operation of the Ashland avenue terminal will be in the hands of the American Transportation company. Harry F. Chaddick, president, said the company has undertaken to handle the terminal without charge to trucking companies using it. Capt. Reed M. Titus of the 6th zone transportation corps will be in charge.

WEST. ELECTRIC RENTS SPACE TO AID PRODUCTION

The Western Electric company has leased 200,000 square feet of floor space in two industrial buildings in Lincoln, Neb., to augment the war production capacity of its Hawthorne works in Chicago, the company announced yesterday. The unit will require 2,000 workers.

The expansion of the company's war production has grown beyond present facilities which include three main manufacturing plants at Chicago, Kearney, N. J., and Baltimore, Md., and numerous distributing houses thruout the country. The company, peace time manufacturer of telephone equipment, is engaged in the large scale manufacture of military communications equipment.

PRICES OF HOGS FIRM, RECEIPTS CROWD MARKETS

The hog market was congested again yesterday as farmers sold in larger volume than a week ago. Packers bought all they could handle at mostly steady prices, but about 8,000 farmer-owned hogs were unsold at the close of trading, most of them being 200 to 300 pounders eligible for government support at $13.75 per hundred pounds.

Few changes occurred in the markets for other classes of meat animals. Best steers and yearlings sold steady to strong, but others, as well as beef cows, canners, cutters, bulls and calves were steady to weak. Lambs brought mostly steady prices. Top loads sold at $15.10, best old ewes at $7.50.

Clear Officials of Charge Alton Was Mismanaged

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, owner of the stock of the Alton railroad, were cleared of misrepresentation and mismanagement charges in a report filed yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes by Henry A. Gardner, Alton trustee. The report came after an investigation of the management of the Alton during the years after the purchase of its stock until Nov. 25, 1942, when a voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in its behalf.

Army Backs Bendix Denial of CIO Charge

A formal statement of Bendix Aviation corporation's products division management at South Bend, Ind., issued yesterday, asserted that the big war plant is producing all that is demanded of it for winning the war. The statement was issued in answer to criticisms of the management by employes, including many members of Bendix Local 9 of the CIO United Automobile Workers union.

Confirmation of the company's statement that it has met all production schedules for aircraft equipment at South Bend came from the army air forces.

Makes Bomber Turrets.

The plant is producing machine gun turrets for Flying Fortresses, pressure carburetors for combat planes and bombers, and many other plane and engine parts.

At a recent union meeting, employes of the war plant asked the war labor board to investigate the workers' charges of mismanagement. These had described the management as "dawdling and blundering along on a haphazard, catch as catch can basis." Belief was indicated that all Bendix contracts with the government are on a cost plus basis. They pictured a management either not interested in how much it was costing to produce—or a management which was deliberately running up the cost plus price to the government and tax payers.

No Cost Plus Contracts.

But Malcolm P. Ferguson, vice president of Bendix Aviation corporation said the corporation has no cost plus contracts with the government or any one else. Discussing the company's prices, contracts, schedules, performance, and production, Ferguson said:

"The army air forces assigned Bendix the job of designing a special chin turret for Flying Fortresses. This was a tremendous job, an entirely new design, involving many new problems. Nevertheless, we met the demands and got into production four months earlier than the delivery date originally talked about.

"Bendix has since accepted new stepped up delivery schedules for these turrets.

"Bendix has no cost-plus contracts. The contract for chin turrets is on a fixed price basis. Profit and loss are the company's risk. But Bendix already has voluntarily reduced the price to the government by more than 10 per cent.

Output Rises 50 Per Cent.

"Bendix this November produced 50 per cent more turrets of all types than we did in January of this year, and 400 per cent more than in January, 1942."

Ferguson said the company thru its engineers during the years 1932 to 1938 developed a new "pressure principle" of aircraft carburetor. He continued:

"We have no cost-plus contracts on these carburetors either; they are all on a fixed price basis. Prices have been voluntarily reduced up to 20 per cent and more."

The army air forces gave the following explanation of the difference between cost plus and fixed price contracts:

"A cost plus contract is one whereby the government purchases either services or articles from a contractor at an estimated cost, in addition to which the government agrees to pay a fee based upon a percentage of that estimated cost.

"A fixed price contract [also known as a lump sum contract] is one whereby the government purchases either services or articles at an agreed unit price, which includes both the contractor's or seller's cost of performance and an allowance for profit."

MONTH'S ORDERS FOR FURNITURE UP 27 PER CENT

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 30 (AP).—The furniture industry accepted 27 per cent more in orders for new business in November than in October, the monthly report issued today by Seidman & Seidman, accountants for the industry, said.

Part of the increase was attributed to government contracts for low priced furniture for the army and navy.

CHICAGO DOCK LOADS MILLION TONS OF COAL

Midwest Fuel Goes by Lake to Canada.

During its first full year of operation the Rail to Water Transfer company loaded 1,062,000 tons of coal at its docks at 101st street and the Calumet river for shipment in lake steamers to Canada, Barnet L. Rosset, managing director, disclosed yesterday. He predicted that two or three times the amount will be shipped to Canada during the next season.

The company last year installed facilities for the speedy transfer of coal from railroad cars to lake ships. Under the loading system used by the company coal cars are run over a hopper into which coal is dumped. A conveyor picks up the coal from the hopper and raises it to a tower above the lake steamer to be loaded. The coal is conveyed from the tower to the ship by chute.

Rosset said the company is spending about $100,000 to face its docks and make other improvements before the start of the next season.

Largest Part from Illinois.

The coal shipped to Canada comes from Illinois, western Kentucky, and Indiana, with the larger part from Illinois mines, Rosset said. A substantial part of the coal Canada gets is being shipped to make up for coal shipped from western Canadian mines to Oregon and Washington. Canada may get more of the American coal next year.

Rail to Water company is a partnership in which the controling interest is held by Rosset. Minority interests are held by John Sargent of Boston, Mass., a former business associate of Lt. Col. James Roosevelt of the marines, and James Tumulty, in the construction business in Boston and a member of a family prominent in Democratic politics.

Rosset, a Republican, backed Gov. Green in his campaign. He is president of the Metropolitan Trust company and is administrative director of the public administrator's office. The public administrator is appointed by the governor. The appointment is said to be one of the most desirable of those made by the governor.

Disposes of Interest.

Lt. Col. Roosevelt once held a small interest in the company but later disposed of it, Rosset said.

Others who took part in the formation of the company were the late Charles True Adams, an attorney, and Horton Conrad, Chicago coal dealer. Rosset bought out the Adams interest and Conrad left the company.

The service given by the company is said to be of special benefit to Illinois mines, giving them access to markets long dominated by eastern mines. Ships that formerly brought cargoes such as iron ore and paper to Chicago area ports and then left empty now carry coal to Canadian ports. The steamer Chicago Tribune carried 8 cargoes of coal during the last season, which started about May 1 and finished in mid-November. The steamer brought paper to Chicago and returned with coal much needed in Canadian war plants.

ALL EXCHANGES WILL BE CLOSED NEW YEAR'S DAY

Security and commodity exchanges thruout the United States and Canada will be closed tomorrow for the New Year's holiday. Chicago and New York stock exchanges will operate on regular schedules today, but most of the grain and commodity markets will close at noon.

After the early close, an entertainment will be held on the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade. Members of the exchange and their families, the tenants of the building, and their employes and friends will be welcomed by President P. R. O'Brien.

Murray Says Government's Egg Support Pledge Broken

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—Rep. Reid F. Murray [R., Wis.] charged today that the government's failure to support egg prices as pledged farmers by law has thrown markets into chaos and will result in an egg shortage unless corrective measures are taken.

Reid F. Murray.

Murray said in an interview he has received many letters from producers in his home state reporting they are getting as little as two-thirds of parity for their eggs. In some instances wholesalers are refusing to buy eggs because of price uncertainties, he said.

Expects Output to Drop

Price control statutes, Murray said, direct the agriculture department to support egg prices to farmers at 90 per cent of parity by government purchases in the open market, if necessary, but no such action is being taken and egg output faces a serious drop.

The congressman said lightweight hogs also are selling at only two-thirds of parity, or about 8 cents a pound, because of the government's failure to support the market at the legal 90 per cent figure.

"The explanation given for this is that we have too many eggs and too many hogs," Murray said, "but that is no excuse for failing to keep pledges to farmers and to obey the law. Under the New Deal, it is always either too little or too much.

"It is high time the OPA and war food administrators quit figuring out new schemes to waste public funds on far flung subsidies and use their energies and these funds to support egg and pork prices already guaranteed the American farmer. If this is not done, future promises will not be held in proper regard, and the war food program will suffer accordingly."

Reports Price Rise

Farm prices on eggs were reported yesterday to have advanced two cents a dozen in some areas in the midwest as a result of the government's dried egg purchase program. E. O. Pollock, regional director of FDA, said an overabundance of eggs in most midwest market centers had caused big price breaks. WFA commitments in a purchase program for shell eggs to support prices will carry thru June, 1944, he said.

Buying Surge Pushes Grain Prices Higher

Hike Flour Subsidy

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30 (AP).—Increased flour subsidy payments in January, ranging from 4 to 5½ cents a bushel on wheat were announced tonight by the Defense Supplies corporation. The new rates for wheat ground outside the Pacific coast area will be 21 cents a bushel for hard wheat, 9½ cents for soft wheat, and 11½ cents for durum wheat. December payments were 16, 5½, and 6 cents respectively.

Prices of all wheat and rye futures were higher yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat advanced the most, with May 1¼ cents a bushel higher at one time on buying by mills and distillers. Hedging sales developed on the advance, but the close was only slightly below the peak at net gains of ⅛ to 1 cent. Rye was ⅞ to 1 cent higher, oats gained ⅛ cent, and barley was ¼ to ½ cent higher.

Trading in futures was heavy with volume swelled by spreading operations in wheat. Cash interests bought May and sold July wheat, widening the spread to 2½ cents at one time.

Directors of the Board of Trade, after a special meeting, ordered that all contracts calling for delivery of oats in December, outstanding at the close and on which notices of intention to deliver were not given yesterday afternoon, were to be settled at the maximum price established by the temporary maximum price regulation, or 82 cents a bushel. The directors said the action was necessary because of the interference of the price ceiling with the normal movement of oats to Chicago, making it impossible to obtain cash grain for delivery. About 220,000 bushels of oats were involved.

WHO ARE THE PEOPLE?

Those who talk glibly about "the people" seldom mean all the people, but only themselves as opposed to certain other people.

They use a word which is the very opposite of discrimination to conceal the fact that they themselves are seeking to discriminate.

People, in the opinion of this newspaper, means everybody . . . high and low . . . the man at the top and the man at the bottom who seeks to follow his example.

We see nothing criminal in a man who builds a business that gives employment, opportunity and encouragement to others.

PENT-UP GOODS DEMAND IS SET AT 22½ BILLION

Estimate 10 Million Autos Needed.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP).—The post-war committee of the National Association of Manufacturers estimated today that deferred consumer demand for articles now unavailable because of war restrictions is equal to 22½ billion dollars worth of goods, including 10 million automobiles and 20 million radios.

An analysis of trends serving as guides for business planning in the post-war era showed potential buying power as the year ended aggregated 58 billion dollars, including 27 billions in war bonds, 26 billions in individual bank deposits and 5 billions in instalment credit.

Need Washing Machines.

Deferred demand exists for washing machines, nylon stockings, and electric toasters, said Noel Sargent, economist and executive secretary of the N.A.M.

Sargent said that contrasted with normal annual building of 504,000 homes a year, during the first three post-war years more than 1 million would be built annually.

"The question which confronts each manufacturer as well as manufacturers as a whole is the determination of what should be done now, in the light of these expected conditions, to prepare for the post-war period," Sargent said. "This question can be answered only when we have reasonably adequate knowledge of what the post-war conditions may be."

Steel Demand Rises.

He said that in comparison with pre-war exports of 2,435,000 tons of steel, there exists a deferred demand for 17½ million tons; to meet this and domestic requirements steel capacity at present is about 98 million tons annually against 81,619,000 four years earlier.

Facilities for production of aluminum, synthetic rubber, machine tools, and electricity also show large war time gains.

Besides considering the availability of these and other materials, a manufacturer before making definite post-war plans must gauge his markets, taking into account such factors as the massive population shifts that have resulted from the war, Sargent said.

CHICAGO'S PLAN: 2 CONVENTIONS WITHIN 3 WEEKS

City Suggests a Program for Both Parties.

A Chicago citizens' committee, to be named next week, will ask the Republican and Democratic parties to hold their national conventions in the Chicago Stadium, with only a brief interval between the meetings, in order to save expenses and to minimize interference with winning of the war.

The plan was explained yesterday by William J. Hennessy, manager of the convention bureau of the Association of Commerce, who has served as secretary of several citizens' committees for previous conventions. He said the plan worked well here in 1932, when the Republicans met in the Stadium from June 14 to 18 and the Democrats from June 27 to July 2.

Points to Possible Savings.

Large savings of material and man power would be made by using the same system this year, Hennessy said. Both conventions would use the same decorations, platforms, wire facilities, and building crews. Hotels, which are suffering from an acute shortage of help, could get extra workers for two consecutive conventions more readily than for one.

Railroads also would be benefited if they could plan their operations for two consecutive conventions in the same city, Hennessy said. He expressed belief the leaders of both parties are in no mood for unnecessary spending and sideshows that might hamper war work.

Cite Travel Restrictions.

In peace time years national political conventions in Chicago have attracted 25,000 or more visitors, but war time travel restrictions are expected to reduce the crowd to approximately 10,000 this year, Hennessy said. This figure includes 1,058 delegates, 1,058 alternates, 1,000 newspaper men, 500 radio and movie workers, and approximately 500 relatives and friends for each of the principal candidates.

Hennessy said the Chicago business and industrial leaders who will make up the citizens' convention committee expect to have little difficulty in raising funds to meet convention expenses.

In addition to Chicago's overwhelming advantages in travel and hotel facilities, the city's weather in June and early July always has made a strong appeal to men planning national conventions. In June, Chicago's average temperature is 67.4 degrees, and the July average is 73.2. Few other large cities of the nation can match these averages.

Average Chicago Temperatures.

Chicago.	Average maximum.	Average minimum.	Mo. mean.
July	80.4	66.1	73.2
Kansas City, Mo.
June	82.4	65.9	74.2
July	91.1	71.9	81.5
New York, N. Y.
June	77.0	60.5	68.8
July	81.7	65.9	73.8
St. Louis, Mo.
June	83.6	66.4	75.0
July	87.5	70.2	78.8
Philadelphia, Pa.
June	80.4	62.4	71.4
Cleveland, O.
June	75.1	59.8	67.1
July	79.4	64.8	71.4
Detroit, Mich.
June	76.5	58.5	67.5
July	81.6	63.5	72.6

The figures were supplied by O. T. Lay, official in charge of the weather bureau in Chicago.

OCD TO DEDICATE FIRST MEMORIAL PLAQUE SUNDAY

The first OCD memorial plaque in honor of a Chicago soldier killed in action will be dedicated Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at 2756 Madison street. The plaque is in memory of Pvt. Frank H. Judgil, 2746 Madison street, who lost his life in the Philippines on March 27, 1942. More than 30 similar plaques have been erected by the department of streets and electricity at corners closest to the home of dead soldiers.

The Sunday dedication will be conducted by D. W. MacClay, chief of division 4, office of civilian defense for the Chicago metropolitan area. Forges post, American Legion, will provide a firing squad and buglers for the final salute.

To have city squares named in honor of men and women killed in battle, it is necessary to submit names to the OCD, which will verify spelling and obtain other necessary information from the next of kin. Only trolley or street sign poles, traffic light structures, and corner buildings will be used for installation of the plaques.

CHEMICAL FIRM IS FINED ON CHARGE OF MISBRANDING

The Akerite Chemical company, Inc., 6041 Northwest highway, was fined $3,004 by Federal Judge William J. Campbell yesterday on a charge of shipping in interstate commerce an allegedly misbranded drug in violation of the federal food and drug laws. A plea of guilty was entered to the charge by Atty. A. L. Campbell, vice president of the company. He said company officials did not know that the drug contained poison. Government agents contended that the drug, labeled "nontoxic," contained a poison. The drug was sold under the name of Akerite Glycerine substitute.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO WIDOW 90. Mrs. Hattie Laine, 90 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday in her home at 823 North Western avenue. Mrs. Laine, a widow, came to Chicago 50 years ago from Little Rock, Ark.

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

E. M. writes: "Last September we received word from the war department that my brother, who was serving overseas, was missing in action. Before he left this country my brother gave my father power of attorney, and at the same time he filed a class "E" allotment, sending part of his pay to a local bank to be deposited to his account. This money has continued to come thru. My father has been wondering just what routine is followed concerning the balance of his pay. Will the army take care of such matters, or should my father take some action?"

ANSWER: When men are missing in action they are credited with their regular pay, and any allotments which they may have in force are continued. Hence the remainder of your brother's pay, aside from the amount he has allotted to be banked for him, will be credited to his account by the war department without any action by your father.

Mrs. E. W. writes: "I am the mother of four children. My husband and I were divorced a year ago. His wages were very small at that time, so I agreed to accept $40 a month at that time for the support of the children. However, he joined the navy, and since that time I have received nothing. Altho I am working I am having a very difficult time getting along on my small salary. I understand that according to the law, the allowance for a mother and four children would amount to $140 a month. Is there any way in which the navy would make the regular payments for the children, or would I have to go to court? Where shall I write for information concerning this?"

ANSWER: I believe that the navy will take steps to see that your husband will provide the amount ordered by the court, but you cannot obtain the regular allowance without going to court and having the order changed. Write to the bureau of naval personnel, casualties and allotments section, navy department, Washington, D. C. Inclose a certified copy of the court order, plus complete identifying information concerning your husband.

Watchman Found Slain on Floor of Stockroom

Claude Jenning, 48 years old, 4639 Race avenue, was found yesterday lying on the floor of a stockroom in the Crown Stove Works, 4631 12th place, Cicero, dead from a bullet wound in the head. A revolver lay on the floor near him. The dead man worked as a watchman.
